MASSIE CLINGS TO HIS STORY

CRANE ESTATE HAS SHRINKAGE OF $13,500,000

Take Action to Avoid Confiscatory Tax.

The market value of the estate of Richard T. Crane Jr., president of the Crane company, shrank from $19,000,000 on Nov. 7, 1931, the day of his death, to $5,500,000 at present, it was disclosed yesterday when an inventory of the estate was approved by N. J. Bonelli, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner.

N. J. BONELLI.

The federal government, however, insists upon collecting inheritance taxes on the basis of the estate value at the time of death. Were this rule applied strictly on a basis of stock market quotations the federal estate tax would be $3,086,140, it was estimated yesterday. After payment of specific bequests under Mr. Crane's will, this would leave his widow and two children, whom he intended to be his principal heirs, only about half a million dollars.

Will Be Under $3,000,000.

The actual tax placed upon the estate will probably be somewhat under $3,000,000, although still far in excess of the liquid assets of the estate.

Mr. Crane owned 41 per cent of the common stock of the Crane company. This was quoted at 13 on the Chicago Stock exchange on the day of his death, but that quotation was based on the sale of only 40 shares. Federal tax authorities have agreed with attorneys for the estate that obviously it would have been impossible to dispose of the large block held by the estate at that price.

Accordingly, the estate's holdings of Crane stock will be appraised for estate tax purposes by an audit of the company's assets as of Nov. 7, 1931. This is the customary practice in appraising stock for which there is no free and open market.

Values of Stocks.

The quoted values of Mr. Crane's stocks, at the time of his death and at present, follow:

No. shares. Company—	Value Nov. 7.	Value April 18.
986,141 Crane Co. common	$17,750,538	$4,930,705
4,936 Crane Co. pfd	443,623	138,208
986 Canadian Pacific	16,362	12,721
222 Continental Illinois bank	49,506	20,646
100 First Natl. bank of New York	247,600	146,500
50 Illinois Central	10,812	5,062
100 Ill. Cent. pfd.	6,000	1,562
250 Pullman Co.	6,281	4,000
Total	$18,728,672	$5,259,394

Other assets were estimated to be worth in excess of $250,000, and have not changed in value materially since Mr. Crane's death. These include $60,547 in cash, $20,000 in notes of the Crane company, some bonds, and the two Crane estates at Lake Geneva, Wis., and Ipswich, Mass. The town house of the family, at North avenue and Lake Shore drive, belongs to Mrs. Florence Crane, the widow.

Must Delay Payment.

Mark Lowell, vice president of the Continental Illinois bank, which is one of the executors, said yesterday that the estate will not have sufficient cash to pay the bulk of the federal inheritance tax when it becomes due on Nov. 7 of this year. It will, therefore, be compelled to take advantage of the federal law which permits an estate to pay 6 per cent interest on the unpaid balance.

In this way an improvement in business conditions may make it possible for Mrs. Crane and her children, the residual heirs under the will, to receive a substantial portion of their heritage. If it were necessary to liquidate the estate at once and pay $3,086,140 federal estate tax normally assessed on a $19,000,000 estate, they would receive about $500,000. Specific bequests, including stock gifts to some 6,030 employés of the Crane company, alone would require nearly $2,000,000 in stock and cash. Crane company stock sold yesterday at $5 a share.

When the inventory was presented the executors made a request for a preliminary award of $250,000. This was taken under advisement.

Computation of state inheritance taxes will be one of the most involved tasks ever presented to the state inheritance tax department, Harry A. Ash, assistant attorney general in charge of the department, said yesterday. This is because the number of legatees is the largest in any estate ever probated in Cook county.

Naval Officer Cool Under Attack.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

HONOLULU, April 18.—Out of the shadows of rumor and gossip that have hung over Honolulu like a dark cloud for months, and from depths of slander and intrigue unparalleled in any community, the plain and frank story of how Joseph Kahahawai met his death in the residence of Mrs. Granville Fortescue last Jan. 8 now lies before the jury. It was revealed at the murder trial in which this former social leader, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas Massie, U. S. N., and Albert O. Jones and E. J. Lord, naval enlisted men, are the defendants.

It has all come from the lips of the young husband who emerges in the reality of an appealing story on the witness stand as a pathetic figure—one who has gone through a crucifixion which comes to few men in this world of sorrow.

Insanity Phase Is Next.

Little mystery remains and the motives have been revealed. The methods used in the bungled climax have been told and confessed. It remains to be seen whether the jury will accept the legal excuse of insanity of Lieut. Massie. The insanity phase will probably come as the next feature of the trial.

The alienists for the defense are ready to let him follow the long trail of men who have killed because their wives were raped and were set free.

This, however, is Honolulu where "dementia Americana" and insanity defenses are something new and the result cannot be predicted.

Prosecutor John C. Kelley completed a three hour cross-examination of Massie today. He failed to shake the naval officer's story.

Pieces Story Together.

The examination of Massie was peculiar in that it proved the medium by which the whole story was revealed. Massie pieced it together in answers to questions. He related what others had told him had happened after his mind "went blank" and his finger pulled the trigger. The shot which he fired entered the breast of the Hawaiian whom he believed guilty of the attack on his wife, Thalia.

Massie's answers to Kelley's questions brought to light the wild scene following the killing. Whether Mrs. Fortescue and the other defendants will take the stand is now uncertain.

In the course of today's examination United States navy correspondence on the Honolulu situation was introduced by reference, although it was not permitted to be read. An incident in Massie's life in which a kidnaping charge was made against the lieutenant and his young wife in 1927 was also brought into the case. Other wild parties than the one which preceded the rape were hinted at.

The Kidnaping Story.

The kidnaping story told by Massie at the suggestion of Kelley was traced back to the afternoon of Aug. 27, 1927, at Patchogue, Long Island, near Bayport, when Massie and his wife attended a movie. They did not like it and walked out. They saw a baby crying in a carriage near the door and took the child for a little ride down the block in its carriage in order to quiet it.

The baby's Italian mother, Massie said, frantically came after her child in a few minutes, screaming that the Massies were trying to steal the child. The case was satisfactorily explained, Lieut. Massie said, and there was no prosecution.

This period in Massie's life was while he was at Annapolis and on leave at the home of Mrs. Fortescue, a rambling mid-Victorian structure on Long Island sound. Mrs. Fortescue at that time was active in social affairs and was the leader of a movement for national prohibition reform.

Clears His Friend.

Massie today also definitely cleared Lieut. Branson, his friend, and his companion at the Ala Wai inn party, of any blame and stigma in connection with the rumors to which the witness had testified previously — rumors which the naval officer had termed "the vilest" about his wife, himself and Lieut. Branson.

Prosecutor Kelley jumped from one angle to another, apparently seeking some way to trap the witness. Frequently Massie responded to the barrage of questions with:

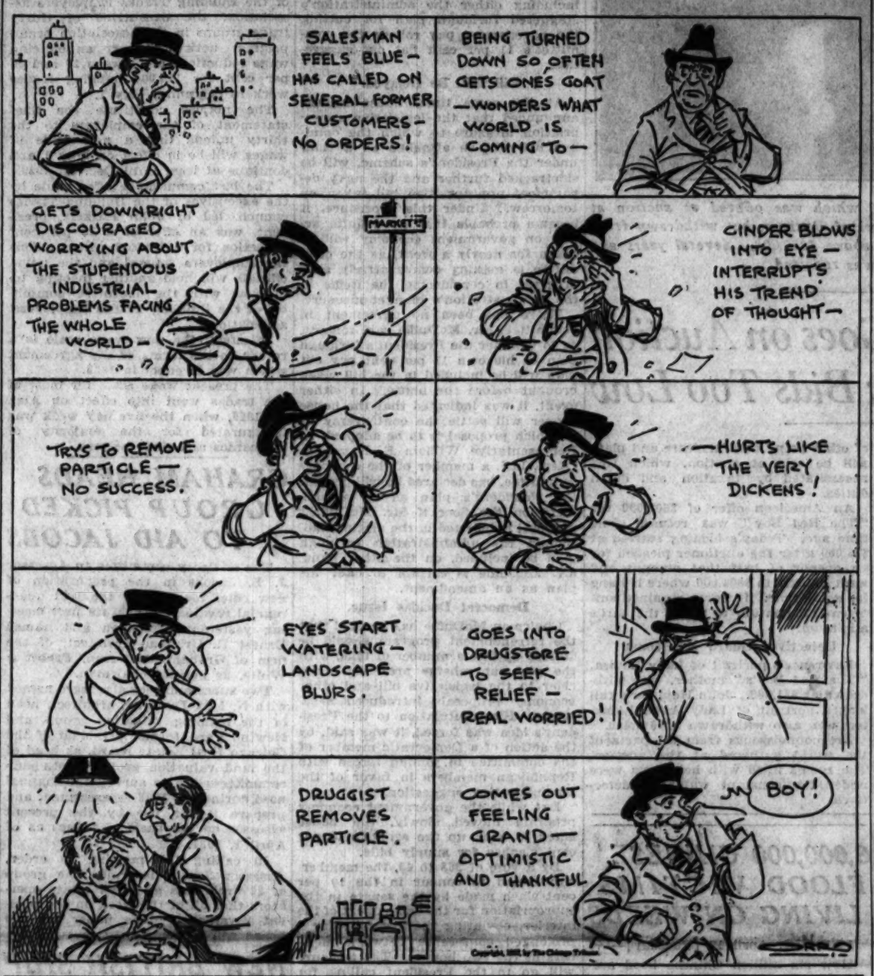

"I don't recall."

Kelley sarcastically repeated this

Mills Offers New Plan to Raise Billion

BIG AND LITTLE WORRIES

ROBBER'S ARM IS A BIT TOO SHORT; HE LOSES $2,700

Five armed men last night raided the office of the Pie Bakers of America, 1751 West Austin avenue, and after terrorizing twenty employés escaped with $380. They failed to get an additional $2,700 because the leading bandit's arm was too short to reach it.

When the robbers entered, a number of drivers were handing their collections in to Frank Sleicher, 5248 Parker avenue, the cashier. While the rest of the band held up the drivers and other employés, the leader covered Sleicher with a shotgun. When the latter elevated his hands the bandit chief reached into the cage and took the $380. He was unable to get the larger sum and was in such a hurry that he ran out without waiting to order Sleicher to hand it over.

The automobile in which the robbers escaped was identified as one stolen several days ago from J. H. Schwelmm, 6237 Lakewood avenue. The Pie Bakers plant was robbed of $4,000 about two months ago.

GAMBLING CASINO AT MONTE CARLO OMITS DIVIDEND

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MONTE CARLO, April 18.—For the first time in its history, the Casino company, which had its annual board meeting today, decided to pass its dividend because of diminished profits. Usually it declared a dividend varying from 100 to 200 per cent. The balance sheet for the fiscal year just ended shows $1,379,000 net profit against $2,245,800 for the preceding year.

The passing of the dividend already has been discounted on the Paris bourse, where Casino shares have lost much ground. They were quoted Saturday at $108, which compares sadly with $472 during the Casino's heyday.

To offset the dimished receipts, the Casino is now offering attractions formerly scorned, such as slot machines in the lobby, reduced entrance fees to private rooms and is running a chemin de fer game in the public rooms.

CARPENTER FINDS $44,000 IN BUREAU HE IS REPAIRING

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, April 18.—(AP)—A business man in the village of Berisso, near here, bought a second hand bureau from a furniture dealer recently and hired a carpenter to repair it.

Today the carpenter found a secret drawer containing 175,000 pesos [$44,000], and immediately there arose a dispute which the police had to stop.

While the officers were trying to trace the former owner of the bureau the business man and the carpenter vanished with the $44,000.

Russians Get War Threat from Japan

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, April 18.—A foreign office spokesman today warned Moscow of the danger of war if there is any recurrence of alleged soviet inspired outrages against Japan in Manchuria. The spokesman referred specifically to the wrecking of a troop train near Harbin recently, in which 14 Japanese soldiers were killed, responsibility for which Japan flatly charged to Russia.

"It is idle for Japan to shut her eyes to the fact that the Russians are dissatisfied with what has been done in north Manchuria, which they regard as their sphere of influence," the spokesman declared. "The Russians have repeatedly declared that they have no intention of taking the offensive against Japan, but it seems that they are now adopting provocative measures. If these acts continue, Japan's hand may be forced.

Clash May Result.

"While Japan has no intention of attacking, a clash may result from various reasons. A clash between the Russians and the Manchoukuo [the new name of the state set up by Japan in Manchuria] army, as in 1929, may occur, and this might easily result in a Russo-Japanese clash. Manchoukuo has 100,000 troops."

The spokesman pointed out that it must be remembered that while Japan is not sending new troops to the Siberian border, the Russians are continuing to concentrate their forces. He declared that Japanese military experts estimate that the soviet forces on the Manchurian frontier between Vladivostok and Manchuli now number nine divisions, a total of 70,000 men. He said the experts have reported that the disposition of these troops clearly indicates that the Russians expect a clash with Japan.

Moscow Strikes Back.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, April 18.—There is no doubt of growing soviet irritation over what is happening in Manchuria, and no doubt, either, in the soviet mind, as to who is responsible.

Under the headline "Chain of Provocation and Deceit" the newspaper Isvestia, official government mouthpiece, today published an editorial even stronger in its terms than was the recent outburst of the communist party organ, Pravda. Isvestia said:

"It is perfectly clear that the campaign of anti-soviet military propaganda now being carried on in Japan aims at preparing Japanese public opinion for a further extension of military aggression. We declare for all to hear that the Japanese people are being duped in order to lead them with bandaged eyes to meet new catastrophes."

Cites Campaign of Slander.

Isvestia declares that the aim of Japanese military circles to provoke Russia is shown in provocative acts of Russian "white guards" and Chinese, at Japan's behest, against soviet citizens and property in Manchuria, in wide publication in the Japanese press of anti-soviet "slanders" and bogus interviews, and in persistent refusal to print soviet denials and explanations.

It is noteworthy that Isvestia's tone, like that of Pravda, shows irritation rather than anxiety. Soviet officials say they are getting tired of the "slander campaign" and of bland Japanese replies to repeated protests against ill treatment of soviet citizens in Manchuria, which, they assert, the Japanese could prevent if they wished.

League Forced Into New Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, April 18.—The big powers in the league of nations assembly's committee of 19, which is charged with getting the Shanghai district evacuated by Japanese troops, found themselves again today prodded into relative action by their little brothers.

The committee decided that the league should undertake the responsibility of deciding when the Japanese evacuation should be completed. A mixed commission, which will be set up at Shanghai with the United States as a member, is to recommend when the time is ripe for evacuation.

Help for All in Slump Asked by Roosevelt

O. K.'s State Rum Rule

Boston, Mass., April 18.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt today declared himself definitely in favor of returning liquor control to the states and gave reassurance that he had not changed his previously expressed opinion on prohibition. His statements were contained in a telegram made public by the Liberal Civic league.

The league had asked Roosevelt to clarify his stand on prohibition to meet charges that he was a "dry" candidate and would be under controlling obligation to the "dry" element in the Democratic party if he were nominated for the presidency by his party.

In answering the appeal Roosevelt said:

"Please consider I still maintain 100 per cent my earlier expression of opinion favoring the return of control of intoxicants to the several states. That is definite. I have on so many occasions agreed with your statement that the time has come for definite action."

St. Paul, Minn., April 18.—[Special.]—Referring to Alfred E. Smith as "my distinguished predecessor," Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt tonight made an indirect reply to charges made by the former governor that he was a "demagogue" seeking to array class against class.

While more than 5,000 persons crowded St. Paul's new municipal auditorium to attend a Jefferson day dinner, Gov. Roosevelt enlarged upon his declaration of two weeks ago which drew an attack from Mr. Smith and concluded his plea for a "policy that seeks to help all simultaneously" rather than class control with the challenge, "if that be treason make the most of it."

Defends Speech Smith Assailed.

Gov. Roosevelt referred only once directly to former Gov. Smith, and then in a complimentary manner. But he defended his address of two weeks ago which Smith assailed at the Jefferson day banquet at Washington.

"I plead not for a class control, but for the true concert of interests," Gov. Roosevelt said, giving his economic views.

"I favor economic planning, not for this period alone, but for our needs for a long time to come."

After quoting his distant relative, the late Theodore Roosevelt, that America should not favor one class against another, the governor added:

"It is to this national community of interests that we should dedicate ourselves."

Pays Tribute to Three Americans.

Gov. Roosevelt paid tribute to three Americans "who chiefly stand out for the universality of their interest and of their knowledge"—Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, and Theodore Roosevelt. He said all sympathized with the problems of the common man.

"It is only in a crisis that we look to our common concerns," Gov. Roosevelt said. "Two weeks ago I said that we were facing an emergency today more grave than war. This I repeat tonight.

"That a great fear has swept the country few can doubt. Normal times lull us into complacency. We become lazy and contented. Then with the coming of economic stress we feel the disturbing hand of fear. This fear spreads to the entire country and with more or less unity we turn to our common government at Washington.

REJECTS MOST DRASTIC TAXES VOTED BY HOUSE

Levies on Gasoline and Stock Sales.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—As a result of the movement initiated by conservative senators for modification of the radical features of the house tax bill, Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills transmitted to the finance committee late today a revised treasury program for raising a billion dollars to balance the budget.

The Mills program proposes to knock out the extreme boosts in normal income tax rates, surtax taxes, corporation income taxes, and estate taxes forced through the house by the insurgent coalition and restore these taxes to the level of 1924 rates as originally proposed by the treasury. On taxing stock sales the secretary would compromise. The house bill provides a tax of ¼ of 1 per cent, but not less than 4 cents a share. Mr. Mills would make it a straight 4 cents a share.

Urges Tax on Gasoline.

Mr. Mills rejects a majority of the excise taxes in the house bill, but domestic gasoline, which is not taxed in the house bill, he would tax ¾ of 1 cent a gallon.

The letter of the treasury secretary submitting his revised recommendations reached the committee at the close of a hearing at which representatives of the automobile manufacturers had testified the taxes on automobiles and trucks contained in the house bill would be ruinous to the industry and would hamper the economic recovery of the nation.

Mills' New Tax Proposals.

The taxes Mr. Mills now proposes, together with his estimated yield from each, may be summarized as follows:

Estimates of additional revenue, in millions of dollars, for the fiscal year 1933:

INCOME TAXES.
Corporation—
Increase in rate from 12 to 13¾ and elimination of present exemption of $3,000, effective beginning with incomes for calender year 1932	25

Deficiency to be met by reduced expenditures	308

*Assuming collections beginning May 1, 1933; previous estimate assumed earlier effective date. †Assuming tax effective beginning July 1, 1932. ‡Exclusive of statutory debt retirement.

Proposals Little Changed.

Mr. Mills' program does not differ much from the last recommendations he submitted to the house ways and means committee. It is now too late, he says, to apply income taxes retroactively to 1931 incomes, but the loss occasioned thereby will be offset by "tightening of the law through administrative changes."

The secretary now believes that it will be possible to reduce government expenditures 300 millions instead of the 120 millions he originally estimated and by virtue of this additional saving and the tax on malt sirup and wort he sees his way clear to proposing a tax of ⅝ of 1 cent instead of one cent a gallon on gasoline.

For the first time a gift tax appears in the treasury program "as a safeguard to the integrity of the income and estate taxes, though it cannot be looked upon as a strictly revenue producing measure," Mr. Mills said.

The house bill provided normal individual income tax rates of 2, 4, and 7 per cent. Mr. Mills would make them 2, 4 and 6 per cent. He accepts the house provision starting surtax rates at 1 per cent over $6,000. Instead of a maximum surtax rate of 40 per cent on incomes above $100,000, as provided by the house bill, Mr. Mills proposes 42 per cent on incomes above $500,000.

The secretary would increase the corporation income tax from the present 12 to 13 per cent instead of the 13¾ per cent in the house bill, but whereas the house proposed to reduce the present $3,000 exemption to $1,000, Mr. Mills would eliminate the exemption altogether.

The house bill proposed taxes on estates rising to a maximum of 45 per cent on estates over 10 millions in addition to present estate taxes, with an exemption of $50,000. Mr. Mills reverts to his original recommendation based on the 1921 estate tax with a maximum of 25 per cent on estates over 10 millions.

Where Two Plans Differ.

Articles not taxed in the house bill on which Mr. Mills would impose taxes are tobacco, checks and drafts, and domestic gasoline. Articles taxed in the house bill which Mr. Mills would not tax are sales of bonds, security issues, sales of produce, lubricating oil, imported gasoline, imported coal, cosmetics, furs, jewelry, sporting goods, beverages, matches, chewing gum, mechanical refrigerators, candy, safety deposit boxes, yachts and motorboats, pipe line oil, and firearms.

In compliance with a request made in the committee by Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] Mr. Mills included an alternative plan making only minor changes in the bill passed by the house, but he emphasized that it does not represent his views of a "proper revenue measure."

Submits Alternative Plan.

In the alternative plan Mr. Mills retains the house individual income tax provisions estimated to yield 122 millions, but substitutes his own corporation income tax, estate and gift tax proposals. Then he retains most of the manufacturers' excise taxes of the house bill and the stamp taxes. Thus amended the house bill would produce 1 billion 37 millions, leaving a deficit of 204 millions to be met by economies in expenditures.

Senator Harrison, who had previously denounced Mills' "unhelpful attitude" in not sending down a specific tax proposal to the finance committee, today refused to comment on the proposal until, he said, he had fully analyzed it.

"I am glad to see," he remarked, "that Secretary Mills has at last complied with our committee request."

Auto Business Off 64 Per Cent.

Pleading that the automobile industry is "sicker than it has ever been since its start," George M. Graham, vice president of Rockne Motors, and representative for the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, told the committee that the business had dropped 55 per cent from 1929 to 1931, and that this March, as against a five year average for March, that drop had fallen still further to 64 per cent.

"And so you see, gentlemen," he said, "why I am here protesting the proposed tax on motor cars, trucks and accessories."

The proposed tax, he argued, is discriminatory, would seriously affect wages and employment of the approximately four million men who, directly or indirectly make their living in the industry, and would greatly impede any economic recovery on the part of a sick industry that represents one-eleventh of all the gainfully employed in the United States.

As he listed the sick symptoms in the trade Mr. Graham told how the aggregate direct employment had dropped from 590,709 to 340,000 and that many of these latter were now on part time. The pay roll, in the same period, 1929 to 1931, has fallen from $1,028,791,000 to 453 million dollars.

Ford, Sloan, Chrysler Agree.

As he spoke, from various corners of the crowded room, motor magnates nodded their heads. There was Edsel Ford, president of the Ford company; Alfred P. Sloan Jr., Walter Chrysler, and Roy Chapin, among others who were present but did not testify.

After the automobile men, various other representatives came before the committee to urge the abolition of the particular tax affecting their particular industry. Most of these witnesses suggested, as a substitute, a general sales tax.

Frank D. Scott, counsel for the Radio Manufacturers association, reported a 50 per cent mortality in radio factories, with now less than 150 concerns manufacturing radio sets.

The day of the high priced set has gone into history, the radio witnesses declared, and "now we must make our sales to the poor man." Therefore a tax, they argued, is unfair to the poor man because it will have to be passed on to the consumer "since our differential between profit and loss is now so small."

Charles S. Dewey came from Chicago on behalf of the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company to protest a tax on soap, maintaining that it was a tax on health and on cleanliness, and that soap is an essential to the laboring man.

And so with clocks and cosmetics, malt sirup and coal and grain transactions.

FAMOUS PAINTING WITHDRAWN

"The Red Boy," by Lawrence, which was offered at auction at Lambton castle, the home of the earl of Durham, but withdrawn from sale when the bidding failed to go above $350,000. Several years ago an offer of $750,000 for the picture was reported.

'The Red Boy' Goes on Auction Block; No Sale; Bids Too Low

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 18.—The most valuable child portrait in England went under the hammer at ancient Lambton castle today at an auction of family treasures belonging to the young earl of Durham. It was Sir Thomas Lawrence's "The Red Boy," but was withdrawn from sale because the top bid of $361,000 did not reach the minimum figure set by the earl.

The earl sat on a balcony screened by an iron grill from the 3,000 bidders seated in the castle's great dining hall. The picture has hung in the castle for 105 years and ever since the artist executed the portrait for a fee of $3,000.

Taxation Forces Auction.

The subject was Master Lambton, son of the first earl of Durham. Not only the masterpiece but a number of other paintings, furniture and plate will be sold at auction, which was necessitated by taxation and death duties.

An American offer of $608,000 for "The Red Boy" was refused some time ago. Today's bidding started at $38,000 after the auctioneer pleaded for an opener of half that amount and went quickly to $304,000 where it hung for some time. It never regained sufficient momentum to reach the earl's minimum.

Detectives Guard Heirlooms.

Lawrence's portrait of Lady Louisa. "The Red Boy's" mother, was withdrawn at $31,300. John Hoppner's full length portrait of Lady Anne Lambton was also withdrawn at $37,400.

Art connoisseurs from all parts of the world gathered at the auction. The rooms filled with heirlooms were under the constant watch of detectives.

3 DIE, 4 INJURED AS ITALIAN PLANE CRASHES INTO SEA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 18.—The third serious accident in the last week overtook Italian aviation at Orbetella this afternoon when a heavy seaplane, piloted by Lieut. Col. Guascone Guasconi, and carrying six other men, capsized in the sea. Col. Guasconi and two others were killed. The four others in the plane were injured. Col Guasconi was one of Italy's representatives in the Schneider cup races at Norfolk, Va., in 1926.

The big seaplane was dropping in an attempt to alight on the water when one wing dipped into a wave and caused the plane to overturn. It is thought that Col. Guasconi misjudged the distance.

A week ago two bombing planes crashed in midair over a field near Milan, resulting in the death of seven men and a few days later two men lost their lives in an accident near Rome.

BRITAIN ADOPTS "EGG BOMB" TO HUNT CRIMINALS

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 18.—The chief weapon in England's new war against automobile bandits will be a secret "egg bomb," with which every policeman will be provided. The missile, invented by a former army officer, contains adhesive chemicals and contaminates everything it hits on explosion. Occupants of a car struck by an egg bomb will be indelibly marked. It is understood that the bomb also leaves a decided odor.

TWO HELD IN LIQUOR CASE.

6,000,000 CHINESE FLOOD VICTIMS LIVING ON WEEDS

PEIPING, April 19 [Tuesday]—(AP)—How six million Chinese flood sufferers in the Hwei river valley north of Anhwei are existing chiefly on grass and bark, while some are being sold in a human market, was brought to the attention of the League of Nations' Manchurian commission here today. The affected area was estimated at twice the size of New York state.

The chief supply of food has been relief wheat from the United States, but owing to the Sino-Japanese trouble at Shanghai and inconvenient transportation conditions, only 4,000 tons of wheat thus far have reached the Hwei valley, Shaowu Peter Chuan, superintendent of the national flood relief commission for the north Anhwei area, said.

The refugees, he said, have been eating grass, weeds, sprouts and the bark of trees. Relief workers reported that the market price for the sale of humans is $1 in Chinese money, or about 20 cents in American, for each year of the person's age. A ten year old child sells for $10, or about $2 in gold, an eleven year old for $11 and so on, the rate rising one dollar a year until the age of 25, when the price begins to recede.

Suspect in Smashing of Windows Seized by Police

August Catinella, 34 years old, 1148 West Harrison street, said to be an alleged member of the "phantom" gang of window smashers, was arrested yesterday in Madison street, near Morgan street, by Sergt. George Maher and a detective bureau squad. He had been sought since Dec. 1, 1931. Five stop orders, one from the postal inspector's office, were pinned to his record. Stop orders, attached to the bureau records, serve to hold prisoners for specific investigations. The federal government's interest in Catinella is said to concern recent subpostal station holdups.

HOUSE MAY USE HOOVER PLAN IN ECONOMY MOVE

Furloughs and Flat Cuts Issue Undecided.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—All indications tonight were that President Hoover has won his battle with the Democratic house economy committee as to the method of presenting a retrenchment program for the consideration of congress.

At the close of today's committee meeting, Chairman John McDuffie [Dem., Ala.] declared that a majority of the committee "seemed to favor" the President's plan of bringing out the economy program in the form of an omnibus bill covering all proposals including either the administration's staggered furlough plan for cutting the government pay roll or the committee's 11 per cent flat cut suggestion.

Bill Will Be Delayed.

At the same time, house leaders announced that the legislative appropriation measure to which the omnibus bill will be attached as a rider under the President's scheme, will be sidetracked further and the navy department appropriation bill taken up tomorrow. Under this procedure, it became probable that no definite action on government economy will be taken for nearly a week, as the committee is making comparatively slow progress in considering the items in the administration's blanket measure.

There has been no agreement in committee, Mr. McDuffie said tonight, as to whether the President's furlough plan or his own 11 per cent pay cut plan will be included in the bill when brought before the house. In either event, it was indicated that the house proper will settle the controversy as to which proposal is to be adopted, as Representative William E. Ramseyer [Rep., Ia.], a member of the economy committee, has declared he will present the President's plan as an amendment on the floor if Mr. McDuffie's proposal is inserted in the original bill. Should the administration furlough plan be included, on the other hand, Mr. McDuffie is certain to offer his plan as an amendment.

Democrat Decides Issue.

Chairman McDuffie has insisted that the retrenchment program should be divided up into a number of bills, with the pay cut scheme presented as a rider to the legislative bill and other economy proposals introduced separately. His capitulation to the President's idea was forced, it was said, by the action of a Democratic member of the committee in joining forces with Republican members in favor of the administration suggestion.

But while the government economy program moved slowly, the house acted to back up the senate's 10 per cent slashes for supply bills.

By a vote of 268 to 40, the membership voted to concur in the 10 per cent slash made by the senate in the appropriation for the department of the interior, obviating the necessity for a prolonged conference between members of the two houses. The measure will go to the President calling for five millions less than the house had previously appropriated.

First Supply Bill Returned.

It was the first of the governmental supply bills to have been returned to the house after senate "ten per centers" had slashed it.

Chairman Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.], stated tonight that all of the supply bills will be similarly treated when returned from the senate with 10 per cent cuts, if house leaders have their way. If the 10 per cent reductions prove too large, he pointed out, the senate and not the house will bear the responsibility of appropriating compensating amounts in the deficiency bills.

In direct contravention of the wishes of the administration, the economy committee, according to Chairman McDuffie and other members, intends to include in the blanket economy measure, a plan to consolidate the army and navy. It was held possible in some quarters that inclusion of such an item might result in a presidential veto of the omnibus bill unless the item is stricken before the bill reaches the White House.

Would Abolish Naval Office.

The navy took another rap from the economy legislators today when the house naval affairs committee voted to report out a bill abolishing the office of the assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics. The position is now held by David S. Ingalis. Passage of the bill, according to the committee, will save about $20,000 a year.

In the senate the economy 10 per centers, by a vote of 37 to 31, adopted the resolution of Senator McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], the chief 10 per center, to send the treasury and postoffice supply bill back to the appropriations committee with instructions to make a horizontal cut of 10 per cent, slicing off slightly more than 105 millions from the $1,059,898,563 appropriation.

STEVENS ANSWERS LEGION CRITICS ON BONUS OPPOSITION

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Henry L. Stevens Jr., national commander of the American Legion, celebrated the successful conclusion of the organization's membership drive tonight with an address which was interpreted as a rebuke to those within the ranks of the legion who have criticised his opposition to the $2,800,000,000 bonus proposal.

His address was delivered in the studios of the National Broadcasting company and was carried through the stations of that chain throughout the country. A large proportion of the legion's 1,054,863 members listened in, for meetings for that purpose were held by many local posts.

BUILDING TRADE MEN IN GOTHAM CUT 20 TO 35%

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—By order of the board of governors of the Building Trades Employers association, the executives of thirty trade groups in the association began posting notices today announcing wage reductions of between 20 and 35 per cent for 115,000 building trades workers beginning May 1.

The notices constitute the final statement of the employers to the thirty unions that a new scale of wages will be in effect on May 1 and continue at least until Dec. 31, 1933.

The last compromise offer made by the executives of the Building Trades council, led by John Halkett, president, was an offer of a 15 per cent reduction for a limited period. This the employers refused and the union officials will hold another meeting tomorrow with the executive committee of the Building Trades Employers' association.

In effect, the new wage scale is a return to the terms of the agreement which was in effect in 1923.

The present wage scale for most of the trades went into effect on Aug. 24, 1929, when the five day week was inaugurated for the majority of mechanics and their helpers.

GRAHAM HEADS GROUP PICKED TO AID JACOBS

The advisory committee to Assessor J. L. Jacobs in the preparation of new rules for making the 1931 quadrennial revaluation held its first meeting yesterday afternoon and named Ernest R. Graham, architect, of the firm of Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, as general chairman.

Two subcommittees also were named with N. Max Dunning, architect, head of the building valuation group, and Newton Farr, former president of the Chicago Real Estate board, as head of the land valuation group. Both subcommittees are to survey the manual used during the 1928 reassessment and prepare it for use by the present assessor on the basis of values as of April 1, 1931.

In calling the meeting to order, Assessor Jacobs informed the group of 22 architects and real estate operators that all of the work on the present revaluation done under the old board will be completely revised.

NEW BRITISH SHIP TO HAVE RADIO IN A GIANT FUNNEL

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 18.—A dummy funnel will be used to house the wireless equipment of the White Star liner Georgic, which is nearing completion at Belfast.

The aerial and direction finder both will be inside the giant funnel, and thus, it is claimed, screened effectively from local electrical disturbances.

The top of the funnel will be open, and with the aerial fitted on the roof of a cabin inside it will be possible to obtain uninterrupted wireless signals for direction finding, it is said. The screening will be so complete, in fact, that the usual work of eliminating electrical interference from the ship's motors will be unnecessary.

3 STATES JOIN DRIVE TO LIFT U. S. TAX BURDEN

Enlist to Aid Chicago Group's Campaign.

Support for the Chicago Association of Commerce's national drive to relieve the heavy tax burden on the country through reduction of governmental expenditures was offered yesterday from the states of New York, Kentucky, and Kansas. The Chicago association's campaign was opened late in March with the Mid-West tax conference held here.

Charles T. Gwynne, executive vice president of the chamber of commerce of the state of New York, wrote President George W. Rossetter of the Chicago association, stating:

"We are delighted to know what decisive action our friends in the west have taken, with their usual vigour and earnestness."

Call New York Conference.

The New York organization, which is said to be the oldest of its kind in the country and which represents practically every important company in the state, stated that it is calling a preliminary conference to bring its full weight behind the campaign to get congress and other governmental bodies to reduce expenditures.

Howard J. Douglass, secretary-manager of the Middlesborough, Ky., Chamber of Commerce wrote Mr. Rossetter that the board of directors of his organization had unanimously agreed to go on record as being in favor of "coöperating to the greatest degree in this program. It seems that the entire country is being awakened to the necessity of reducing governmental expenditures. We had quite a fight in Kentucky during the session of the general assembly, but the result was very gratifying."

Action from Kansas.

From Atchison, Kan., comes an announcement of the formation of a Tax Study club which is to carry on weekly meetings in all the principal cities and towns in the state. F. P. Willette of the Atchison Chamber of Commerce in a letter to Mr. Rossetter, stated that thousands of men and women have already joined the movement. These people "will not only make strong recommendations to the federal government, but to the state, county, and city governments in Kansas, with a view of reducing taxation and appropriations of the tax dollar," Mr. Willette stated.

An example of the swiftly rising interest of people in tax matters is reported from Kansas City when the council held a tax ordinance hearing. The ordinance provides an increase in the levy from $1.30 to $1.50 on $100 valuation. Before the meeting opened the crowd began to gather and when the council chamber doors were opened so jammed was the room with protesting citizens that officials feared the floor of the old building might collapse under their weight.

As a result of the meeting, action on the tax ordinance was delayed.

New York Firms Protest.

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—In a letter to stockholders, employés, and friends of the United States Realty and Improvement company, asking that they bring pressure to bear upon congress to reduce federal expenditures, R. G. Babbage, chairman of the board of the company, said today that the hotel business in this country had become unprofitable, largely because of the prohibition law.

"We should forward to our representatives in Washington a demand that all proper economies should be made effective at the earliest possible date so that the burden of the new taxes may be lessened," Mr. Babbage said.

A similar letter was also sent yesterday by A. E. Duncan, chairman of the board of the Commercial Credit company, to its stockholders and employés.

CHICAGOANS ASK REPEAL OF RAIL RECAPTURE LAW

Leave to Carry Fight Before Congress.

Headed by its president, George W. Rossetter, a delegation from the Chicago Association of Commerce left for Washington yesterday afternoon to urge upon congress the repeal of the recapture clause in the railroad transportation act. The deputation will appear before the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, where a repealer bill is now pending, and will confer with leaders of the senate.

G. W. ROSSETTER.

Mr. Rossetter, in departing, declared that one of the principal factors in prolonging the depression is the blight cast upon the credit of railroads by the recapture clause.

Recapture Clause Explained.

The measure became effective in 1920. Under its provisions railroads must turn over to the government half of all their profits over 6 per cent, to be placed in a fund for the benefit of roads whose profits are less than has been held by the courts to be a fair return on capital invested.

The interstate commerce commission estimates that approximately $361,000,000 is due the government under the clause, above the $13,000,000 which has been collected. Much of the remainder could be collected only through long and costly litigation, Mr. Rossetter said.

"This $361,000,000 claim by the government constitutes a liability against the railroads and is a blight upon their credit and a hindrance to their plans for refinancing," he said.

"Repeal Will Help Business."

"If the recapture clause is repealed it will clear the way for early business recovery. The business interests of the country are demanding of congress a reduction in governmental expenditures and a balancing of the federal budget. The wiping out of this recapture provision of the law would result in relieving the interstate commerce commission of a vast amount of accounting work and make possible a reduction in its budget for the ensuing year of a very large sum—perhaps as much as 15 or 20 per cent.

"It would relieve the railroads of a vast amount of work and a very large expense involved in the preparation of and trial of cases involving the validity of the claims on which recovery was sought by the government."

Hector A. Brouillet Named Defendant in $50,000 Suit

Hector A. Brouillet, former attorney for the sanitary district, an unsuccessful candidate for sanitary district trustee at the primary last week, was named defendant in the praecipe of a suit for $50,000, filed yesterday in the Circuit court by James G. Gant, 562 Oakwood boulevard, a railroad foreman. Attorney Maurice R. Marchello, who filed the praecipe, said that Gant charges Brouillet with alienating the affections of his wife.

BANKS CAN'T AID, YOU MUST SAVE, DETROIT IS TOLD

Restoring of Credit Called Only Way Out.

Detroit, Mich., April 18.—[Special.]—Ralph Stone, speaking for New York and Chicago bankers, who have loaned large sums of money to the city, today announced that the "compromise ordinance" by which Corporation Counsel Wilcox hoped to restore the city's credit and avoid a 33 1-3 per cent cut in salaries, is not acceptable Meanwhile $1,000,000 in salaries, due a week ago, are unpaid because of lack of funds.

Mr. Stone said the banks could no longer aid the city, and that tax payers can be relieved only "by reducing the cost of operating the city, by lowering salaries and cutting expenses in every direction." The proposal to postpone payment of a third of the employes' salaries to the next fiscal year "constitutes a threat of heavily increased taxation," he added.

Banks Cannot Aid Further.

Mr. Stone's statement, in part, follows:

"I think that the city's present financial predicament can be more clearly understood and more intelligently handled by a recognition of the fact that banks can no longer aid. The city must look for help to the investors of the country, those who buy municipal bonds.

"Banks already have over $30,000,000 tied up in short time loans, made with reliance on distinct promises of the city that it would handle its affairs in a businesslike way. This agreed program included balancing of budgets, that is, living within received income.

City Must Restore Credit.

"But these promises have not been kept. By defaults in pay rolls, by repeated expressions of hostility by some city officials, by the threat of a budget for next year which starts with a huge additional deficit, the city's credit has been seriously impaired. Banks cannot render further aid.

"The city should devote its efforts to restoring its credit with the investors. The ways to accomplish this are very plain:

"First, the city must make it very clear that it intends to pay its debts according to its contracts.

"Second, it can restore its credit by living within its cash income, which means it must balance both this year's and next year's budgets. They cannot be separated. Whatever can be saved by judicious economy this year is very badly—in fact, imperatively—needed next year with its threatened huge deficit."

GRILL WHITNEY ON "BEAR" LIST; SUPPRESS NAMES

Committee Says It Knows Who Sold "Short."

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—An air of mystery was injected into the senate inquiry into short selling today when the investigating committee suddenly refused to make public the list of 24,000 shorts furnished last Saturday by Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock exchange.

The surprise announcement that the list of bears was not to be made public for the present and might not be published at all furnished the sensation of a day during which the bland, suave president of the stock exchange spiritedly persisted in his contention that bear raiders could not be charged with responsibility for the depression or the collapse in securities values.

At the opening of the day's session it had been assumed that the list of shorts as of April 7 would furnish the basis for the examination of Mr. Whitney by the committee's investigating staff. It transpired, however, that this was not to be the case. For the attorneys, after a hasty glance at the names on the Whitney list, turned a deaf ear to all requests for light on the identity of the shorts.

Not a Prize Victim!

While rumors were circulated that government officials and prominent figures in the ranks of both political parties were among the short sellers, committee members who had access to the list reported back disgustedly that there was not a prominent person among the whole 24,000 names.

Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], one of the few senators who managed to brush aside an investigator long enough to look over the compilation of shorts, reported back to his colleagues that the list was devoid of spectacular personalities. He voiced the opinion that the investigators thus far had not uncovered a single bear of importance and would fail to do so.

In the meantime the opinion was expressed widely that the controlling element on the committee was in a quandary. In other words, that they had not only had one bear but a whole flock of bears by the tail and did not know what to do with them. Whether the committee's reluctance to make the list public was inspired by fear that baring the names of the shorts might possibly spell trouble for political leaders of both parties was not ascertainable tonight.

Silent on Cabinet Gossip.

Senator Frederic C. Walcott [Rep., Conn.], prime instigator of the inquiry and the liaison link between the committee and the White House, where the short selling inquiry originated, was the center of attention from the time he reached the crowded committee room this morning. He merely smiled when asked if the list contained the name of a cabinet officer. He said later a part of the list might be given to the press.

William A. Gray, Philadelphia attorney, said to be a specialist in criminal practice, entered the investigation as associate counsel today. He said a week might be necessary to sort out the names and compile them in orderly form. At first Mr. Gray and his assistants together with Senators Walcott and Chairman Norbeck [Rep., S. D.] were the only ones trusted to view the Whitney list. Later on the protest of Senator Blaine all members were permitted to look them over.

In admitting that the list was available to all members of the committee Mr. Norbeck said:

"They can look at the list but if they are gentlemen they won't make the names public."

Whitney Not Disconcerted.

Aside from the to-do over the bear list the investigation stirred no great enthusiasm in the colorful crowd of men and women — mostly young women—in the crowded committee room. Mr. Gray conducted the inquiry, leveling his turret guns at the stock exchange president in an effort to shake his stubbornly held contention that short selling is in no way responsible either for the depression or for the collapses in securities values during the last three years.

In response to sharp questioning Mr. Whitney admitted that the exchange considered closing after England departed from the gold standard last September and only decided to stay open after arriving at a decision to ban short selling for two days. The sleekly groomed executive hastily added, however, that the ban on short selling had been decided on not because it was feared unrestricted shorts would precipitate a panic but because it was believed this move would force the shorts to cover and thus become a stabilizing force in the market.

Ask About German Bonds.

Another development of the day came when Attorney Gray went afield to inquire as to whether the firm with which Mr. Whitney is connected had once engaged in "pegging" German reparation bonds for the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co., with whom Mr. Whitney's brother is connected. Mr. Whitney said he would look into the matter. Whether the committee has plans for looking into Morgan activities was not disclosed.

Throughout his testimony, most of which was similar to that given last week, Mr. Whitney contended that short selling was a stabilizing force. Answering a question put by Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.], recently selected keynoter for the Democratic national convention, Mr. Whitney asserted that he was positive "short selling had not caused this depression."

"I am as positive as anything I can be of in this world," he said.

In another brush with Senator James E. Couzens [Rep., Mich.], the stock exchange president admitted he had sold short on occasions, causing a laugh with his wry comment that he had sold short in the spring of 1929, thinking the market was too high.

"I was wrong," he added.

Tries To Pin Blame on Shorts.

Mr. Gray's whole campaign today was directed toward forcing President Whitney to admit that short selling tended to depress the market and in flagrant cases to demoralize trading and contribute to the depression.

The climax of his case came during his attempt to force the witness to admit that the officers of the stock exchange had unwittingly admitted the dangers of short selling when they banned short selling for two days following England's departure from the gold standard last fall.

"It is true, is it not," asked Mr. Gray, "that the stock exchange met immediately after England went off the gold standard to decide whether to open the next day?"

"It is true that we met Sept. 24 to decide what to do in view of England's action." Mr. Whitney answered. "We realized that England's going off the gold standard probably would cause chaos in the bank structure. We knew the English move would be followed by world wide liquidation. We decided to keep open so as to furnish a place where a man could take his securities and obtain cash for them. We could have closed but we decided against it. We decided to bar short selling for two days. We knew that under the circumstances there would be great liquidation of stocks. By placing a ban on short sales we forced the shorts to cover their stock sales and this put purchasers into a liquidating market."

Made Compulsory to Buy.

"Then you suspended short selling because you feared the bears would further depress the market and cause a panic," said Mr. Gray.

"I do not admit that," responded Whitney. "The atmosphere was such that liquidation was bound to be something terrific when the market opened. We decided it would be best to have one buying force in the market to stabilize it. For that reason we banned short selling. This automatically sent the shorts into the market to purchase shares to cover up their short holdings."

"But don't you think short selling caused the depression?"

"Short selling never caused any depression," shot back the witness.

"Short sales are indispensable to a real market. In this instance, after the English departure from the gold standard, the shorts furnished the only buying power in the market in the face of terrific liquidation."

LEAFLETS ATTACKING FASCISM DROPPED BY PLANES NEAR ROME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 18.—Airplanes were reported to have dropped anti-Fascist leaflets on Terni, near Rome, tonight. The planes flew off before they could be identified.

About the same time it was reported that an automobile carrying anti-Fascists was stopped and its occupants arrested after they had scattered anti-Fascist propaganda in the countryside. There was a lively chase before the car was halted.

The flight over Terni, which apparently was aimed at Rome, recalls the flight last fall in which Lauro de Bosis, young anti-Fascist son of an American woman and an Italian father, dropped thousands of leaflets on Rome. He escaped, but presumably only to fall into the Mediterranean. He has been missing since.

CITY EMPLOYES PAID; SCHOOLS FORCED TO WAIT

Can't Find Way to Advance Money.

City employés got their pay checks yesterday for the first half of March, but officials were unable to find any legal manner in which the city might advance money to the school board to make possible a similar payday for its employés.

AGNES CLOHSEY.

Mayor Cermak was visited yesterday by Miss Agnes Clohesy, head of the elementary teachers' union, who urged that he find some way to pay the teachers. As a result he arranged a conference during the afternoon between Corporation Counsel Sexton and other city officials and attorneys for the school board and teachers' organization.

Certificate Idea Frowned On.

The city can advance no more money to the school board because the board has already issued anticipation warrants for 60 per cent of its 1931 tax levy. Bond attorneys will approve no issues in excess of this amount. It was suggested at the conference that the board give the city interim certificates, to be replaced with 1932 tax warants when the 1932 tax levy is approved by the city council.

Mr. Sexton held that the city could not be a party to such a deal. If the board cannot issue the 1932 tax warrants, he held, its interim certificates would not be proper security. The school tax levy was submitted to the council at its last meeting, and was ordered deferred and published. It will come up for passage at the next meeting, April 29, and the board may then issue 1932 warrants as soon as Mayor Cermak approves the ordinance.

The city still has in its aggregate of funds $12,435,000 worth of 1930 corporate fund tax warrants. It is these which it has been selling to loop banks to obtain city and school pay roll funds. A sale of $2,000,000 worth made possible the city pay day yesterday, in which employés received $1,800,000. The aggregate of funds also holds $4,832,000 worth of 1930 educational fund tax warrants of the school board, but the banks have refused to date to take any of the school paper.

Money to County Schools.

Edward J. Tobin, county superintendent of schools, was notified yesterday by County Treasurer McDonough that he would receive $1,788,218, the remainder due Cook county from the 1930 state distributive school fund, tomorrow or Thursday. The school board will get $1,588,000 of this, but this will be approximately $800,000 short of the requirements for one-half monthly pay roll of all school employés.

Treasurer McDonough turned $5,000,000 in tax collections over to the city yesterday. The cash in this payment will be used to redeem outstanding 1930 tax warrants.

CLAIMS FINDING LOWER JAW OF EARLIEST MAN

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

KENYA, NAIROBI, East Africa, April 18.—What is believed to be the lower jaw of the world's earliest man has been found near the small native village of Kanam on the shores of Lake Victoria where Dr. Leakey, an archeologist, has been working for five months in the Kendu and Homa districts.

This fragment of a human jaw was found in Situ in deposits containing pre-Chellean tools and teeth of the same species of dinotherium as found at Oldoway last October. But the Kanam jaw was found in deposits of the same age as the lowest Oldoway bed, whereas the Oldoway man was in bed No. 2. Therefore, the Lake Victoria discovery, being earlier, places homo sapiens one step further back than even Oldoway does.

Other finds of early pleistocene deposits include fragments of three human skulls which apparently were washed out from deposits containing Chellean tools and the remains of Elephas Antiquus and Hepar. Perhaps the most interesting discovery was the remains of miocene anthropoid apes. The view that the human remains have certain characteristics in common with these apes is thought so provoking and unusual that Dr. Leakey is dispatching evidence of his finds immediately to Britian experts.

3 SLAIN, 20 HURT IN RIOT IN INDIA OVER A DEAD PIG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALCUTTA, April 19.—[Tuesday.]—The second day of "Bakrid," a big Moslem festival, developed into a Hindu-Moslem riot yesterday at Naihati, near here. Three persons were killed and 20 injured.

The trouble started when Moslems wished to sacrifice a cow—a sacred animal in the Hindu code. Their Hindu landlord prevented the sacrifice and the police preserved peace with great difficulty.

Yesterday, arriving at the mosque to begin the second day's celebration, the Moslems found a carcass of a pig in the middle of the floor. Pork being anathema to them, the Moslems rushed out to hunt Hindus. The result was the riot. Forty arrests were made.

KREUGER'S DEATH A HOAX, IS RUMOR IN SCANDINAVIA

One Report Says He Fled to Sumatra.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

STOCKHOLM, April 18.—A rumor that Ivar Kreuger, Swedish industrialist, was not a suicide but fled from Paris to Sumatra gripped Scandinavia tonight. The rumor apparently was based on a report that officials of the Swedish legation in Paris were unable to enter Kreuger's apartment and because particulars promised by the financier's Paris associates have not been produced.

No credence is attached to the rumors in responsible quarters, although cremation of the body was delayed a week because of difficulties with the French authorities. Some reports were that a wax impression of Kreuger's face was prepared to deceive those at the funeral.

Paris Police Astonished.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, April 18.—Paris police officials were astonished tonight upon learning that some credence was given to a rumor in Scandinavian capitals that Ivar Kreuger did not commit suicide. They said the financier's death was formally investigated before they reported it officially.

Paris financial papers today again said that the French banks and public were not particularly hard hit by the slump in Kreuger shares. Instead of the $280,000,000 mentioned abroad, the papers said the French were involved to the extent of only $20,000,000, the greater part of which is covered by "valuable pledges."

Greta Garbo Named in Rumors.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BUDAPEST, April 18.—Rumors that Greta Garbo, motion picture actress, had lost heavily in the Kreuger collapse were disposed of by an interview with Hjalman Sodblud, general auditor of the Kreuger concern, published in the newspaper Magyarorszag today. Sodblud said Kreuger often referred to Miss Garbo as his only true friend in America. Kreuger was her business adviser, he said, but despite this she owned only a small number of Kreuger shares. Sodblud asserted that as soon as Paul Toll, Kreuger's former partner, left the business he sold all his Kreuger shares.

Youth Shot by Woman Is in Critical Condition

Sigmund Katey, 28 years old, 3032 West Forty-first street, who was shot and seriously wounded Sunday night by a 23 year old woman, Miss Genevieve Judanas, 4138 Archer avenue, shortly after she saw him in a neighborhood theater with another girl, was in a critical condition last night in St. Anthony's hospital. Miss Judanas, who does not speak English and was reluctant to talk through an interpreter, was under examination in the psychopathic hospital. Miss Judanas will appear in the Psychopathic court Thursday.

CICERO INSTALLS MAYOR; PROMISES ECONOMY, BEER

Village Hall Is Packed for Ceremony.

Cicero's new deal in politics became a fact last night when Town President Joseph G. Cerny and the other Democratic officials elected with him April, 5, were sworn into office. Spectators packed the tiny council chamber of the town hall and the overflow jammed the halls, doorways and streets surrounding the building. A huge broom made of roses symbolized the spirit of cleanup.

Pledged to remove the taint of hoodlumism from this much publicized suburb, President Cerny does not intend, however, to molest the 175 establishments selling beer to his citizens so long as they remain "respectable."

Will Have Advisory Group.

In his speech of induction last night he promised to eliminate incompetence, waste and the unnecessary duplication of services. He will create a "president's advisory commission" of nonpartisan citizens to study every department of the town government "with the object of making practical constructive recommendations."

Mild disorder was apparent only once during the induction ceremonies. This came when the retiring president, Joseph Z. Klenha, Republican incumbent for 14 years before, during, and after the reign of Al Capone, was called upon to speak. Jeers and laughter from outside the hall greeted him. Klenha, smiling somewhat wryly at this reception, said that the retiring officials were "all good sports" and recognized that "the people have spoken." Other trustees who were voted out of office with him were met with similar sallies when invited to speak.

"Boss" Graham Present.

Much in evidence during the evening as a sort of unofficial master of ceremonies was State Senator Richey V. Graham, son-in-law of Mayor Cermak of Chicago and hailed as "the new boss" of Cicero. He was greeted boisterously, as was Ald. John Toman, whose Chicago ward adjoins the town. There was no serious approval, however, when Toman predicted that Cicero will eventually be swallowed up by Chicago.

In order that his citizens may expect no administrative magic from him, President Cerny first drew a picture of Cicero's financial plight. In the last four years, he said, appropriations have increased from one-half to one million dollars. The 1930 tax bills, just mailed, are from 7 to 15 per cent higher than they were in 1929. Much property is threatened with confiscation and "glaring instances" of excessive taxation have been apparent.

Demand an Audit.

One of the first official acts of the new council was to pass an ordinance calling for an audit of books to determine if there has been any unlawful diversion or withdrawal of municipal funds.

The oath of office was administered to President Cerny by Police Magistrate Henry J. Sandusky. Cerny, in turn, swore in Town Clerk Jerry Viterna who inducted the others into office. The new officials include: Frank Cuchna, collector; Anton F. Maciejewski, supervisor; Henry R. Schwarzel, assessor, and Nicholas Hendrikse, trustee.

TOKIO, April 19.—[Tuesday.]—An army powder magazine at Takinogawa, a suburb of Tokio, was destroyed today by three terrific explosions. Fifty houses nearby were destroyed and several persons were seriously injured. The cause of the explosions has not been determined. NO NEW CONTACT, SAYS LINDBERGH, ASKING SECRECY

Curtis Off on New Trip After Phone Calls.

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh issued a statement tonight declaring he had been "unable to reestablish a definite contact" with the criminals who kidnaped his baby son and swindled him of $50,000 intended as the infant's ransom.

JOHN H. CURTIS.

For the third time since the 21 month old Charles Augustus Jr. was stolen from his parents' home near Hopewell, N. J., on the night of March 1 the aviator emphasized the need for secrecy regarding the activities of the intermediaries who are seeking to recover the child through private negotiation.

The statement, issued on Col. Lindbergh's behalf by Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf at the statehouse in Trenton, follows:

"The continued following of our representatives by members of the press is making it extremely difficult, if not impossible, for us to establish contact with whomever is in possession of our son. The publication of demands for additional ransom which have never been made and of amounts which we are unable to pay can cause nothing but greater difficulty.

"We are extremely anxious to reestablish contact with the kidnapers and, while we sincerely appreciate the cooperation we have received from many press organizations, our attempts are still greatly hampered or made impossible by press activity. Up to the present time we have been unable to reestablish a definite contact.

"CHARLES A. LINDBERGH."

Curtis on New Trip.

John H. Curtis, boatbuilder of Norfolk, Va., appeared today to have taken the lead again in negotiations with the kidnapers of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's infant son.

After receiving a telephone call from Col Lindbergh—the fifth in the last three days—Mr. Curtis left Norfolk in an airplane piloted by Lieut. George L. Richard. It was early in the afternoon when he was seen entering the aviator's estate near Hopewell, N. J., in an automobile belonging to Edmund Bruce of Elmira, N. Y. Mr. Curtis remained more than an hour in the aviator's home.

The boatbuilder who believes he has been in contact with an agent of the kidnapers since March 9—eight days after the 21 month old infant was stolen from his crib—did not explain the purpose of his call.

Kidnapers Fear Hijackers.

Curtis has let it be known that the persons having the kidnaped child in their possession are fearful of hijackers. They have expressed fear that an attempt might be made to take the baby from them at the point of delivery and for that reason contacts with agents of the abductors have been made first in one place and another.

It appears certain that the kidnapers are persons known to be engaged in rum running, but the baby is not on a boat, it has been stated on reliable authority.

The eastern shore of Virginia appears to be the most likely place where Curtis has made at least two contacts with the supposed representative of the kidnapers. There are so many isolated inlets and long stretches of beach in that section that it would be easy for a boat to put in from sea and put out again without detection.

In Norfolk, where his associates, Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage and the Rev. H. Dobson Peacock awaited his return, no information was available.

Breckenridge Sees Condon.

Col. Henry Breckenridge, legal adviser to Col. Lindbergh, made two calls today at the home of Dr. John F. Condon in the Bronx. Col. Lindbergh and the police still refuse to believe that Dr. Condon was the agent of an impostor.

Dr. Condon has asserted on two occasions—once for the sound pictures—that he still has contact with the criminals who have the child.

Col. Breckenridge, however, said as he was leaving Dr. Condon's home that he knew nothing about the alleged reopening of negotiations. He was noncommittal also on the activities of the Norfolk group, whose information at first was characterized as "of no specific importance in this case."

At Hopewell the police received with considerable skepticism a report from Toledo, O., that a man who said his name was Patterson had telephoned a local newspaper saying the missing baby was in Detroit, Mich., and would be turned over to "a Toledo probate judge" within a week.

WHEELER-REID, PUBLISHER, HURT AS AUTO UPSETS

L. E. Wheeler-Reid, 41 years old, a publisher living at 1400 Lake Shore drive, is in the Morris hospital at Morris, Ill., suffering from possibly fatal injuries which he incurred Sunday morning when his automobile overturned in Route 4, near Gardner, and pinned him underneath. He was en route to Springfield at the time. A son, Robert, 19, said last night that he had an even chance for recovery.

Wheeler-Reid was at one time a publisher in Hollywood. He is the divorced husband of Lillian Coolidge, motion picture actress.

Two automobile deaths in Cook county yesterday increased the toll for 1932 to 320. The victims:

Mrs. Suzanne Prince, 60 years old, 328 South Winchester avenue. Died at the county hospital from a fractured shoulder sustained several weeks ago when she was struck by a car.

Edward Ward, 20 years old, 9046 Dauphin avenue, a bellboy. Died in the Burnside hospital of injuries he suffered April 4 when he was struck by the automobile of a hit and run motorist in front of the Burnside police station.

Five accidents drew the attention of the new police accident squads yesterday and photographs and reports as to the probable causes were being prepared for the new safety bureau. During the first eight hours of duty the squads arrested five persons for reckless driving. The first of these was Edward Smith, 4757 Magnolia avenue, halted on the Diversey boulevard bridge. He was fined $10 and costs by Municipal Judge Theodore Ehler.

Evanston Council Installs 4 Members; One a Woman

Four new members of the Evanston city council were installed last night. They were Miss Daisy Sandidge and E. B. Jourdain Jr., the latter colored, of the 5th ward; Edward Kappelman of the 7th and Paul Harper of the 1st.

Miss Sandidge made an immediate protest when the committee on committees of the old council announced appointments for the year. She said that the new members should have had a voice in this matter. Her stand was supported by Jourdain, but the rest of the members voted solidly to keep the old appointments. The vote was 14 to 2 against her.

VET CONFESSES WRITING RAISA EXTORTION NOTES

Demands Cash on Threat of Child Abduction.

Andrew Matzukewich, a shell shocked war veteran, confessed yesterday that he had written threatening letters to Rosa Raisa, Chicago Civic opera soprano, demanding money on the threat of abduction of her baby, Rosa Giulietta, 7 months old.

Mme. Raisa received the letters in August and November, the first demanding payment of $500 or loss of the child. A second letter said that $10,000 would be asked if the first sum was not paid.

The singer and her husband, Giacomo Rimini, left for Italy in February but they said the trip was primarily a vacation and not for the purpose of protecting the child.

Seized In Extortion Trap.

Matzukewich was arrested by city police several weeks ago when he was trapped in an extortion plot directed against a speakeasy owner. The letter mentioned the incarceration of Al Capone and demanded $20,000 for the purpose of bringing about the release of the gangster.

A comparison of the letter to the speakeasy owner and those received by Mme. Raisa brought his questioning and confession to the extortion plot against the singer.

Charged with Forgeries.

Matzukewich is also charged with forging signatures to checks sent in payment of war veteran loans. Government agents said that Matzukewich stole checks from mail boxes, wrote to Washington, D. C., forging the name of the man for whom the check was intended and stated the check was lost. When a duplicate was sent to him, he cashed it.

He was held to the grand jury by United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker in bonds of $5,000 on three charges of forgery, which carries a maximum penalty of fifteen years. Matzukewich told government agents that he had served in th Russian army and served two years in the American army.

He also told government agents that he had been shell shocked and showed a scarred arm in evidence. They said his nervous actions bore out the statement.

LINK CAPONE'S EX-AID IN JAIL DELIVERY PLOT

Los Angeles, Cal., April 18.—(AP)—District Attorney Buron Fitts declared tonight his office had uncovered a plot by "eastern gangsters" to kidnap three important law officers of Los Angeles county as a means of effecting the release of convicts in the county jail.

The intended victims, the prosecutor said, were Sheriff William I. Traeger, Under Sheriff Eugene Biscailuz, and County Jailer Clem Peoples.

Fitts asked a special night session of court to vacate orders holding the convicts here pending appeal and clearing the way for their immediate removal to prison.

One of the officers to be seized, Fitts said, was to be given a forged court release and forced to go to the jail and free Ralph Sheldon and Louis Frank, kidnapers, and Louis Radovich, bank robber.

It was explained that the purported plot was exposed in an "underworld tip" to Jailer Peoples and that the "tip" named Sheldon, former aid of Al Capone of Chicago, as the instigator.

Sheldon and Frank are under life sentences for the kidnaping of E. L. [Zeke] Caress, betting commissioner, and Mrs. Caress.

HOME ROBBED

MRS. M. C. ROBIN.

Police yesterday sought the burglars who broke into the home of Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court, at 3239 Douglas boulevard, Sunday night and stole jewelry and clothing valued at $1,800. The thieves forced open a rear door. The Robins were out at the time.

CHICAGOAN ENDS LIFE WITH GAS; PENS SENSATIONS

New York, April 18.—(AP)—Edward Koren, 23, secretary to the general manager of Coney Island's scenic railway, ended his life with gas in his apartment tonight. He left a note describing his sensations. He was from Chicago.

"It is just a little after 6:30 p. m.," he scribbled in pencil. "I have just turned on the gas. I am going to another world, as I am afraid to live in this one.

"The blood is beginning to pound on my temples. It does not hurt. It is getting warm here. I can feel my heart working fast. My head is in trouble now. I am getting a little bit dizzy. The gas does not smell unpleasant.

"I picked this chair because it is comfortable to sit in while the gas is on. Just sit back and relax. It won't be long now. I want to be buried in these clothes. I am going—going—going—ha——"

Koren was unmarried and asked in another note that his sister, Betty Koren of 6230 Woodlawn avenue, Chicago, and Ray Cavanaugh of 3916 West 64th place, Chicago, be notified.

UNABLE TO REACH SISTER.

Neither Miss Koren nor Mr. Cavanaugh, the latter apparently a friend of Koren, could be reached early today at the Chicago addresses. A notice from a telegraph company at Miss Koren's door went unanswered.

ROCKLIN BREAKS PROMISE AND IS ARRESTED AGAIN

Capt. John Stege of the Desplaines street police arrested Herman Rocklin, alleged owner of a gambling house at 104 South Halsted street, on April 11. A little later John Rocklin, brother of Herman, was arrested in his place at 101 South Halsted street. At the station the Rocklins claimed to be relatives of Municipal Judge Schulman and the judge, although denying the relationship, tried to have them released. He was unsuccessful and the brothers were arraigned in court on April 11. Their cases were continued to April 26. Meanwhile they promised Capt. Stege they would not open their places. But yesterday the captain went to 104 South Halsted street and found John Rocklin operating his brother's place. Rocklin was arrested again.

CHINESE HONOR MOTHER OF SLAIN AMERICAN FLYER

Mrs. Short Is Greeted by Band, Guard of Honor.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, April 19.—[Tuesday.]—Mrs. Elizabeth Short of Spokane, Wash., whose son, Robert Short, was killed in an air battle with six Japanese planes while he was piloting a Chinese plane over Soochow on Feb. 22, arrived here today to attend funeral services for her son. She is accompanied by another son, Edmund.

The customs jetty fronting the international settlement was jammed with Chinese welcoming parties, including Mayor Wu Teh-chen of the Chinese municipality, representatives of the Chinese aviation corps, the 19th route army which defended Shanghai from the Japanese invasion and practically all departments of the Chinese government. The jetty was banked with flowers, while music was provided by a Chinese military band.

Given Official Welcome.

Mrs. Short and her son were brought ashore from the Dollar steamship, President Taft, on a launch chartered by the recently formed Robert Short Memorial committee. This committee has charge of the funeral services.

After an official welcome, Mrs. Short and her son were conducted through a guard of honor, composed of companies of Chinese Boy Scouts and a detachment of Nationalist soldiers, to an automobile, in which they were taken to a hotel.

Since Mrs. Short has granted permission for her son's burial in China, the memorial committee has decided to bury the body at Hungjao airport, adjacent to the international settlement.

Raise Fund for Memorial.

An elaborate memorial will be erected there, for which funds are now being raised. The public subscription has already reached more than $25,000. It is understood the committee is also raising a substantial sum to be presented to Mrs. Short.

Since the Hung-jao airport was bombed by Japanese planes, the Chinese government has employed a large force of laborers who are now engaged in filling shell holes and leveling the field preparatory to the funeral ceremony.

Since Short's body was brought here from Soochow, it has been lying in state at a local American undertaking concern, encased in a handsome $10,000 coffin which was purchased by the Chinese government.

CANCEL BRITISH LINER'S VOYAGE; PASSENGERS FEW

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

SOUTHAMPTON, England, April 18.—The White Star line has decided to cancel the voyage of the Homeric which was scheduled to sail from Southampton for New York on Wednesday. The reason, unofficially given, is that the number of passengers booked is very small. It was stated the passengers are being transferred to the Britannic sailing from Liverpool on Saturday or the Berengaria leaving Southampton the same day.

The Holland-America line was forced to cancel the voyage of the Volendam last week-end, while the Rotterdam, which should rejoin service next week-end will not resume its schedule until the middle of May. Two other voyages have also been canceled.

The Homeric has had a winter of idleness, and hopes for improved conditions as a result of reduced fares have not yet been realized.

GENEVA, April 18.—The disarmament conference, well on in its third month, today reached a tentative decision as to its duties which approximates the idea the whole world seemed to have when the conference convened in February.

A drafting committee was appointed by the general commission after the morning's debate, which was devoted largely to a discussion of what the next conference will be like and when it will be held. The afternoon produced the following draft resolution out of the mass of opinions expressed during the conference discussions:

"The general commission considers that a reduction of armaments, as provided for in article VIII. of the covenant of the league of nations, can be achieved progressively by successive revisions at suitable intervals when the present conference shall have accomplished the first decisive stage of general reduction to the lowest possible level."

Draft of American Origin.

Tomorrow the general commission will decide whether this is what is really meant.

The skeleton of this draft was of American origin. This morning a group of nations led by Czechoslovakia, Belgium, Spain, Norway, Denmark, and Uruguay proposed a resolution to serve as a prologue for the conference's work, the Americans, Germans, Russians, and British considered it not very positive in tone. It said that disarmament could only be achieved by stages. The Americans put it the other way around in the drafting committee this afternoon.

The Italians added "progressively" lest any one get the idea that disarmament was to be upward. The German delegate, Count Rudolf Nadolny, said that such limitation would be contrary to the spirit of the league covenant's article. Although preferring to see the final goal reached right away, he insisted that if there is to be gradual reduction it is necessary, not only to decide what the first step is to be, but to envisage the following one.

French Remain Silent.

James Theodore Marriner of the American delegation, proposed the basis of the draft, the Italians and Germans chiming in and the Czechs and Japanese objecting. The French said nothing today. The feeling among the delegates tonight is that a victory has been won for the cause of disarmament. They believe that out of the morass of conflicting aims and motives has come a clear statement, which has yet to run the gantlet of the general commission. They also believe that this work is not to be left to another conference but that disarmament this time will be achieved to the lowest possible level.

All that remains is to achieve it. The Russians, whose threatening attitude resulted in other delegations bestirring themselves, say they will object to the mention of the league covenant tomorrow. Secretary of State Stimson remained in his 16th century villa today, the victim of an annoying cold. His failure to appear caused considerable disappointment to delegates and spectators.

HAS TWO WIVES; NO. 1 SAYS NO. 2 CAN KEEP HIM

Bakersville, N. C., April 18.—(AP)—George Presnell's problem of what to do with his two wives, has been solved for him by Mrs. Susie Presnell, wife number 1.

Simply saying she could not bridge the 29-year interruption in their married life, Mrs. Presnell bade her husband a friendly farewell today and returned alone to her little cottage on Rock creek, high in the western North Carolina mountains.

Presnell was acquitted here last week of slaying Lewis Buchanan for remarks he said Buchanan made about his first wife. Mrs. Presnell stood loyally by her husband throughout the trial.

Fleeing the country on foot after killing Buchanan, Presnell became a coal mine operator at Columbia, Mo., where he was known as a substantial and respected citizen until his arrest in Pratherville, Mo., a few months ago for the slaying nearly 30 years ago.

Once the verdict was returned, however, the first Mrs. Presnell lost no time settling her husband's perplexing problem.

"All this time he has been living with a woman not his wife," she said today, "and I cannot live with him again."

The second Mrs. Presnell has written from Columbia that she expects her husband to divorce his first wife and return to her.

INDORSE CERMAK TO REPLACE IGOE AS PARTY CHIEF

Democrats Adopt Economy and Wet Planks.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Mayor Cermak advanced a big step yesterday toward becoming the official as well as the actual head of the Democratic party in Illinois. The Cook county convention, meeting at the Hotel Sherman, indorsed him for national committeeman and his election by the state's delegates to the national convention next June is regarded as certain.

This, party leaders said, was the logical solution of a problem created when Michael L. Igoe opposed the organization in his unsuccessful race for the governorship nomination. Igoe was elected to the committeeship two years ago following the death of George E. Brennan. His fight against the organization was considered as depriving him of any chance for reelection to the national body, but for a time there was a question of finding a suitable successor for the post.

Indorsement Is Unanimous.

Cermak, it was said, was somewhat reluctant to add the work of this place to the duties he already has, but when his friends told him there was no other logical choice for it, he consented to the presentation of the resolutions of indorsement which were adopted unanimously.

The resolutions recited that the opportunity for victory this year requires that party management be placed in the "most capable hands," that Cermak has demonstrated "leadership of extraordinary ability" on every occasion and that the party had registered its approval of Cermak policies in the primary.

Mayor Cermak and Judge Henry Horner, the governorship nominee, were the principal speakers at the convention although each spoke only briefly. The mayor spoke emphatically on prohibition.

Will Vote for Wets Only.

"I want to go on record right now," said Cermak, "to the effect that I will give my vote to no man who is not an out and out wet. I intend to make my position unmistakably clear not only at the state convention at Springfield next Friday but also in the national convention next June.

"If any man nominated is unwilling to go all the way with a platform against prohibition it is up to him to get off the ticket."

Judge Horner's remarks were chiefly his thanks for the support given him.

"Ever since the primary," he said, "I have had one thought uppermost in my mind. That thought is how I can justify in fullest measure the great trust imposed in me.

"I shall carry that thought with me throughout this coming campaign and through the next four years in Springfield. You need have no fear that Henry Horner will do anything that will, in the slightest way, be unworthy of the vote of confidence you gave him at the polls last Tuesday."

County Chairman P. A. Nash presided, and Clayton F. Smith, chairman of the managing committee, presented the platform which contained a dripping wet declaration and began the fight against Len Small on that score.

Recalls Small's Record.

"The well-meaning participants in the Republican primary," read a part of the preamble, "divided their strength among four worthy candidates for the office of governor, and the remaining minority succeeded in imposing on the Republican party as its nominee a creature of the Anti-Saloon league who had previously been repudiated by his party, and who is now sponsored by the ex-mayor of Chicago, whose defeat a year ago was hailed throughout the civilized world as the greatest victory for decent government achieved in years."

The platform contained twenty-one planks, several of which stressed the necessity for economy. Among them were the following:

"Federal, state and local governments must reduce their expenditures to the lowest possible figure consistent with efficient public service.

"The tax load on real estate and industry must be lifted so that not a single dollar of taxes will be collected except for indispensable governmental service and the maintenance of essential public institutions and the wards of the state.

Quick Action Demanded.

"The 18th amendment to the constitution of the United States and all laws passed pursuant to it should be repealed. Pending repeal, we demand such modification of the Volstead act as will bring immediate relief from its oppressive effects.

"We are opposed to all appropriations by the congress for the alleged enforcement of the Volstead law, the Jones law or any other law passed pursuant to the 18th amendment.

"The Democratic party solemnly declares that there shall be no alliances between criminals or underworld characters and any Democratic office holder or political representative.

"We demand home rule for Chicago and Cook county.

Would Combine Governments.

"We stand pledged to bring about the consolidation of local tax levying bodies and the elimination of all overlapping governments. To that end our nominees promise to support all legislation aimed at such consolidation, even if it should result in the abolition of their respective offices."

Specifically, the platform pledged support for the consolidation of all park systems with the county preserve, for the creation of a board of estimates and apportionment, the shortening of the ballot, nonpartisan elections for the mayoralty, and four year terms for aldermen.

COOK COUNTY REPUBLICANS FAIL TO SELECT A LEADER

500 WOMEN CHARTER SPECIAL TRAIN FOR DEMOCRATIC SESSION

Five hundred Democratic women of Chicago have chartered a special train on which they plan to attend the state party convention in Springfield on Friday. Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, national committeewoman, will head the delegation. The train will leave at 7:30 Friday morning from the Union station, reaching Springfield at 11:30.

Among the women who will be in the party are Mrs. George Bass, Mrs. George V. McIntyre, Mrs. William S. Hefferan, Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, Mrs. Edward J. Fleming, Miss Mary McInerney, and Miss Amelia Sears, county commissioners; Mrs. Helen Cermak Kenlay, Mrs. Robert M. Sweitzer, Mrs. Edward Bemis, Mrs. E. O. Brooks, Mrs. Lillian Schaeffer Wright, and Mrs. George McCormick.

7 Negro Rapists Appeal to Supreme Court of U. S.

Montgomery, Ala., April 19.—[Special.]—A petition for a stay of execution pending an appeal to the United States Supreme court was filed with the Alabama Supreme court today in behalf of seven youthful Negroes convicted at Scottsboro of attacking two white girls and condemned to die May 13. The application was made by George W. Chamlee of Chattanooga, Tenn., attorney for the International Labor defense.

COUNTY G. O. P. STILL AT SEA ON ITS LEADERSHIP

Convention Meets and Adjourns to May 9.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Election of a new Republican county chairman was left at sixes and sevens yesterday by the Republican county convention, which adjourned for three weeks until May 9 without transacting any other business.

The recess was taken after B. W. Snow, retiring chairman, had pointed out that the convention had no legal standing as no certificates of election have been issued to the new ward committeemen and in several wards the vote was so close that the result is still in doubt. The election officials figured it would take more than a fortnight before the canvass is completed.

East Called Possibility.

It was a day of caucuses and feverish activities on the part of various groups, and before the delegates met rival factions made claims they had the chairmanship sewed up. The west and northwest side ward leaders, twenty of whom last week signed up an agreement to act as a unit, claimed they had votes enough to elect George F. Barrett of the 21st ward. The Small camp put out similar claims for Patrick S. Smith of the 6th.

Other alignments insisted that nobody had it in the sack. North and south side committeemen in the Harding-Emmerson lineup held caucuses. Among the possibilities mentioned was John Leonard East, of the Harding camp, who beat Charles Scribner Eaton, of the Deneen camp, two to one for committeeman in the 5th ward.

Among north and south side leaders, hostility to Mr. Barrett as candidate of the west siders was exhibited on account of the vote polled by Newton Jenkins against Senator Otis F. Glenn in west side wards. The west siders said the Jenkins vote was by way of inidcating to Senator Glenn that west and northwest wards feel they have been skimped in the matter of federal patronage, insisting that Glenn's renomination was almost a foregone conclusion and would not be affected by the votes pushed towards Jenkins.

One delegation of committeemen which called on the Small camp returned with word that an ultimatum had been served on them that unless Smith were made chairman, the Small campaign would be conducted independently of the county committee.

Suggest Busse as Compromise.

The Deneen members were ready to present the name of Ald. John A. Massen of the 48th ward. Some of the members talked of Edward F. Moore of the 30th, and some for Charles E. Peace of the 42d.

Meanwhile, as a harmony compromise the name of William Busse, county commissioner, was brought into prominence. He is a Deneen man who stands well with most of the factional groups, but he declared he did not care for the post unless he was a harmony choice.

Announcement was made that the state convention at Springfield Friday will merely recess.

LAKE COUNTY G. O. P. ASKS MORE ROADS AND NEW BANK LAWS

Lake county's Republican central committee yesterday adopted a resolution asking that former Gov. Len Small, if elected in the autumn, continue the building of state roads as a means of relieving unemployment and restoring prosperity.

The committee also urged the general assembly to pass new laws to protect depositors of closed banks and urged the passage in November of the $20,000,000 bond issue for emergency unemployment relief.

A meeting of the Lake county Democratic central committee also was held yesterday, with seventy-five precinct captains in attendance. John O'Keefe, chairman, said that the Democratic organization was never before so enthusiastic over the prospects of success in the county.

ASSEMBLY GOES BACK TO ITS TAX PROBLEMS TODAY

Assessor Jacobs Seeks Changes in Kelly Plan.

Confronted with Cook county's tax problem once more, the legislature will convene again at 10 a. m. today in Springfield. Both senate and house have been recessed since Feb. 18. Three special sessions are embodied in the calls under which the legislature is meeting.

J. L. JACOBS. [A. P. photo.]

A score of miscellaneous matters are pending, including the patching of the Illinois securities law, loopholes in which have allowed gangster influence to enter La Salle street, it charged. Also there are ten new bills to be introduced on behalf of County Assessor J. L. Jacobs. These measures provide some changes in the Kelly plan to revise the county taxing machinery.

The tax relief plans are still in a more or less nebulous state, although for a week or more Corporation Counsel Sexton and tax experts have been meeting in an effort to evolve a program. It seemed probable yesterday that some sort of "funding" plan would be proposed, probably after a joint committee has met, which is the proposal of Minority Leader Thomas J. Courtney of the senate.

Jacobs Explains Changes.

Assessor Jacobs explained yesterday that a principal change in the new assessing plan which is desired is an amendment providing for the publication of quadrennial assessments before appeals are taken, to enable taxpayers to know their assessments and protest if they wish. Another change to be asked would revise personal property schedules with the hope of uncovering more taxable items.

The penalty date for delinquent 1930 taxes must also be fixed. The county board has extended it to April 23, the date Mr. Jacobs prefers, but various interests are seeking to have it extended to as late as June 1. Whatever date is set must be ratified by the legislature.

Some sentiment was noted yesterday for a consolidation of local taxing bodies. Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg [Rep., Chicago] said he would examine all pending bills to determine if any could be amended to provide some sort of consolidation. He has not definitely decided to introduce a consolidation bill, he said, but may do so after he studies the bills and gets the sentiment of other Chicago legislators.

Plan to Cut Expenses.

A general program for reducing governmental expenditures is also pending. Its leading proponents, Senator Harold C. Kessinger [Rep., Aurora] and Representative James T. Burns [Dem., Kankakee], are expected to revive the agitation for pay cuts through all state departments, including a trimming of the salaries of the legislators themselves.

How long the senate and house will remain in session this week was indefinite yesterday. It had been expected that the house might have to adjourn early to allow changes in that chamber to meet the requirements of the Democratic state convention in Springfield on Friday. Since the Republicans are not meeting, however, the Democratic gathering has been switched to the state arsenal and the house will not be used. How long the session this week will last depends on what program is ready for consideration this morning.

Hunt Gangster to License Foes of Bill Stock Brokers

Support was being mustered in Chicago yesterday to bring about passage by the legislature of a bill for the licensing of investment brokers and their salesmen. The proponents of the measure were alarmed at reports that gangsters had been seeking to solidify opposition to the bill and block its becoming a law. The measure will be on third reading in the senate when it reconvenes today.

ALEXANDER JAMIE.

Alexander Jamie, chief investigator for the Secret Six of the Chicago Association of Commerce, said he had conducted an investigation of some of the charges and rumors and had found some basis for the belief that opposition to the bill was being organized. He said he doubted the possession of any political strength by the opposition, however.

Jamie Tells of Inquiry.

"Recently a charter was obtained for a corporation known as the Investment Dealers and Brokers Protective association," Mr. Jamie said. "Its incorporators were John J. Costello, 846 Miller street; Walter R. Miller, 2316 Washington boulevard, and Rudolph Pisani, 2567 Washington boulevard.

"Upon investigation we found that an Italian family named Carsello lives at 846 Miller street. The father's occupation is unknown. We learned that the son, who apparently has taken the name of John J. Costello, moved from there about three weeks ago with his wife and three children to an unknown address. His occupation was undetermined.

"At 2316 Washington boulevard there is a rooming house containing four apartments. No one there was known as Walter R. Miller. The place is operated by a man named Pisano, the father of the incorporator who used the name of Rudolph Pisani. The elder Pisano has lived there for three years and said he knew no one named Miller.

Investigates Rudolph Pisani.

"Rudolph Pisani lived in a rooming house at 2132 Warren avenue for three years. When inquiries were made about his occupation it was said he worked for Secor Brothers at 15 South Winchester avenue, which statement was not substantiated. In October of 1931 he, with his wife and child, moved to 2567 Washington boulevard, a building owned by his father. His present occupation is unknown."

When asked if any of the three incorporators had police records, Mr. Jamie said his investigators had found none. He knew of no affiliations of the three, he said, but in connection with them there appeared the name of John Raymond, supposed to be a solicitor for the protective association they had formed, and this was supposed to be the alias used by some gang chief, Mr. Jamie said.

Report Influx of Undesirables.

The Better Business Bureau reported that in the last few months many shady investment brokerage houses had come into Chicago, using the telephone instead of the mails to solicit business. Last December the state Supreme court held invalid a law which required the licensing of all securities dealers, and the influx of undesirables followed, it was reported.

Before the special session of the legislature recessed on Feb. 18, a bill was introduced and passed by the house which corrected the faults of the law that had been held invalid. When the bill came up for action in the senate on Feb. 18, Senator Richard J. Barr, president pro tem, delayed it with the statement that the senators had not time to become familiar with its provisions.

Yesterday Senator James J. Barbour, sponsor of the bill in the senate, left for Springfield to arrange for support which he hopes will enable passage of the bill today.

George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, in a statement issued before his departure for Washington yesterday, explained that the bill is aimed at the extermination of bucket shops.

"At a time like the present, regulation of security dealers in the public interest is of the greatest value," his statement declared.

Simon J. Gorman Files $100,000 Slander Suit

Simon J. Gorman, a union organizer, filed a $100,000 slander suit yesterday in Superior court against Gordon L. Hostetter, agent and executive secretary of the Employers' Association of Chicago. Gorman charged that Hostetter had referred to him as a "gangster, gunman, and leader of a gang of hoodlums." The bill, drawn by Attorney Cameron Latter, says that Hostetter's attack caused Gorman to be rejected as counselor of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association, and that later Hostetter obtained the position.

You may become reconciled

after the loss of 4 or 5 teeth

but it was hard at first, wasn't it?

The first tooth is the hardest—particularly if your dentist says it was lost on account of pyorrhea. The word "pyorrhea" strikes terror into the hearts of those who know that once this gum disease starts to take teeth there is no knowing when it will stop.

Pyorrhea begins at the gum line and works its way downward toward the tooth sockets. It acts so quietly, that you may have it years before it is either seen or felt. Four out of five people past the age of forty have pyorrhea—and many of them had it a long, long time before it was recognized. In the end, pyorrhea is the actual cause of half the adult teeth lost.

It is dangerous to take any chances with pyorrhea. Here are two precautions to follow: First, be sure not to forget the address of your dentist. Visit him twice a year, anyway. He is a real friend in need. Second, pick out a toothpaste that does more than polish your teeth. Forhan's Toothpaste is a thoroughly good cleanser—none better. But it takes care of the gums too, and you cannot have healthy teeth in unhealthy gums. Dr. R. J. Forhan worked 26 years as a pyorrhea specialist, and his exclusive formula cannot be obtained by the public except in Forhan's Toothpaste. Get ahead of pyorrhea. Prevention is the only way. Take it seriously. Start today with Forhan's. All druggists.

DEMAND GENTZEL END TAXI DANCE HALL PROTECTION

Club Floridan Called a Hellhole of Vice.

The city's campaign to close taxi dance halls was centered yesterday in Superior Judge Robert E. Gentzel's court. Corporation Counsel William Sexton appeared there and asked the court to dissolve an injunction preventing police interference with the Club Floridan, 676 West Madison street. Judge Gentzel said he would rule on the matter next Friday.

The Club Floridan dance hall is one of four operating under injunctions, according to Assistant Corporation Counsel Otto F. Weiner. Three of the injunctions, he said, were issued by Judge Gentzel.

Closed Last September.

Mayor Cermak ordered the Club Floridan license revoked last year, and on Sept. 29, 1931, it was closed. On Nov. 25, 1931, Judge Gentzel issued a temporary injunction against police interference and the hall reopened. The corporation counsel's office then collected new evidence against the dance hall and on Jan. 19 appeared before Judge Gentzel with a motion to dissolve the temporary order.

Six continuances have been granted since that time, Mr. Weiner said, four on defendant's request, and two on the court's motion.

Corporation Counsel Sexton yesterday described the Club Floridan as "one of the vilest hell holes in the city," and called the injunction "one of the most restrictive that I have seen."

Recalled Plea of March 4.

Recalling that on March 2 the court had taken the matter under advisement, Mr. Sexton said:

"On March 4 we called the matter to your honor's attention. At that time your honor stated that you had been busy, but that you would get to it very soon; that the conduct of that place was your responsibility and not our responsibility. I do not think that your honor could have known at that time the scope of your injunction or I do not think you would have said that."

The order entered by the court, the corporation counsel continued, "has operated to tie the hands of the law enforcing officers of this community and to make this place a place of sanctuary."

THE COURT—You mean like a church?

MR. SEXTON—Well, I looked that word "sanctuary" up this morning in the dictionary. Its third definition is "a sacred, inviolable place of refuge and protection." God knows it is not a sacred place. Even Dante's "Inferno" describing the depths of hell can't compare with the description of that dance hall in affidavits which we have filed.

Sanctuary for Crooks.

"Assume there was a bank robbery and that the fugitive lands in one of these 'dancing schools.' Well, is he then a 'patron' or 'guest'—or would he be a 'pupil'?"

THE COURT—O, that is why you used the word "sanctuary"?

MR. SEXTON—That is why I say that it is a "sanctuary."

The corporation counsel then explained that last Saturday he learned that the police planned to raid the Club Floridan on the orders of Mayor Cermak. He called the mayor and told him it "couldn't be done," but added that he would go before the court and see if Judge Gentzel were "ready to decide this motion."

"We would be far better off if your honor had denied the motion a long while ago because then we could have gone to some other court," Mr. Sexton continued.

Drive It Out of Business.

"This administration is going to put this place out of business and it's going to close other places of similar character. I was born in Chicago, and I think I am city broke, but I was appalled when I saw the photographs of these girls.

"They had no clothes on. By that I mean they were practically naked. They had on 'brassieres' which in this case were very narrow. Then they have on shorts or trunks. And, of course, they had on slippers.

"Now if you can make a dancing school out of that; and if lawyers can come into court and file that kind of a bill and fool the chancellor, then society cannot protect itself. There are people in this town who do not believe that our affairs should be conducted that way."

Affidavits By Police.

The affidavits, made by nine policemen, described the hall as they found it on numerous visits. The girls, they said, entwined their arms around their necks and solicited them to dance. They paid 10 cents a dance, which lasted only half a minute. Each said they had eight or ten dances.

No women were allowed as patrons of the dance hall, the affidavits said. The girls received half of the 10 cents charge for each dance, which the officers said was "not dancing at all." They were scantily clad in pajamas or brassieres and shorts. When the dancing "got rough" the management made no effort to interfere the affidavits stated.

The Club Floridan is reported to be owned and operated by the Capone syndicate. It is believed to be the dance hall referred to in the so-called "death letter" of Mike de Pike Heitler, in which he referred to a dance hall at Madison and Union avenues, as owned by Jimmie Adduci and "Dago Lawrence" Mangano, Capone gangster.

LIQUOR KILLER'S SLAYING RECORD BARED BY ARREST

Woodcock Defends 2 Texas Agents.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—National Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock today said that he had just learned L. C. Smith, one of the two dry agents held in Dallas, Tex., for murder, had been previously convicted of manslaughter.

Mr. Woodcock added a belief that neither Smith nor his partner, N. D. Heaton, was guilty of the later crime. The agents are accused of shooting and killing F. M. McGlothlin, a storekeeper, and wounding Mrs. McGlothlin when the husband resisted them, not knowing they were enforcement officials.

Store Scene of Killing.

The shooting occurred during an attempt to arrest a suspected bootlegger in the McGlothlin store.

Although defending their action as taken in self-defense, the director ordered both agents suspended on the ground that they "had not measured up to the standard set for prohibition agents." Commenting on Smith's criminal record, he said:

"It has come to my attention since this unfortunate happening that Agent Smith has a previous conviction of manslaughter. That fact was unknown to the civil service commission which qualified him. He was in the service when I took charge, so of course I knew nothing of his record."

Will Ask Transfer.

Smith and Heaton have been indicted for murder and assault in the Texas courts and their trial has been set for May 18 in Dallas. It is expected, however, that federal officials will ask that their case be transferred to the federal court.

So far the agents have remained in jail, their superior officers having failed in efforts to have them released on bonds.

JURY OF JOBLESS TRIES 14 REDS IN RIOTING CASE

Fourteen communists, charged with participating in a riot in Michigan avenue near the link bridge on March 12, yesterday went on trial in the court of Municipal Judge Thomas A. Green. By agreement of attorneys for the prosecution and defense, a jury of ten unemployed men will decide the issue, the reduction from the usual twelve being made when a venire of 38 prospective jurors was exhausted. The case is expected to go to the jury today.

Four of the defendants are women, Mrs. Anna Rebja, Mrs. Ida Mittleman, Miss Evaline Wiener and Mrs. Anna Grossman. Mrs. Rebja and her son were wounded by shots fired during the mêlée of police and rioters by Steven Chuck, 26 year old Canadian communist, who is now in the county jail awaiting trial in the Felony court. His bullets also struck three policemen.

More than 175 policemen will guard the line of march of some 1,000 communists in their so-called hunger parade on the south side this afternoon. The demonstrators will assemble at 47th and Federal streets and march to the stockyards. Police plans to prevent riots or other disturbances were completed last night by Commissioner Allman and his subordinates.

Replies to Smith Criticism in St. Paul Speech.

been shaken by an earthquake of national proportions and the foundations have cracked and the roof leaks it is right to mend the roof, but at the same time your house will not be safe until you have repaired foundation as well. I want the house to stand through all the years to come, as well as to keep the rain out of the top story.

"I am pleading for a policy broad enough to include every part of our economic structure. A policy that seeks to help all simultaneously, that shows an understanding of the fact that there are millions of our people who cannot be helped by merely helping their employers because they are not employés in the strict sense of the word—the farmers, the small business man, the professional people. Help for them means a greater consumption not of luxuries but of the necessities of life, and this means more factory wheels turning in the cities, more employment for the strictly industrial population, for the railroad worker and for the distributors. That kind of buying power makes itself felt more quickly than any other.

Takes Up Power Control.

"Not only among the sections of this country, but among its economic units and the various groups in these units there must be common participations, planned on the basis of a shared common life, the low as well as the high. In much of our present plan there is too much disposition to mistake the part for the whole, the head for the body. I plead not for a class control but for a true concert of interests.

"The plans we make for this emergency, if we plan wisely and rest our structure upon a base sufficiently broad, will show the way to a more permanent safeguarding of our social and economic life."

Taking up the example of electricity, Gov. Roosevelt then recited the history of public utilities in New York state. He said his "distinguished predecessor" [referring to former Gov. Smith], had prevented control of the power generated from the St. Lawrence river from passing away from the state.

In order to be absolutely certain that the actual possession of the power itself should never be alienated from the people, I insisted that the actual dam or dams and the actual power house should be constructed by a public authority and always remain in the physical possession of that authority."

Holds Tariff Injures Farmer.

Roosevelt said he had urged the legislature to allow private business to "transmit and distribute this latent water power on a fair return on their investment" or, if business men were unwilling, to have the state go into the transmission business itself.

"That is the obvious development of any sound government control over private utilities—that government itself should not engage in the utility business if it can find private initiative and private capital willing to undertake the business for a reasonable and fair return on the capital."

Gov. Roosevelt said that the Republican administration had "greatly intensified the depression by its tariff policy." He recited "injuries" to the farmers, the export trade, American investments abroad and coöperation in international tariff regulations.

"To my mind a proper tariff policy must be a complete reversal of the methods of the present administration," the governor said. "The scientific determination of economic facts and scientific determination of probable results of proposed changes are all for the good and should, of course, be used. But this action in itself does nothing to bring about actual reciprocal exchange of goods so necessary to us and to all nations. That is the only realistic method of making goods move."

"The world is looking for that type of statesmanship—for such a plan that goes far beyond mere scale reductions—that fills in the gaps in the mere advocating of 'expert' tariff boards and, above all, that provides a real beginning of that international resumption of business that every one favors and expects."

The speech before the largest political assembly in Minnesota climaxed a busy day for Gov. Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt. A parade, many conferences, luncheon talks, a visit to Gov. Floyd B. Olson, and a luncheon in Minneapolis for Mrs. Roosevelt filled the day.

CANNON DECLARES NOW THAT HE IS OPPOSED TO REFERENDUM ON RUM

Washington, D. C., April 18.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, made it plain today that he opposed resubmission of the prohibition question at this time.

Addressing the annual convention of the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement, he quoted from his recent Richmond speech and said:

"Certainly these quotations show that I am positively opposed to the resubmission of the prohibition amendment until the people have indicated clearly in congressional and senatorial elections that the people themselves, not the wet press, not the associations opposed to prohibition, not even the wet women, want the amendment resubmitted."

CALLS DRY LAW MAGNA CHARTA OF UNDERWORLD

Glenn Frank Demands Political Action.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., April 18.—[Special.]—After the announcement of his stand in a speech in Philadelphia that repeal of the eighteenth amendment is necessary, President Glenn Frank of the University of Wisconsin announced here today he will attend both Republican and Democratic presidential conventions in Chicago in June with the contention that the issue of prohibition will test the political honesty of the leaders of both parties.

President Frank declared that prohibition is being used as a smoke screen behind which timid politicians hide their reluctance to deal courageously with basic economic issues upon which the future depends.

"Each party protests that it wants to see prohibition taken out of politics so that national attention can be brought to focus upon the crucial economic issues in which the stability of the American future is involved," Mr. Frank said.

Must Admit Failure.

"There is only one way in which prohibition can be taken out of politics and the track cleared for concentration upon these crucial economic issues, and that is for the leaderships of the two major parties to be courageous enough to admit in their platforms that the 18th amendment has signally failed and shows no signs of reaching in the future the moral objectives toward which its advocates pointed it.

"While I visited a little Missouri village I knew in my boyhood, I found the village drunkard has disappeared but that the drinking village has taken his place. And this, I think, is a picture in miniature of the nation. We have nationwide nullification of our prohibition legislation. We can self-righteously assert that we are free from the charge of taking blood money from taxes on the liquor traffic. We are. But what is the alternative? Honesty compels us to admit that the 18th amendment has become the magna charta of the underworld.

Doesn't Prohibit Drinking.

"If prohibition drastically reduced drinking, protected youth, advanced temperance among all classes and made for increasing law and order, every self-respecting American would be behind it. The brutal truth is that it does not."

Forest City National Bank at Rockford Is Closed

Rockford, Ill., April 18.—(AP)—The Forest City National bank was closed today by its directors, and a national bank examiner assumed charge. John D. Waterman is chairman of the board and Ralph B. Spottswood president. The bank was organized in 1930. Its statement of Dec. 1, 1930, showed deposits of $2,821,002, capital of $200,000, and surplus and profits of $377,148.

M'BRIDE SEES HOOVER'S DEFEAT IF HE O. K.'S BEER

Indianapolis, Ind., April 18.—[Special.]—"If President Hoover succumbs to some of his advisers and declares for 4 per cent beer or any weakening of the prohibition laws he will be beaten pitifully in the 1932 election," declared Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, today.

McBride, addressing the statewide temperance convention under auspices of the Indiana Anti-Saloon league, professed to be optimistic over the future of prohibition.

"You know what happened in Illinois in 1930 when Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick ran for the Republican nomination as a dry," McBride said. "Immediately after the primary she switched and talked wet and she was slaughtered. All our people turned to the avowed wet, J. Hamilton Lewis, in preference to voting for a deserter.

"That is what would happen to Hoover, if he turned, but of course, such a possibility is remote, because the President is a sincere believer in prohibition."

CURLEY DODGES PARADE BUT CALLS BEER MEETING

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Mayor James M. Curley of Boston today shied away from Mayor Walker's proposal for a "beer for taxation" parade. The mayor of the Massachusetts city, however, has called a meeting in Boston for May 14, the date suggested by Mayor Walker for the beer parade, at which resolutions favoring the liberalization of the Volstead act will be adopted.

Mayor Curley, in a telegram defining his attitude, said:

"A meeting will be arranged in Boston as suggested for May 14 to adopt resolutions favorable to liberalising the Volstead act. We cannot undertake the parade, however."

Here Mayor Walker's parade was nearing realization, amid all the attendant throes of organization. There were plans for nation-wide radio appeals, tentative lines of march, the appointment of the necessary officials, honorary and otherwise, and scores of other details under consideration.

GIVE NATION BEER AND PLUG DEFICIT, TYDINGS DEMAND

Would Turn Loose Billion, Half for Jobless.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—Pay for a billion and a half dollar public works program with a tax from legalized beer and you'll save both the national treasury from deficit and the nation's unemployed from starvation, Senator Tydings of Maryland, leader of the wet Democrats in the senate, today told his colleagues as he introduced his emergency construction act as an amendment to the pending tax bill.

MILLARD E. TYDINGS.

The bill provides for the creation of a $1,500,000,000 bond issue to be amortized at the rate of 10 per cent each year, and to be sold as a "popular loan" to be repaid entirely by a tax levied on 2.75 per cent beer taxes at the rate of 24 cents per gallon.

Stipulates Money Uses.

Such a tax, basing annual consumption on the 1914 pre-prohibition consumption of 1,980,000 gallons, would bring $500,000,000 per year into the United States treasury, or two billion dollars in four years.

All this beer tax money must travel an isolated channel, stipulated by Senator Tydings' bill, direct to the treasury where the first $150,000,000 each year would be immediately allocated to the bond issue repayment. The next $50,000,000 for the interest charges, would also be specifically designated. Any additional annual funds from the tax would then go to the treasury to be used for general purposes the same as other tax revenues.

To do this the bill provides for amendment of the Volstead act to raise the legal alcoholic content of beer from one-half of 1 per cent to 2.75 per cent, and would bring a modification vote to this session surely since it would be attached to the tax bill.

Raps Content Ruling.

Dubbing the present one-half of 1 per cent a "senseless, arbitrary" bit of arithmetic, and calling upon the senators not to be bound by such a magic figure in the face of their own common sense, Senator Tydings said:

"But this is not a wet or a dry speech. It is offered in good faith to take care of unemployment. Such a tax and resultant bond issue will line the pockets of those," he spoke very solemnly, "who won't much longer be put off."

Then he uttered this warning, already hinted at by several senators: "Next winter we know that local funds aren't going to be available for local relief. And, if food is not available, it may be difficult for our government to function at all."

Cites Chicago Problem.

He referred to Chicago's delayed pay to municipal employés, its scrip payment for teachers, and contrasted this deficit with the billion and a half public works program already authorized by congress but for which there is no appropriation. His plan, he argued, would "turn loose a billion and a half dollars in buildin activity, or $400 for every unemployed family.

"And it wouldn't tax automobile or soap, radios or income. It would simply tax an article that anybody can now buy. Al Capone and his henchmen are getting the money. Why not let the government get it and put the unemployed to work?".

Earlier in the day, the senate, by a vote of 47 to 2 had cut the appropriation for prohibition enforcement from the $11,369,500 recommended by the house to the $10,250,000 suggested by the senate appropriations committee reporting on the supply bill for the state, justice, commerce and labor departments Senators Howell [Rep., Neb.] and Cotigan [radical Dem., Colo.] cast the two dissenting votes. Senator Sheppard [Dem. Tex.] voted for the cut.

This is the first time a prohibition enforcement appropriation has ever been cut, when it had reached this stage in its passage.

But this victory had followed two defeats for the wets, Senator Johnson [Rep., Cal.] had introduced an amendment halving the committee recommendation of $10,500,000 to $5,125,000, but it was defeated by a vote of 17 to 42.

The Republicans voting for the cut were Senators Bailey, Barbour, Bingham, Blaine, Cutting, Glenn, Johnson, Kean, Oddie, and Walcott; and the Democrats were Senators Bulow, Coolidge, Copeland, Lewis, Tydings, Wagner and Wheeler.

Republicans opposing the cut were Senators Austin, Borah, Brookhart, Capper, Dale, Dickinson, Fess, Goldsborough, Hale, Hatfield, Howell, McNary, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Patterson, Robinson [Ind.], Steiwer, Thomas [Idaho], Vandenberg, Watson, and White. Democratic opposition included Senators Black, Bratton, Byrnes, Connally, Costigan, Dill, George, Hayden, Hull, Kendrick, McGill, McKellar, Morrison, Neely, Robinson [Ark.], Sheppard, Smith, Stephens, Thomas [Okla.], and Trammell.

"I am sure," said Senator Johnson ironically, "that we can get as efficient prohibition enforcement for five million dollars as we can get for ten million."

Senator Tydings offered an amendment cutting the appropriation to 9 million, but this was defeated 18 to 43, with Senator Bankhead [Dem., Ala.], adding to the yeas, and Senator Ashurst [Dem., Ariz.], adding to the nays recorded on the previous motion.

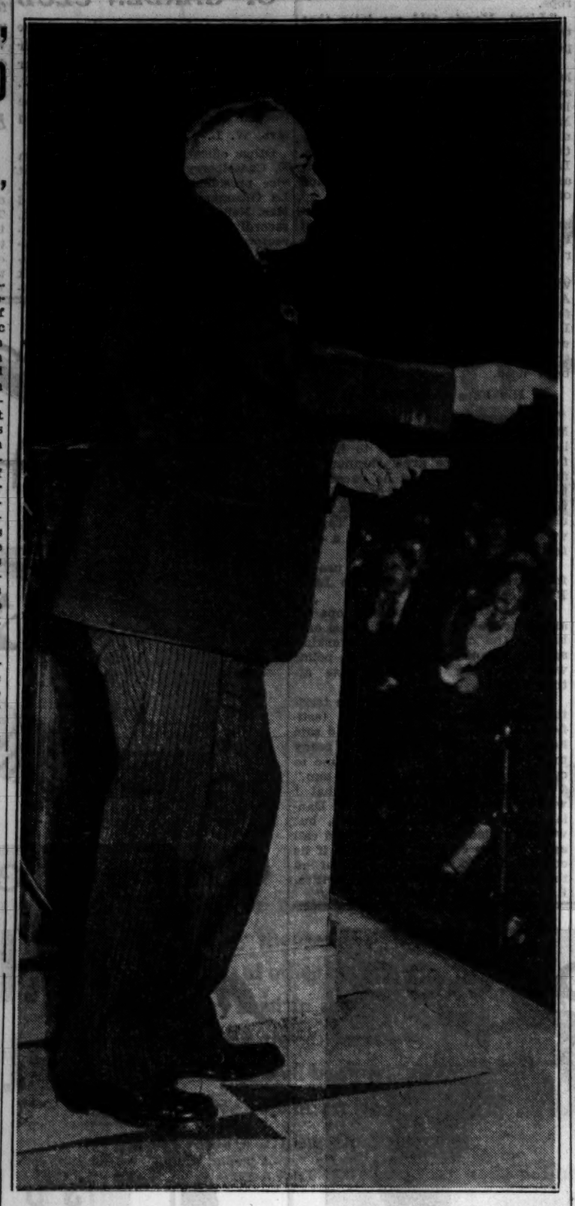

Brookhart Offers Vote Plan.

Senator Brookhart [Rep., Ia.], one of the senate's foremost dry leaders, offered a proposal for a referendum on the liquor question. He submitted a constitutional amendment under which two-thirds of the states might, by a majority vote, force congress to submit an amendment for ratification by 36 states.

"This is a genuine referendum," Senator Brookhart declared. These other referenda proposals are fakes. If the wets want a real referendum they will favor this."

"I am not afraid of the people on prohibition or anything else," he said. "This proposition will permit direct action on the constitution by the people themselves. I apprehend that some of the wets don't want other amendments subjected to revision."

KEEPS UP FIGHT ON DRYS

STATE RIGHTS ON LIQUOR CONTROL BACKED BY SMITH

Maps Fight for Raskob Party Plank.

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith declared today in an interview that he intended to urge adoption of the so-called Raskob state control prohibition plan by the Democratic national convention in Chicago unless something better was proposed. He said he would not be satisfied with any plank that proposed anything less effective.

Asked if he approved Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's stand for return of control of the liquor traffic to the states, as expressed in a letter to the Liberal Civic league in Boston, Mr. Smith said he would want to see the "blueprints" of any plans which might be advanced for consideration for a platform plank by the national convention.

Wants Definite Plan.

"Would you be satisfied with a plank similar to your personal declaration when you were the nominee for President in 1928?" Mr. Smith was asked.

"Not at all," Mr. Smith replied. "We have gone ahead by leaps and bounds on that question since 1928. When I then declared for the principle of restoring the power to regulate the liquor traffic to the states there was no plan advanced at that time for bringing that about. It is now time for a definite plan."

Mr. Smith made it clear that he would not be satisfied with any plan that did not call for an amendment to the eighteenth amendment to restore liquor control to the states with ratification by conventions in each state instead of by the legislatures.

Raskob Plan O. K.

The plan advanced by John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman, which was referred by the national committee to the resolutions committee of the convention, pledges the Democratic party to this method of ratification and pledges Democratic senators and representatives to vote for submission of an amendment to the eighteenth amendment.

Mr. Smith has advocated this method to liberalize the prohibition laws instead of straight repeal because he does not believe repeal practicable at present.

Protests Ardent Drys.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 18.—[Special.]—Raymond Pitcairn, acting for the Republican citizens' committee against national prohibition, today wired Senator Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee, strongly criticizing organization of the forthcoming Republican national convention with "ardent drys" in key positions.

He mentioned these men: Senator Dickinson, keynoter; Everett Saunders, secretary; Lafayette Gleason, James Francis Burke, and Lehr Fess.

FINE 24 DOCTORS FOR ISSUING RUM PRESCRIPTIONS

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Twenty-five practicing physicians, among them two women doctors, today were arraigned in federal court, Brooklyn, on charges of issuing liquor prescriptions in violation of the Volstead act.

Twenty-four pleaded guilty and one pleaded not guilty. One who was to have appeared sent word that he was engaged in a serious medical case and was excused for appearance May 6.

Of those who pleaded guilty, twelve were fined $150 and eleven were fined $100 each.

PUSSYFOOT JOHNSON O. K.'S REFERENDUM ON PROHIBITION QUESTION

Binghamton, N. Y., April 18.—(AP)—William E. [Pussyfoot] Johnson, dry crusader, is not opposed to a referendum on prohibition.

The white haired, bespectacled veteran of the cause of prohibition, speaking from his home at Smithville Flats today in a newspaper interview said he was "distinctly in favor" of a national referendum on the question "whenever the people demand it in the form provided by the constitution." The constitutional provision requires a two-thirds vote of each house to submit the question of amendment to the people.

"Let these alcoholic ghost dancers," Johnson, a Republican, said, "take their troubles into the congressional districts where they belong and decide this question by votes."

He asserted that if the Literary Digest poll "really represents a cross section of American opinion, there will be no difficulty for the booze hounds in electing a congress that will be responsive to their thirst."

ARMY OF RAIDERS LAUNCH DRIVE TO DRY UP NEW YORK

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Armed with copies of the newly compiled "speakeasy directory," an army of 100 prohibition agents sallied forth today in a spectacular attempt to dry up Manhattan. There are 20,000 known "wet" spots in the borough—restaurants, cordial shops, and night clubs in addition to listed speakeasies—and the job is expected to take from six weeks to two months.

ANDREW McCAMPBELL. [(C) Harris & Ewing]

Thirty places were raided in the opening foray and as many arrests made. The prisoners, owners, managers and employés of the places for the most part, were charged with violating the prohibition law.

The agents are working in squads of fifty men each. As a preliminary to the offensive they were mobilized at the federal building here and lectured by Andrew McCampbell, prohibition administrator.

Plans for today's attack were completed last week when Administrator Woodcock conferred here with a number of special agents, United States District Attorney George Z. Medalie, Mr. McCampbell.

He said that no longer would prohibition agents have to guess at the number of speakeasies or their location. The census had been completed, he said, and every place in the city engaged in selling liquor was known and indexed.

Flint Mayor Is Reseated Despite Liquor Charges

Flint, Mich., April 18.—(AP)—Mayor William H. McKeighan, who is on trial in federal court in Bay City for conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition laws, was reëlected by the city commission tonight after a deadlock which had extended through three sessions and 71 ballots. He was elected to his fifth term as mayor on the day he went on trial with Caesar J. Scavarda, his police chief and acting city manager, and two others.

DRY EDICT SHOWS PROHIBITION IS A FARCE: HORNER

Calls Order to Close City for Conventions Absurd.

The reports that Chicago saloonkeepers have been warned by the local prohibition authorities that they must stay closed during June when the political conventions are here, were described by Probate Judge Henry Horner, Democrat candidate for governor, in an interview yesterday, as a typical instance of the farcical nature of prohibition.

"The press reports that saloon proprietors in Chicago have been told that they must close up in June," said the judge. "This is in itself an admission of failure to enforce the 18th amendment. It intimates an absurd effort on the part of the dry forces to 'make a showing' for at least a few weeks in one big city.

A Test of Prohibition.

"The report goes further to say that if the speakeasies of Chicago do not close voluntarily, a throng of prohibition agents will be massed here to make the city dry for a month, at least. That should be a test of prohibition enforcement welcomed by both drys and wets. It would serve to show the staggering cost of a real attempt to enforce the law and it would, in my opinion, also show the utter futility of actual enforcement unless the sympathy of the citizenry is with the enforcers.

"Even if all the dry raiders in America were marching the streets of Chicago in June, I doubt if the thirsty would find it impossible to get what they wanted. Only if the inhabitants of Chicago themselves joined in the movement to keep the city dry would success attend the efforts of the prohibition department."

American Spirit Rebels.

Sumptuary laws such as the 18th amendment will never be capable of enforcement in this country because of the natural American spirit of rebellion against such mandates, the judge declared.

"If the 'noble experiment' had succeeded actually in stopping the sale and consumption of liquor, many of us might not like it but we would have to accept it without quarreling over it," he said. "The advocates of total abstinence are entitled to their views as I am to mine. But no person in his right senses would even suggest that there has been any appreciable diminution of the manufacture, sale, and consumption of liquor."

Raids Aimed at Capone.

M. L. Harney, local prohibition administrator, expressed amazement yesterday at reports of a determined drive to dry up Chicago for the big conventions. He explained the unprecedented activity of the last ten days, when more than 150 speakeasies and saloons were raided, as an effort to cut off some of the income of the Capone syndicate by closing their sources of revenue.

Speakeasy owners are being compelled to pay as high as $55 a barrel for beer, with syndicate agents as salesmen, and the raids were aimed at this system, he said. He refused to state what action might be taken to deprive the political delegates of beer and hard liquor.

Northwest India Is Made a "Governor's Province"

PESHAWAR, India, April 18.—(AP)—With appropriate ceremony, Viceroy Earl Willingdon today raised the northwest frontier province to the status of a "governor's province." Lieut. Col. Sir Ralph Griffith, who has been chief commissioner since last October, was installed as governor.

PROSECUTION IS UNABLE TO SHAKE MASSIE'S STORY

Navy Officer Foils Effort to Trap Him.

answer of Massie now and then when he failed to get a definite reply.

Before the opening of court today Darrow received many messages of congratulation on his 75th birthday. He said he felt fine as he ate his breakfast of prunes and mush. Among the birthday cards was one from Chicago. It was addressed to the "apostle of reason" and carried a picture of a melancholy pup saying, "Ain't birthdays hell?"

The prospect of Massie's cross-examination held a deep interest for the audience of 75 persons who were lucky enough to crowd into the small court room. As he entered this ordeal Massie undoubtedly carried a larger measure of popular sympathy than was ever accorded him before. This extends even to the Hawaiian race.

Attorney George Leisure, for the defense, called Massie to the stand and Prosecutor Kelley began to cross-examine him. Kelley began with the naval officer's story of the party at the Ala Wai inn on Sept. 12.

"We reserved a table downstairs for a party of six persons," Massie said. "My wife said she didn't feel like going, but I insisted."

Brought Liquor to Party.

Q.—Did you bring liquor? A.—Do I have to answer that?

Q.—Answer the question. A.—I took a pint.

He said the others did not take any with them and that before going to the inn one round of drinks was served at the Massie home.

Q.—How many times did you dance with your wife? A.—I think twice.

Q.—Did you go upstairs? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you have drinks there? A.—No, sir, when I went upstairs during the intermission I took what was left in the glass and went up to the orchestra. I said, "Fine music, boys, how about playing 'Pal o' Mine?'" And they did.

Q.—Was your wife upstairs? A.—Yes, with friends and others I didn't know.

Was Enjoying Himself.

Q.—How long prior to the end of the dance? A.—I don't know. I was not interested in the time. I was enjoying myself.

[It is around this party and the time that many of the rumors concerning Mrs. Massie's character were centered.]

Q.—What time did you miss your wife? A.—Mrs. Raynor [a guest at the party] said between 11 and 12 o'clock.

Q.—Were you intoxicated at 11:30 o'clock? A.—No.

Q.—Was Lieut. Branson? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Was he so drunk his wife had left the party and you had to drive him home? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Were the others drunk? A.—I don't know, they might have been.

Pressed further by the prosecution, Massie admitted that one man was drunk but that he did not want to name him.

"I'll save you the trouble," Kelley snapped.

Noticed Wife Was Missing.

Q.—When did you notice your wife was missing? A.—A good bit later.

Q.—You said your wife walked out of other parties? A.—I said she excused herself, once, near our home. She walked home alone then.

Q.—Her reason for leaving parties was not on account of your condition? A.—I hope not.

Q.—Did you see Lieut. Branson in the vicinity of your house before going to the police station? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you see Branson anywhere before Mrs. Massie told you she had been beaten and assaulted? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Was he intoxicated? A.—I didn't think so.

Q.—Was he fully dressed? A.—I think he had his coat off.

[The story which has made the rounds in Honolulu is that Branson, with part of his clothes off, was found in front of the Massie home.]

Asks About Other Parties.

Two hours elapsed, the prosecutor brought out, between the time Mrs. Massie was missed and when she was found at her home. Massie testified that he saw Kahahawai and the other defendants in the rape case at the hospital.

Q.—Were you at a party on New Year's eve? A.—Yes, at the Waialai Country club.

Q.—Sure? A.—Yes.

Q.—Were you at a party at the Deering place? A.—Yes, but I don't recall the date.

Q.—Did you take in dances at the Moana hotel? A.—No, I couldn't do that.

Q.—Were you in a collision on the night of Sept. 12? A.—No, but a car swerved in front of us and touched our bumpers.

Kelley asked Massie about rumors he had heard regarding his wife.

"I don't think any one who knew us repeated them," he answered. "They told me that they had heard them—and asked what they could do to help. I went to see Attorney Eugene H. Beebe after I heard of the confession of Horace Ida [one of the four accused of raping Mrs. Massie]. I wanted this made public in a large way to stop all this vicious talk."

Q.—Did you ask Mr. Beebe if the unwritten law could be invoked in the territory of Hawaii? A.—I don't think so.

Q.—You deny it? A.—I don't know, I might have.

Q.—Do you know an artist here named Luquinas? A.—No.

After a moment of silence and with hesitation, Massie asked, "Is the artist a lady?"

"No, a man."

"I want to say that I don't know him," Massie added.

Q.—Did you tell any one two or three days before Kahahawai was killed that you ought to take him out and shoot him? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—Did you tell Mr. Beebe? A.—I don't remember.

Q.—What was your condition then? A.—I was never more sick and miserable in my life.

The Day of the Killing.

The witness was then taken to the day of the killing. He indicated on a chart of Mrs. Fortescue's house the chaise lounge where he had tossed his .45 caliber automatic. It was on the opposite side of the room from where Kahahawai had sat. The naval officer said the gun was concealed by pillows. Questioned about the purple threaded rope with which Kahahawai's body was bound, Massie testified that when Jones asked Mrs. Fortescue to get him some shirts and a rope, it was because of blood stains on the cuffs of the shirt he was wearing and because he wanted to tie up a bundle of shirts. Asked where the leg irons found in the house came from, he said they were found in the car Mrs. Fortescue had rented from a man at the naval base.

Q.—Did the leg irons have anything to do with the kidnaping? A.—Not a thing. I had no keys for them.

Lieut. Massie, apparently not greatly worried, exhibited coolness during the questioning.

Q.—Do you know who undressed the body of Kahahawai? A.—Only from what I heard.

Q.—Who did it? A.—Jones told me. He said the stains wouldn't come out so he took the clothes off.

Q.—Did Mrs. Fortescue tell you the purpose of getting the rope? A.—So the sheets would not come off.

Q.—Did any one tell you where Kahahawai died? A.—Yes, Mrs. Fortescue.

Q.—Where did he die? A.—On the lounge.

Q.—Did they bring the body into the bathroom after he died? A.—I think some one told me that.

Darrow Interrupts Testimony.

Darrow frequently eased the situation with a trifling objection or interruption.

Q.—Did any one tell you who carried the body out? A.—Yes, the three other defendants. Everybody was so excited they didn't know what to do. They just ran around in circles, from what I heard.

Q.—Did they tell you that Kahahawai struggled? A.—No.

"From all I know I might have gone to China that morning," Massie continued. "Mrs. Fortescue told me that Jones pushed me in the car. Jones said Mrs. Fortescue left him there to straighten up the house."

Q.—Including mopping up the blood on the bathroom floor? A.—You might ask him.

Sailor was "Sober as a Judge."

Q.—Was Jones drunk? A.—Sober as a judge.

Q.—Did you have any drinks at the Fortescue house? A.—None that I recall.

Against this was the previous evidence that glasses partly filled with liquor were on the kitchen table.

Q.—You never had intentions of getting a confession to use in a new trial of the Ala Moana case? A.—I was never interested in but one thing, clearing the name of my family. I wasn't worried about the trial, but about my wife. You would have been, too.

Q.—Your purpose was not to bring the defendants to justice? A.—What I told you was dominant in my mind.

Q.—Who drew the shades and closed the windows at Mrs. Fortescue's house? A.—I don't remember. I wasn't worried about the shades.

Q.—You agreed the day before to use a gun to scare Kahahawai into talking? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did he recognize you during the drive? A.—He gave no sign. I made it a point of not turning my head toward him. I had that much sense.

Mrs. Fortescue looked well today, in a new little blue straw hat and a blue figured dress. Her face appeared eased from strain. Alienists on both sides of the court watched Massie closely.

Q.—What happened to the gun which was used to shoot Kahahawai? A.—Jones said the gun was taken to my house.

Q.—Did any one tell you what you did after the shot was fired? A.—Yes, Mrs. Fortescue said I stood there like a bump on a log. She tried to talk to me, but I wouldn't talk. She took me to the kitchen and tried to give me a drink of "oke" [a native intoxicant].

"Acted Like Damn Fool."

Q.—What did Jones say? A.—He said I acted like a damn fool.

Q.—An enlisted man in the navy told you that? A.—I resented it.

Q.—Did Mrs. Fortescue tell you why you took the route to Koko Head? A.—No, I think she has been trying to figure that out ever since. She said some one told her to take the road to the sea.

Q.—Was the purpose to dispose of the body?

There was no answer but assent was indicated.

Q.—You were told this was the purpose? A.—It is logical to believe it. I don't remember being in the car with Mrs. Fortescue, Lord, and the body.

Q.—Were you in such a condition that you could not help dispose of the body? A.—I don't see how I could have. (After a silence.) I know why I went now. They sent me out to get some fresh air.

Q.—Why did you use Maj. Gordon Ross' name (then head of the territorial police) in the kidnaping? A.—I thought it logical.

Asks of Kidnaping Plot.

Q.—You were never implicated in a kidnaping plot before this? A.—No.

Q.—Where were you in 1927? A.—In the naval academy.

Q.—Were you there on the afternoon of Aug. 27, 1927? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you ever visit the Fortescue house on Long Island, named Wildwood? A.—Yes.

Q.—Were you ever implicated in kidnaping a baby? A.—No, I never was and never will be implicated in kidnaping a baby.

Q.—Were you ever arrested on a charge of kidnaping?

Lieut. Massie hesitated and then said that what might have been a charge of kidnaping later proved not to be that.

"I don't think it was an arrest," Massie explained. "I was taken to an office. Mrs. Massie and I were at a movie. When we came outside, a baby was near the ticket office in a carriage an it was crying. Mrs. Massie said, 'Poor little thing.' I said that I would go down the block a bit and quiet the child. A woman came screaming down the street, 'You are kidnaping my baby!'"

"I think she was an Italian lady. Mrs. Massie called me. The woman said, 'give me five dollars,' and I said nothing. The next morning police investigated and the case was dropped."

Q.—This was at Patchogue, Long Island? A.—Yes.

"At the naval academy every one shunned and avoided me like hell," Massie added.

Q.—You heard of the cablegram sent by Admiral William V. Pratt to Admiral Yates Stirling on Dec. 19, 1931?

The prosecutor was evidently alluding to Admiral Pratt's statement made in Washington, D. C., on Jan. 10 in which he said:

"American men will not stand for the violation of their women under any circumstances. For this crime they have taken the law into their hands repeatedly when they felt that the law had failed to do justice. We are forbidding shore leave at Honolulu because we believe it will be unsafe to send the fleet to anchor near Honolulu, for acts of violence which might result in bloodshed are almost certain to take place under the present circumstances."

Darrow Enters Objection.

Darrow objected and asked for a copy of the message. He asked Judge Davis to read it and said he would like to argue the question in the absence of the jury.

"I merely wanted to know if the witness heard the language that was used by the chief of staff of the United States navy," Kelley said.

Darrow said the matter was one of serious prejudice. Judge Davis refused to permit the document to be read unless the witness had read it prior to Jan. 8. Massie was asked to read the document. Admiral Stirling was in court today.

Q.—Did you ever read that? A.—That was confidential and was not permitted to be read.

Q.—Were you ever informed of it? A.—I don't think so.

Q.—Ever read it in the local papers? A.—Not that I recall.

Q.—Did you ever hear that language before the killing? A.—I can't say I ever heard it before. I have since.

Q.—You deny it? A.—Yes.

It was the text of this telegram read before the territorial legislature that led Senator Charles Rice to suggest that the telegram had something to do with the killing.

Q.—Ever talk about this case with Admiral Stirling? A.—Yes, before the trial.

After a few more questions on old details, Kelley ended the examination. Massie had been on the stand three hours. Darrow asked no further questions.

Dr. Irving Blom, former occupant of the Fortescue home, was the second witness for the defense. He said he had had a tarpaulin in the house which he used for a shower curtain and had put it in the garage. Shown the canvas used to cover the body, he said this was the same one.

Dr. Paul Withington, the Massie family physician, was next. Lieut. Massie in his testimony expressed some doubt, but hope, that this man is his friend. The doctor said he met Massie over a year ago while playing water polo at Waikiki. He said that Massie was in excellent health then.

Later, after his wife was attacked, he offered to give Massie medical advice, the physician testified, stating that the naval officer's condition was then nervous and he was not sleeping.

"Massie discussed the whole situation about his wife which he said was preying on his mind," Dr. Withington said. "There was a marked change in him. From a strong man he had become definitely weak."

Quartermaster Tells of Rope.

William C. Artman, chief quartermaster of the submarine S-43, Massie's ship, testified that on last October Massie asked him for a line to make a tether for his dog. The exhibits of the rope taken from the body of Kahahawai and found in the Fortescue home were shown the witness. He said it looked like the same rope.

"Lieut. Massie told me later that this rope was too large for the purpose," he said.

Attorney Beebe, a member of the legislature and Massie's former legal adviser, was then called to testify by Darrow. He is a former associate of Montgomery Winn, one of the attorneys for the defense in the murder trial and was examined by Winn. Last October, Beebe said, Massie asked him to assist in the prosecution of the rape case.

"The prosecution refused to permit me to assist," Beebe testified, "but I looked up witnesses and ran down rumors for Massie."

Q.—Do you recall a conversation with Massie about the Ida kidnaping? A.—Yes, he told me he heard a confession had been obtained from Ida. I told him that such a confession would be inadmissible in court as there was evidence that force had been used.

His Face Grew Thinner.

He described the deterioration in Massie's appearance noticed on the lieutenant's various visits to his office, that his face grew thinner, his face twitched and that he paced the floor. He said he advised Massie later that the chance for conviction at a new trial of the accused rapists would rest on new evidence of a confession.

"I never talked about the use of force except with reference to Ida," Beebe continued.

"I told Massie he could not hope for anything from the police because one-half of the department was working against the other, and that the police were reporting to the defense attorney."

Maj. Ross, former head of the territorial police, now high sheriff, testified that Massie came to him and said he heard that Kahahawai was "ready to crack" and that "he asked me to call Kahahawai in to question him."

"I told Massie," he said, "that I was then heading the search for Daniel Lyman, an escaped convict, but would be glad to help if he would call again in two or three days, and if he could see a way to do it without interfering with the civil authorities. But Lieut. Massie never returned."

DOCTORS ADVERTISE IN NEW JERSEY TO 'SAFEGUARD' PUBLIC

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—"To protect the public against irresponsible and unscrupulous practitioners of the healing art," the Hudson County Medical society of New Jersey today published a newspaper advertisement. One of the most rigidly enforced provisions of the medical code of ethics always has been that physicians and surgeons must not advertise.

Dr. P. E. Maras, chairman of the county society's publicity committee, said it had been decided to advertise the names of the members in order to "protect the public."

There will be other advertisements in the near future, he declared, to detail some of the services of the society, such as the twenty-four hour a day physicians and surgeons' telephone exchange, through which a doctor can be reached at any time in emergencies.

Girls! DON'T REDUCE!

Until I tell you of the wonderful new way I discovered in

BATTLE CREEK

YOU eat all you want of delicious foods —take no harmful drugs like thyroid —no nauseating "salts"; no back-breaking exercises—yet you lose excess fat so fast you can hardly believe the scales—you wear clothes sizes smaller as inches peel off bust, hips, limbs, neck, arms, and face—Oh! it's so wonderful—you'll never realize how thrilled you are going to be until you actually see what it does for you. You feel so peppy—and you look years younger. If you don't win love after this—you are just hopeless, girls.

Here's the recipe—and be sure to cut it out of the paper:—You just get yourself a big bottle of BonKora—enough for a month or six weeks. It never costs over a dollar—all druggists have it or can get it for you. Eat three square meals a day—four if you prefer—but cut out the no-good starches and fats and eat more of the strength and tonic foods that the directions in the package tell about.

This BonKora is different from every other treatment you ever heard of. Doctors tell us fat is 66% water anyhow and this treatment simply makes the fatty parts of your figure throw off enough of the heavy water to make you more easily NORMAL in weight.

Now let me warn you—when you have reduced your weight and measurements to normal, be satisfied and quit taking BonKora, except occasionally as a conditioner. Don't let yourself become too thin.

BonKora is free from any harmful drugs, is not habit-forming and may be taken by anyone according to directions. Remember the name BONKORA—Beware of imitations! Big bottle of BonKora only 98c at all

A statement of great importance

TO THOSE WHO PLAN TO BUY AN ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

ANNOUNCING A FOUR YEAR SERVICE PLAN

WE have replaced many thousands of refrigerators of other makes which have been in service only two or three years. They were replaced because the excessive cost of servicing and maintaining them made it cheaper to buy new machines.

Low first price is not low cost. The few dollars that you might save today by buying a cheap refrigerator can quickly be consumed by repair bills and service charges. When the mechanism fails the refrigerator becomes just a box.

An Automobile Comparison

The average car is driven 60,000 miles. At 30 miles an hour this is 2,000 operating hours.

In one single year any automatic refrigerator must operate over 3,000 hours. In four years the mechanism of your refrigerator will have to equal the average lifetime wear of more than six automobiles.

The Heart of the Refrigerator Is the Mechanism

70% of your investment goes into the mechanism. A good cabinet will last for years. The finish may scratch, or chip, or be marred, but is easily repaired. The thickness and insulating qualities of a cabinet and its durability are very important, but the heart of the whole refrigerator is the mechanism. It is unfair and misleading to misrepresent these facts.

General Electric knew all these conditions before our scientists and engineers approved the General Electric Refrigerator for public use. Other types are cheaper to manufacture and can sell for less; but we believe that no other type will give equal satisfaction, or as low a total cost of refrigeration over a period of years.

The Monitor Top

When the General Electric Refrigerator was designed, it was known that stuffing boxes would leak—so they were eliminated! Belts could break—so they were eliminated! Fans could get out of order—and they, too, were eliminated! Too much or too little oil caused trouble—so we eliminated the need for oiling. You never need oil a General Electric Refrigerator—another important and exclusive feature.

The General Electric mechanism is a complete unit, compactly designed and built—hermetically sealed-in-steel—protected against tampering and against the ravages of air, dust, and moisture, the agents of deterioration which make repeated repairs necessary.

Natural Air Cooling

The General Electric Monitor Top mechanism is entirely different from the hundred conventional type machines in appearance—in basic design—in operating principle—and in performance!

Different in appearance because it was designed to perform a task—and different in appearance in the same manner that the 1932 automobile is different in appearance from the best carriage ever made—uncovered as it should be to give you the benefit of natural air cooling and to avoid the use of troublesome fans and belts and the consequent need for oiling.

The General Electric Monitor Top mechanism is the cleanest—simplest—most compact—trouble-free refrigerating mechanism known today.

Our Experience Record

General Electric labored to give the highest quality at lowest cost; and that it has succeeded is proven by the outstanding performance record in the hands of our million and a quarter users. It gained its leadership within eighteen months and maintains that leadership now. During the past four years the public has invested over $300,000,000 in General Electric Refrigerators.

AND NOW—A Four Year Service Plan

As a result of experience General Electric was the first to offer two additional years guarantee beyond the standard one year warranty. Now after 20 years of research, including the experience of over four years of actual field service with more than a million and a quarter users, General Electric again steps ahead of the refrigerator industry with a service contract protecting each new buyer against all service and repair charges on the Monitor Top mechanism for three additional years beyond the standard one year warranty.

In case of trouble or failure General Electric does not patch the mechanism. A factory unit is installed without charge if failure occurs within the contract service period.

Today with new low prices, $10.00 delivers a General Electric Refrigerator to your home and 10 cents a meal pays for it.

So look to the mechanism—your service policy—and the manufacturer back of it before you buy—and then use your own good judgment.

FARMERS' CO-OP CUTS LOOSE FROM U.S. CORPORATION

Kankakee Union Charges Unfair Dealing.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kankakee, Ill., April 18.—[Special.]—The Farmers Union Central Coöperative, Inc., a farmer owned grain marketing association of Kankakee, today voted to renounce all affiliations with the federally subsidized Farmers National Grain Corporation of Chicago. The Kankakee Coöperative has been a stockholder in the grain corporation.

Six of the nine directors of the coöperative voted to sever relations with the grain corporation following a bitter factional fight which embroiled Kankakee county farmers for weeks. The majority leader, Horace Dilenbeck, Geneseo farmer and secretary of the coöperative, said the vote was a vindication of his charge that C. E. Huff, president of the grain corporation, had sought to double-cross the coöperative and its membership.

Tells of Joker in Contract.

The vote came on the question of whether to uphold or repudiate a contract entered into between the coöperative and the grain corporation several months ago. Hidden in the contract, according to Mr. Dilenbeck, was a joker clause which would have enabled the grain corporation to wrest control of the coöperative from its farmer owners and hand the coöperative over to Washington bureaucrats to be used for political purposes in the fall elections.

"Our executive committee was browbeaten into acceptance of the contract," Mr. Dilenbeck asserted. "It was forced on them by J. C. Callahan, president of the coöperative, and Arthur Fisher, a Chicago lawyer, both of whom are completely under domination of Mr. Huff.

"To line up the rank and file, the grain corporation promised that federal funds would be made available to pay every member of the coöperative a rebate of a quarter of a cent up to 1 cent on every bushel of grain sold under the contract. It looked like an attractive bribe until the joker clause was discovered."

Bitter Battle Is Waged.

The battle between the Dilenbeck and Callahan factions was one of the bitterest struggles ever waged among farmers in these parts, observers say. Mr. Dilenbeck charges that the Callahan faction spent thousands of dollars of farm board funds to stir up dissension and distrust among the farmers in order to rout his group.

"In the beginning our coöperative felt we had a right to expect the farm board to help us carry our load," Mr. Dilenbeck said. "Instead, the farm board has been trying to ride the backs of the farmers with saddle, spurs and gag bit. Farm board funds have proved a poison to our coöperative and are leaving ruin and destruction in their path."

As a final slap of defiance at the farm board, directors of the coöperative, besides repudiating the contract, voted to work hereafter with the farm board's arch enemy, the National Farmers union.

BARUCH URGES TAX CUT.

Reduction of the cost of government is the first essential step in farm relief in the opinion of Bernard M. Baruch of New York, in a letter to Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, made public last night. Mr. Baruch, a prominent Democrat who was chairman of the war industries board in 1918-'19, asked by Mr. O'Neal for his views on a sound program for the farmer, remarked that a cut in the tax burden is the starting point.

"The first indispensable in any plan for agriculture relief," Mr. Baruch wrote, "is that the government should restore confidence in the validity and stability of its obligations and its money. It can only do that if it brings its outgo within its income and balances its budget—not nominally or approximately or on a contingency that prosperity will return, but actually, fully and beyond peradventure of doubt.

"It is impossible to achieve this end by the continued piling on of taxes. Even after taxing to the limit, it still will be necessary to remove from the cost of federal government approximately one billion dollars a year.

"Taxes are a fixed charge. The burden of them is multiplied as the prices of commodities decline. They probably affect the farmer more heavily than any other class. The costs of government are now 14 billion dollars a year. This is a fixed charge of 6 per cent on 230 billion dollars. It is a far heavier fixed charge than debt. It lies as a first lien on every piece of property in the United States. I know no more effective means of farm relief than the removal of a large part of this burden."

URGES ONE GREAT CORPORATION TO RUN AGRICULTURE

Would Make Farming a Public Utility.

BY PAUL POTTER.

A group of farm economists in Chicago were pondering yesterday the latest of hundreds of solutions of "the farm problem" as they pored over copies of a 60 page treatise which arrived in their morning mail from Arthur B. Clay, a poultry man of Middlebranch, O.

Mr. Clay, they soon found, would turn all farmers into the coupon clipping class and their farms into a single gigantic national public utility corporation. He would have them trade their plowshares for stock shares in one great capitalistic project that he says would at once find controls for surpluses and destructive competition and would answer for all time the problem of financing and management of the industry that supplies food and shelter for the nation.

For One Great Corporation.

"Let's quit asking for handouts and organize our 43 billion dollar industry into one great corporation," says Mr. Clay. "It's no more a dream than was that of the vast telephone system 40 years ago. The government merely need declare the industry a public utility."

He hastens to give assurance that his plan is not communistic "where all men own everything and no man owns anything." Nor would it make mere wage earners of farmers while capitalists retain all control, he says. On the contrary his plan is for the farmers to retain more than half the common stock of their corporation, their share holdings to be in proportion to the property they turn in to the corporation or the value of the services they give.

He Suggests a Name.

"We might call it American Farms, Inc.," proposes Mr. Clay. "It would be subject to the same regulations as are railroads, electric or telephone companies. But great saving would be made in government expenses since the corporation would relieve the department of agriculture and other tax consuming bodies of research, reforesting, rural road building and many other burdensome expenses."

In Mr. Clay's agrarian Utopia, however, his Chicago readers foresaw the end of aspirations which many a man, woman or child has at one time or another entertained. Such individuals would be unable, in the face of monopoly, to build that little chicken ranch with its berry patch and cream supplying dairy cow. That is, unless the corporation's vice president in charge of poultry deemed such a program to the corporate well being.

SENATE FOR INQUIRY IN FUTURES TRADING IN FARM PRODUCTS

Washington, D. C., April 18.—(AP)—The senate today adopted and sent to the house a resolution for the secretary of agriculture to investigate the cost of maintaining the system of futures trading in agricultural products and to ascertain what classes of citizens bear its cost.

Wheat and cotton futures both are covered in the terms of the resolution which was formed by the agriculture committee by combining measures sponsored by Senators Capper [Rep., Kas.], and Sheppard [Dem., Tex.].

Profits and losses by various classes of traders in wheat and cotton futures since July 1, 1929, together with short sales volume and commission paid by traders, would be gone into.

The resolution provides that the secretary of agriculture separate the profits and losses of large and small traders and show the amounts of profits and losses resulting "from the short selling of wheat and cotton during the drastic decline in prices since July 1, 1929."

UNCLE SAM GOES INTO HOG TRADE; LOSES $14,000

3 Months as Buyer and Seller Prove Costly.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

East St. Louis, Ill., April 18.—[Special.]—Uncle Sam has been in the hog business in the stock yards here for 15 months. Through closely-allied agencies, nourished with governmental cash, he assumed the dual rôle of hog-buyer and hog-seller at the same time, which commission men claim cannot be done honestly in the same transaction.

The first month the loss was $7,000, the next $4,000 and the third $3,000. Since then the losses have not been made avilable to the public. These sums may appear relatively small, but the federal government through its farm agencies is operating in various spots and in many directions. Its announced motive is to aid the farmers, but with all of the millions spent, loaned and lost, the decreased value of the farm products has reached an estimated eight billion dollars.

Hog Boycott Case.

The hog buying and hog selling activities of the government in East St. Louis probably is illustrative of what the federal agencies have attempted. It was selected for summarization because much of the information relating thereto is sworn testimony in the socalled "hog-boycott" case, recently concluded.

This testimony indicates that the loss on hogs, referred to, was incurred by favoring Eastern packers in New York, Newark, Jersey City, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. These governmental agencies bought hogs at one price from the farmers, and then turned around and sold them to representatives of eastern packers at a lower price. It is charged that this selling below cost and below market price, chiefly was responsible for the loss.

But it is further charged that the government-aided agencies as well as their predecessors violated trade practices, exchange rules and government regulations to the extent that the market was "deadened." This trade terms means a curtailing of bidding which has a natural tendency to keep prices down.

Average Monthly Price.

The Live Stock exchange has had elaborate calculations made of the average monthly price for two decades on five live stock exchanges to determine the effect of these objectionable practices. W. A. Moody, president of the East St. Louis exchange, estimated that the "unfair practices" have resulted in a loss to hog shippers of nearly $7,000,000 to this market alone, in the last 10 years. Part of this is charged up to the government-aided agencies. That is a denial of $7,000,000 of income to the hog shippers.

The East St. Louis Live Stock exchange produced so much evidence on the unfairness of these practices that an order has been issued recently by the government prohibiting them.

But to get back to the way the government got into the hog buying and selling business, it can be recalled that the government first touched the live stock business when congress passed the packers' and stockyards act in 1921. Then the coöperative selling agencies sprang up and competed with the old line commission houses in the sale of stock. They competed in comparative harmony until the agricultural act was passed in 1929.

Market All Meat Animals.

Under that law the farm board was established with C. B. Benman as the live stock representative on it. He was former president of the Producers Live Stock Commission company of East St. Louis.

The farm board decided to have all meat animals marketed so far as possible, through one organization—the National Live Stock Marketing association. To this organization the farm board has loaned money, and it in turn has loaned to its subsidiaries or associate members.

One of these subsidiaries in East St. Louis was the National Order Buying company and another associate was the Producers' Live Stock Commission association.

Obtain Government Loan.

The relationship between these two subsidiaries was roughly as follows: The Producers obtained a loan from the government. It is a selling agency. It sells as a coöperative agency for the producers of hogs. The order buying company was a buyer of hogs for eastern packers. The order buying concern had a by-law that all of its profits would go to and its losses be paid by the Producers company.

The Producers owned one-eighth of the stock of the order buying company, rented its offices for it, and on occasions attended to its business.

One of the first acts of the order buying company was to employ the entire personnel of Potts, Watkins & Walker, second largest firm in the East St. Louis market. With this staff the National Order Buying started out to do business and its manager and employes were quoted by several witnesses as having said that within three years all of the East St. Louis houses, except two or three, would be put out of business.

The scheme of creating a monopoly might have worked, if the producers could have supplied the order buying with enough hogs, but when the Order Buying company had to ask commission houses for hogs, they refused to sell.

V-16

The finest motor ever built for any motor car

As a result of scores of comparative tests, made against every other car which might logically be considered a competitor, the conclusion is inescapable that the new 16-cylinder Cadillac motor is the finest power plant ever built for any passenger car. Not only is it the finest performing motor in any car today—but it has certain inherent engineering and structural advantages which are without duplication anywhere. Anyone who takes a demonstration in a new Cadillac V-16 will find instant proof of the truth of these statements. The power is delivered with less effort—the operation is smoother—the car is quieter at all speeds—and the engine is more flexible and more resilient—than in any other car with which the V-16 has ever been compared. In fact, from every standpoint, the V-16 reaches a degree of excellence that you will not find duplicated anywhere. We should be pleased, indeed, to demonstrate this marvelous 16-cylinder motor, and the distinguished car of which it is a part. Come in today—and let us show you, by actual comparison, that here is the finest motor car the world has ever known.

RECEIVERS GIVE REPORTS ON 20 CLOSED BANKS

Statements Made Public by Auditor Nelson.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday made public the reports of receivers of 20 closed banks in Cook county. These reports contained statements of the financial condition of the banks on March 31.

According to the auditor, six of the 20 banks showed an operating profit during receivership. He listed the gross cost of the receiverships at 9½ per cent of the money collected by receivers and the net cost at 2.1 per cent. Included in the reports are two of the Bain bank chain—the Brainerd State and the Bryn Mawr State—which are now making 10 per cent payments to depositors, the auditor said. The statements on the 20 banks follow:

HOLDERS OF SOUTHERN DEFAULTED BONDS RAP PRESENT DEBT STAND

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 18.—A caustic attack on present day senators and representatives from Mississippi is contained in the annual report of the Council of Foreign Bondholders, to be published tomorrow.

For more than half a century the council has been trying to obtain the repayment of $7,000,000 in Mississippi bonds floated in 1831 and 1833. The interest has not been paid since 1841 and the bondholders, many of them British, are still clamoring for repayment of the principal. The council has always explained that these debts were in no sense obligations of the confederacy, as they were incurred almost a generation before the civil war.

This year's report assails the Mississippi politicians for having opposed any form of remission of the allied war debts during the recent congressional debates, although in 1842 repudiation by certain southern states made it impossible for the United States government to borrow abroad.

"First and foremost among those states was Mississippi, whose orators today take the lead in proclaiming the sanctity of debts," the council asserts. It singles out Representative John E. Rankin, Democrat, who recently described President Hoover's moratorium as "one of the boldest schemes of financial buccaneering ever attempted against the unsuspecting people of the United States."

DENTAL SOCIETY VOTES TONIGHT; ISSUES HEATED

The annual election of officers of the Chicago Dental society will be held this evening in the Palmer house. Two full slates, those of the so-called regular and independent factions are competing and interest in the balloting was said last night to be intense in both camps.

Dr. Gail M. Hambleton, candidate of the independents yesterday reiterated the charge that a small group in the regular faction dictates all policies. He added that this group "has made a complete withdrawal from the position taken last May on low fee dental clinics and that such a change has been dictated by ulterior, political motives."

A charge made Sunday by Dr. Howard C. Miller, that the independent group three years ago advocated dental practice by unlicensed dental technicians was declared by Dr. Hambleton "ridiculous on the face of it." He will introduce an amendment to the constitution to make any dentist engaged in any form of corporate practice ineligible to membership.

The regular faction has maintained that the corporate practice issue is dead; that they are as much opposed to it as the independents. They assert, and quote Dr. Michael L. Davis of the Rosenwald foundation to prove their side, that the foundation has given up the idea of financing clinics.

The north side branch of the society last night elected Dr. C. Lee Simons, identified with the regular faction, president for the ensuing year.

COMMONS GETS BUDGET TODAY; TAX PLAN SECRET

Some Relief for Public Is Predicted.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 18.—A top hatted crowd assembled in Downing street today to watch the cabinet arrive for its final meeting before the introduction of the budget in the house of commons tomorrow. When Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, arrived carrying the familiar red dispatch box containing the secrets of next year's taxation, many in the crowd would have given his own eyes for a pair with X-ray powers.

NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN.
[Acme Photo.]

Fortunes will be made and lost between now and tomorrow afternoon guessing what is in that box. As it is, one guess is as good as another. Rumors have it that there will be some relief from the heavy taxation imposed a year ago to drag Britain out of the slough of bankruptcy.

Believe Danger Point Passed.

Many feel that that has been accomplished and that the government can afford to relax the screw a few turns, but others preach a continued policy of caution.

The favorite prediction is that something, perhaps sixpence [about twelve cents], will come off the income tax, which now stands at five shillings [about $1.20] in a pound [$4.86 normally] or 25 per cent, and that something, perhaps two cents, will come off the beer tax, which is now eight cents a pint. This tax has caused so great a reduction in the consumption of beer that the revenue yield is now actually less than before the tax was increased.

There is also talk of restoring the exemptions from the income tax on the lower range of incomes which were abolished in the last budget, but this is all speculation.

Predict Tax on Tea.

What seems most likely is the restoration of the tax on tea, with preference for the empire grown leaf. Tea dealers evidently think there is something to India's large withdrawals of duty free tea from bond in the last few days. There has been no duty on tea since 1929.

Chamberlain will not begin his speech until 4 p. m., when the stock and commodity exchanges have closed.

Evanston Has 115 Cases of Measles in a Week

Dr. John W. H. Pollard, health commissioner of Evanston, announced yesterday that 115 cases of measles were reported in the suburb last week, bringing the total number to 176. This is the second year in succession that the disease has been epidemic in the suburbs and he said the recurrence was surprising because for a long time the epidemic has occurred every other year. He urged parents to watch closely for symptoms in their children.

JURY CONVICTS LOFTUS, LONE BANK BANDIT

CRIMINAL COURT.

Edward Salje, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; John Arnold and Milton Hamilton, larceny, sentenced to 1 year each in the Bridewell; Frank Mulrenin, receiving stolen property, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; James Lewis, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; William Harris, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Willie West and Richard Lewis, larceny, sentenced to 1 year each in the Bridewell by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Donald Loftus, 30 years old, lone bank bandit who took $100,000 from twelve banks in two years, was found guilty of robbing the First National bank of Marengo yesterday and faces a sentence of one year to life in Joliet penitentiary. The jury in the Circuit court of Judge Edward D. Shurtleff in Woodstock brought in a guilty verdict on the first ballot.

Loftus will go to trial today in the same court on a charge of taking $2,800 from the Algonquin State bank on Sept. 19, 1930. State's Attorney V. S. Lumley will ask immediate ruling on the motion for a new trial in the Marengo case at the finish of the Algonquin bank charge, and hopes to start Loftus for the penitentiary Wednesday.

Loftus refused to plead guilty when arraigned on the charge of taking $12,500 from the Marengo bank, but waived his defense after hearing the state witnesses. Following his confession to the bank robberies to Chicago police he said that he had spent the proceeds from the bank robberies on women and had three wives.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE BACK DOOR TO INFLATION.

Mr. Henning has called attention again to the flood of bills in congress for a cheapening of the dollar. One favorite proposal is the free coinage of silver at a fixed ratio, as suggested by Mr. Bryan a generation ago. Another is the payment of the bonus in greenbacks, thus adding about two billion dollars of unsecured paper to the currency.

These are risky expedients. In the past similar schemes have been tried when borrowers were having difficulties meeting the obligations they had contracted when money was cheap and plentiful. The accumulated experience of the past, from the days of the continental currency to the time when Grover Cleveland was forced to call a halt on silver purchases, rises as a warning against this kind of tampering with the currency. It may be conceded that some kind of inflation, or, as the euphemists like to say, reflation, would be serviceable in the present emergency, but it is doubtful if inflation of the currency as distinguished from credit would do anything but harm.

This is the position which, it seems safe to say, most of the responsible business men of the country have taken. They cannot, however, overlook the fact that unless the government reduces its expenditures to meet its income the time will come before long when the government's borrowing power will be exhausted and it will have to pay its bills with cheap money because it can no longer borrow to meet its deficits.

Congress may reject the proposals before it for direct inflation for the sake of inflation, but, having done so, congress may find it has appropriated to the point where only inflation will enable the government to pay its bills. So far as the consequences are concerned, the effects will be indistinguishable.

PAYING FOR THE WATERWAYS.

Railroad executives frequently complain that the internal waterways are built with taxpayers' money and yield no adequate return to the American people. There is a saving in shipping costs, but the saving is not sufficient to justify the outlay.

What the railroad executives say is true, no doubt, with respect to some waterways, and not true with respect to others. There is no good reason, for example, why the Panama canal cannot yield a fair return on its cost in the form of tolls collected. Justice to the taxpayers, the railroads, and the interior of the country requires that the tolls be increased to yield such a return to the government for its outlay in digging the waterway.

At Panama the government has accepted the principle that the costs of building and operating a waterway shall be met with a charge on the tonnage using the channel. There is no good reason why the same principle should not be applied in the internal waterways. If the waterways are really worth to the country what they have cost, the fact can be readily demonstrated in the ability of the shippers to pay a fair tonnage charge to the government which has built them. At a time when every business man is complaining of high taxation it is only fair to expect those who benefit from the use of waterways to repay the government for the cost of building and maintaining the water routes.

WITH VIEW OF MONT BLANC.

Mr. Stimson has rented a country house a few miles out of Geneva on the shore of Lake Leman. It is described as a large rambling place which in architecture and landscaping may remind Mr. Stimson of the house he took for the London conference. The view of Mont Blanc is said to be magnificent. The secretary of state is expected, it is said, "to do considerable receiving." Ambassador Hugh Gibson will remain official head of the American delegation to the arms conference, but Mr. Stimson will do the important asides, handling the moments when statecraft is both informal and decisive.

One justification for conferences is that they are nearly always such pleasant affairs. Diplomatic notes and state papers can be tiresome things and frequently dangerous. Many a chief has been pulled out of his own ink well in a perfect state, dripping all over the place and trying to explain that he fell in when he wasn't looking. Conversations on the banks of a Swiss lake, with a magnificent view of the mountains, are delightful and they are good for careers. Careers will account for 90 per cent of the European conferences in the last twenty-five years and the conferences will account for the world war and its more terrifying consequence, the peace. Each conference before the war made one or more soreheads, aggrandized or impaired one or more careers and increased the determination for revenge. After Algeciras there never was a chance to avoid the war and after Agadir probably no desire to avoid it.

What the string of conferences since the war will develop is not predictable, but the Shanghai incident may be credited to the career and conference work done on the Manchurian affair. Japan to prove that it could manhandle Manchuria undertook the little navy flyer in Shanghai, flew into hot water, and had to devastate the region to save its face. The stricken Chinese quite rationally could charge their misfortunes to Geneva and to diplomatic habits, if anything rational at all can be found in the situation.

Mr. Stimson's budget estimate for the arms conference expense was half a million, which indicated an anticipation for one of the longer and better sort.

PLAYING WITH DYNAMITE.

Savage rioting in Auckland, the capital of New Zealand, following mob violence in Newfoundland, and preparation for armed revolt in New South Wales, are events which have a meaning not to be shirked in our own country. They are in each case a direct result of reckless public expenditure and the failure of governments to correct their demoralizing fiscal policies in time.

The folly of violence should not obscure this lesson for us. It is obvious to common sense that the mobs which destroyed property were doing nothing for themselves, but, on the contrary, were creating conditions which, if not promptly corrected, would intensify the sufferings of the unemployed and widen their scope. The organization for revolt in New South Wales is equally irrational, for it is for resistance to measures essential to recovery. But the resentment which is created by misfortune cannot be expected to be always sensible. As suffering continues and the expectation of early relief is disappointed, reckless leadership finds its opportunity and will have a growing following. These are truisms, but we invite the serious attention of our legislators, administrators, and politicians—in other words, our public spenders—to the certainty that they will be demonstrated in the United States unless the causes which are breeding violence elsewhere are promptly corrected in this country. We have been creating the same situation as exists in the countries where violence has now appeared. We have been spending beyond our means and are in imminent danger of bankruptcy. The cure for this is not more taxation, but the immediate, drastic reduction of expenditure.

The radicalism which has lately exposed its folly in congress imagines that there is an inexhaustible fund at the command of government and that the way to help the unemployed is to tax this fund and distribute it. This is the fallacy of mobs and their leaders and it is fatal to recovery. The politicians who are paltering with the urgent need of economy, resisting retrenchments, or proposing measures which will increase the people's burdens are playing with dynamite. They must come to their senses and the press and organized citizenship of the nation should see that they do.

The failure thus far of congress to realize the full meaning of present conditions and the necessity for immediate and drastic action, the schemes advanced for new taxation which adequate measures of retrenchment would avoid, the refusal to take advantage of the resources which modification of the Volstead act would open up, the impracticable and destructive proposals for increasing the public debt and exhausting in doles the means necessary for private enterprise and employment, are demoralizing all the forces of recovery and threatening economic and social disaster. It is a prospect which the common sense of the American people should make impossible, and we believe will. But it should be faced at once by our legislators and politicians who are primarily responsible for the prompt action required.

FARMERS NOT CLOSING SHOP.

[Shelby County Leader.]

We have seen quite a bit of Illinois in recent weeks—especially farming regions.

The farmers have not closed down on production like the manufacturers have. They are still on the job, says the Sullivan Progress.

Though oats sell for about 16c per bushel, farmers were preparing to sow another crop while we had the warm days of late February. As soon as the cold spell passes over much oats will be sown.

There is a good acreage of wheat in Illinois. Before the cold weather it looked good. Right now it shows the effects of the severe cold, but chances are it will come through all right.

The usual acreage of corn will be planted. This also holds true of all other crops.

Illinois farmers are not lying down on their job. They have kept their dairy herds producing all winter; they have fattened and sold hogs at record low prices; they have big flocks of chickens and, while eggs are worth but 8 cents a dozen, they are buying baby chicks by the hundreds.

They are not dismayed. They may be disgusted with the outrageously low prices, but they are not closing up shop. They are producing food for the world. They may be working for nothing, or less than nothing, but they are carrying on.

Some city folks may look with pity on the farmers and class them as "goofy idiots." They wonder why the farmer cannot use business methods and shut off production when prices are below what it costs him to produce.

Listen, folks; farmers are not built that way. Farming is not merely a money-grabbing occupation. There is pleasure in being a good farmer. There is pleasure in coaxing Mother Earth to produce food which mankind may consume. In fact, too many farmers seem to be farming for pleasure only and have not taken the business or marketing end of their task into consideration. Far be it from us to tell the farmers what to do! If we thought we could farm better than they do, we might try it, but for the present we'll stick to the newspaper game.

Here's our point, however. Big manufacturers have shut down and thrown their men out of work. These workers without jobs have little money to buy life's necessities. Thank God that food is plentiful, even though cheap. Can you imagine the condition of the workingman out of a job in the city if the farmers should shut down on production and food prices would double or treble? Then there would be a depression!

The farmers are carrying on. They are on the job. No matter what the rest of the producers and workers of the country may do, they can rest assured that the farmer will not strike, he will not shirk. He may grumble, and rightfully so, but he's going to continue to produce the food to feed hungry mouths.

Illinois farmers are eagerly awaiting spring weather so they can get out into their fields.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the gnips fall where they may. W. B.

PAUL WAS A LUCKY GUY!

Yesterday was the one hundred and fifty-seventh anniversary of the famous ride of Paul Revere. And likewise of William Dawes, Charlie Dawes' revered ancestor, but Longfellow gave all the praise to Paul because Revere rhymed so nicely with "listen, my children, and you shall hear," while Dawes didn't rhyme with anything but red haws, and gnaws and jaws and oh laws! But, anyhow, what we were going to say was that Paul was in great luck because his name made such a nice rhyme, but also because he lived in the days when the heroes rode horses on their famous rides. Suppose Paul Revere lived today and the British were planning to march from Boston and he had arranged to dash across the country when they started "and spread the alarm to every Middlesex village and farm." He would have gone in his auto, of course, and what would have happened? He would have discovered when about three miles from Boston he had run out of gasoline or his front tire had blown out. After he had put on a new tire and gone on his way he would have been pinched by the town watch at Lexington for running through a red light, and as he neared Concord a motor cop would have come up alongside, said "Say, party, where's the fire at?" and given him a ticket for exceeding the speed limit and driving while intoxicated. Say what you will, the machine age is a poor time for heroes.

ON CALL.

I have for you
So many things!
Such lovely things!
Many a gold dawn
Upon the hills
And what it brings.

And then there is
A whispering tree,
A listening tree;
A slim young moon,
An opening rose,
The heart of me.

I have for you
So many things!

AND NOW COMES Mrs. T. T. L., who writes in to say she doesn't think the United States has done much for education in Honolulu, as Lieut. Massie says he was driven to firing the fatal shot by Kahahawai's statement, "Yes, we done it." Tsk, tsk, tsk! highly ungrammatical. Yes, indeed. And we had just been laughing over the story about the Englishman who was being shown over Bunker Hill by an American friend. "There," said the American "is Bunker Hill monument—where Warren fell, you know." "Ah," said the Briton, looking at the high monument, "nasty fall, what! Must have killed the poor blighter!" Have the English a sense of humor? And Mrs. T. T. L.'s letter makes us ask, have we Americans a sense of—but what's the use!

MAYOR JIMMIE WALKER says that more than a million people will march in his big beer parade opposing the eighteenth amendment. Well, well, well, the world do move! We never thought New York had ever heard of the eighteenth amendment.

AND, THE SAME SUBJECT continued, we rise very quietly, very gently, but very, oh, very respectfully, to ask where all those million paraders to get beer back go to on election day? We fear that they join the great multitude who cast the straw votes on the wet side in the Literary Digest poll. However and nevertheless and nothwithstanding—possibly it is occurring to many earnest souls that a real vote at a real election is what counts, although parading and straw voting doesn't hurt any. We shall see! We shall see!

Have You Any Poison Ivy Puddings?

Sir: In the Line tother day you spoke of the "deadly nightshade" . . . pooh! . . . do you believe those stories about nightshade berries being poisonous? Some time I'll bring you in a nightshade berry pie . . . yessir, an Iowa nightshade berry pie . . . than which there is nothing more delicious . . . and if they are really poisonous, well, maybe a poet has nine lives, like a cat, but eating 'em has never killed me yet! But, of course, one doesn't have nightshade berry pie until after the first frost in the autumn.

EMILY POST SAYS the perfect hostess does not serve herself first, and Emily ought to know, and she dubs this custom the "great American rudeness." But as a fashionable hostess said when asked about this important question: "Yes, I should serve myself last and let those hungry gazaboes eat up all the perfectly good grub, shouldn't I? Be yourself, big boy. Who had to charge that stuff at the grocery, may I ask, and who has to stall off the cook and kid the butler into serving it when he hasn't had any wages for three months? Tell Emily to chase herself; I'm getting mine first whether it's good form or not." And there you are. It is, indeed, a ticklish question.

THE ADIEU.

When life relentlessly must part
A woman from her lover,
She loses more than happiness
No magic can recover;
She bids good-by to more than love;
For, strangely, as they part,
Her beauty leaves—in her lover's eyes,
And all her youth—in her lover's heart.

ADELAIDE LOVE.

A REPORTER YESTERDAY told Senator Walcott in Washington, "there is a lot of public interest in finding whether a cabinet member has been speculating in short selling." And the senator replied: "Oh, I don't think so." Oh, senator, you'd be surprised!

IMPROVED METHODS IN PERNICIOUS ANEMIA.

In recent years there has been some further improvement in the treatment of pernicious anemia. The first practical step in the discovery of a treatment for this disease was taken when we began having the people with that disease eat liver. Prior to that time there was no treatment for it except to take care of symptoms as they arose. With the use of a liver diet the day began to dawn for those who had this—up to that time—fatal disease, slowly fatal, but invariably so.

The next step was the use of extracts of liver, in place of the organ itself. The man with pernicious anemia was now able to shift to the other method whenever he became tired of the one he was using. Of the two methods, taking the extract seemed the better.

Then it was found that stomach wall had the same property as the liver. The man with pernicious anemia could eat tripe. Presently, a way of extracting the stomach wall was devised. This extract came into use. The man with the disease had choice between four remedies or methods at this stage.

The next step was the discovery that extracts of liver could be injected into the veins or muscles, and that when this method was used the results were best of all. The injections caused but little, if any, fever, there was no great inflammation locally, and no particular constitutional reaction. But the response to the injections on the part of the blood and blood making apparatus started within twelve hours. The injections are given once a week. The cases in which it acts like magic are those that are in relapse, the condition which is so prone to terminate fatally.

One of the grave complications of this form of anemia is serious degeneration of the spinal cord. This complication appears to be especially benefited by the injection treatment, and now another forward step is offered. It is to inject neutralized gastric juice into the muscles. Dr. R. S. Morris and his associates have had great success with this method. They empty the stomach, inject some histamine to make the organ secrete rapidly, and vigorously pump up a half pint or more of stomach juice, concentrate it at a low temperature in a vacuum, neutralize the acidity of it, and inject a goodly dose under the skin into the muscles. There is an even more rapid action in the blood and blood making organs in cases of the disease.

Probably this stomach juice will be suitable for the same kind of cases that liver extract injections are used in. It appears that there is an undiscovered something in stomach juice and in liver that the blood making organs require. When this is missing, the disease, pernicious anemia, results. Dr. Morris and his associates propose to call this substance addisin. Now that they have a name for the baby let us hope that somebody will find him.

CONVULSIONS.

Mrs. M. J. T. writes: I have a boy 6½ years old. About a year ago, preceding an attack of the grip and congestion of one lung, he went into a convulsion, the first he ever had. He has just got over another attack of the grip. Preceding this last attack he also went into a convulsion. In both cases the convulsion came on about 6 in the morning, although he seemed in excellent condition when going to bed, eating and playing as usual, with no signs of a cold. Will these convulsions come on whenever he becomes ill? Is there any danger in them? What may the cause be?

REPLY.

In children attacks of infection of various kinds are frequently ushered in by convulsions. An attack which begins that way is apt to be severe, but not fatal. Since your child has had another attack it is probable that he is prone to convulsions. As a rule, this means that the child has spasmophilic diathesis. This calls for viosterol, cod liver oil, or the oil from other fish liver, and preparations of lime. In a few cases repeated convulsions in childhood means that the child is headed for epilepsy.

SERUM AND THE HEART.

Mrs. E. P. B. writes:

1. Does the serum given to prevent rabies harm the heart in any way?
2. What does a pulse of 88 in a child of 5 indicate?

REPLY.

1. No.
2. It may not mean anything. It may mean fever, infection, tuberculosis, nervousness. Goiter is an even more remote possibility.

PROBATE IN WISCONSIN.

Columbus, Wis., April 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is it necessary in Wisconsin to probate an estate that consists of stocks and bonds and no real estate? B. G.

Depends upon whether you can get the transfer officers to waive probate. They are entitled to insist upon it.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CONSULT AMERICAN CONSUL.

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., April 5.—[Friend of the People.]—A man and wife who were born in Austria and were naturalized as United States citizens have resided in Canada for the last four years with their family. The children were born in the United States. It is understood that they lose their United States citizenship after five years' stay in Canada. How can the man hold his job in Canada and still be a United States citizen? L. A. S.

The law relating to expatriation and protection of citizens abroad reads as follows: "That any American citizen shall be deemed to have expatriated himself when he has been naturalized in any foreign state in conformity with its laws, or when he has taken an oath of allegiance to any foreign state. When any naturalized citizen shall have resided for two years in the foreign state from which he came, or for five years in any other foreign state, it shall be presumed that he has ceased to be an American citizen, and the place of his general abode shall be deemed his place of residence during said years: Provided, however, that such presumption may be overcome on the presentation of satisfactory evidence to a diplomatic or consular officer of the United States, under such rules and regulations as the department of state may prescribe: And provided, also, that no American citizen shall be allowed to expatriate himself when this country is at war." The writer should get in touch with the nearest American consul.

ATTACK ON WILL.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father's cousin, a widow, 91 years old, died about a year ago. This woman had no near relatives. I was told by her that my father was an heir to her estate and she told others in the city the same thing. She also said I would receive my father's share of her estate. My father died eleven years ago. Can I contest the will to get my father's share of her estate? R. M. G.

The will would control unless you can prove undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1895

LONDON, Jan. 13.—Chinese who have arrived from Manchuria bring ghastly reports of the desolation of the country between the Yalu river and Liao Ho, recalling the worst horrors of the Taiping rebellion. Not a house is standing. Everything has been burned and whole populations have perished. Only scattered groups of frozen corpses are seen, apparently those of entire families. Neither food nor fuel is procurable.

LONDON, Jan. 18.—A dispatch to the Times from Peking says that Gen. Wei, accused of cowardice, was beheaded yesterday.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 19.—The Russian cruiser Kreyser has been ordered to proceed to Wei-hai-wei as promptly as possible in view of the fact that a Japanese land and sea attack upon that important port is expected shortly.

CHEFOO, Jan. 19.—Three Japanese warships opened fire yesterday on Ting Chow Foo. The firing ceased in a short time.

HIROSHIMA, Jan. 19.—It is officially announced that on the morning of Jan. 17 15,000 troops from Lao Yang encountered the Japanese to the northeast of Hai Cheng. The Chinese were repulsed.

LONDON, Jan. 19.—A dispatch from Hai Cheng says that in the fighting which occurred in the vicinity of Newchwang on Jan. 17 the Chinese were defeated with a loss of 900. The Japanese loss was only about 50.

CHEFOO, Jan. 20.—Thirty-five Japanese transports and fifteen warships arrived in Yung Ching bay, south of the Shantung promontory, this morning. At daylight three of the warships engaged the shore defenses, silencing them after a dozen rounds. There was no further opposition and the Japanese landed 35,000 troops, it is estimated. The landing was effected during a heavy snowstorm. Yung Ching is 300 miles from Wei-hai-wei.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 19, 1904.

SHANGHAI.—According to a telegram from Chefoo two warships left Chefoo harbor yesterday, proceeding westward. Gun firing was heard.

SEOUL.—The commissioner of customs at Gensan reports that a strong Russian force, the number of which is not known, is advancing on the great south road following the inland coast of the province of South Hamgyung. The Russians passed to the rear of Sung Jin, which was occupied.

ROME.—A telegram from Harbin states that a squadron of Japanese appeared in the vicinity of Vladivostok and that the commander of the town was preparing to resist an attack.

LONDON.—Morning papers repeat, but do not verify, various rumors of attempted or impending landings of various Japanese armies on the Liaotung peninsula. According to the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Temps, an effort will be made to land there simultaneously with the attempt to cross the Yalu river.

ST. PETERSBURG.—A Japanese attack on Newchwang is believed to be imminent. The ostentatious concentration of troops along the Yalu is believed to be intended to divert attention while the first great battle of the war is aimed at Russia's army.

ALBANY, N. Y.—New York Democrats formally launched Judge Alton Brooks Parker as a candidate for the presidential nomination at the St. Louis convention next July. The 78 delegates were instructed to vote for him as a unit. The program at the state convention went through in all its essentials as directed by David B. Hill, and Tammany Hall was practically ignored, being given only one delegate at large.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 19, 1916.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The United States tonight is perilously near to war with Germany over the submarine warfare controversy. President Wilson will submit to congress at a joint session of the two houses tomorrow the grave state of the relations between the two countries produced by the continued torpedoing of enemy and neutral merchantmen on which Americans have been killed, injured, or placed in jeopardy. The President also is addressing to Germany a final note, tantamount to an ultimatum, demanding that Germany reform its conduct of submarine warfare on commerce or suffer a rupture of diplomatic relations with the United States.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Gen. Funston is sending to Gen. Pershing more than 2,000 additional troops and there is reason to believe that even more will be placed at the disposal of Gen. Pershing if the campaign against Francisco Villa is continued. Evidence that Villa is dead has been obtained from an aged couple who nursed him and helped bury him, according to a statement issued by Gen. Alvaro Obregon, Mexican minister of war, who said he hoped to have "good news" as soon as a searching party, consisting of two Mexicans and one American officer, returns from examining the reputed grave of the bandit.

PETROGRAD.—Trebizond, the most important Turkish city on the Black sea, has been captured by the Russians. The army was aided in the capture by the Russian fleet.

THE BOOTLEGGERS GET IT.

Maywood, Ill., April 13.—As a federal employé I find it anything but pleasant to contemplate the prospect of having 10 or 11 per cent of my salary taken from me and given to the bootleggers. Strange as this statement seems, it is an actuality. In an effort to balance the federal budget it has been proposed that all federal employés' salaries be cut 10 or 11 per cent. Yet the budget could be balanced by restoring the tax on alcoholic beverages through repeal of the Volstead act. Since we have with us all the liquors and beverages we ever had, the net result is that the bootleggers are getting the profits and revenue. If the federal government were getting its former revenue, it seems plain that there would be no need of cutting salaries in an attempt to balance the budget. Therefore, in reality the proposed cut in my salary represents nothing but a contribution on my part to the bootleggers. And I never drink a drop.

A DRY ANTI-PROHIBITIONIST.

GRATITUDE.

Oak Park, Ill., April 12.—Regarding an article in Voice of the People referring to "Charge for Cradle Phone." I am not in the employ of the telephone company nor any member of my family. Yet in all due justice I do not think the accusation fair as I happen to know of many instances where the telephone company perform acts they do not charge for.

In August my son went on a business trip to Milwaukee. On returning he met with an accident, our car being thrown in the ditch. Passing motorists took him home to Oak Park and left our car for a garage man to pick up. My son was so stunned he could not remember just where the accident occurred, other than he thought twenty miles out of Milwaukee, so we had no idea who had our car.

I called our local phone office to find out if they could tell me what town was about 20 miles out of Milwaukee. I explained our accident to the long distance operator; she said she would try to locate the place. She not only located the town, but the very garage our car had been hauled to. The only charge was the few seconds' talk I had with the garage man. I certainly think a company like this should not be criticized for charging for a fancy phone. If he must have the style he should not begrudge to pay for it.

CATHERINE O'DONNELL.

ANOTHER RACKET.

Chicago, April 9.—A package delivered with c. o. d. charges of 27 cents and stamp of an express company and uniformed man [fictitious name, so I found out]; and on opening package find same to be a 5 cent pie tin and handle. This is just a warning to be on the lookout for him. MRS. M. C. L.

A DOLLAR A YEAR.

Chicago, April 11.—The dollar a year man is taboo. The President will more than earn his salary if he can reduce government expenses two or three billions a year. This can be done by eliminating bureaucracy and all government interference in private and business life. Also by discouraging any attempt to place three or four millions of able bodied men, who were never injured in the least, on government dole the remainder of their lives. H.

ARGUMENT FOR THE BONUS.

Chicago, April 13.—It seems to me if this great government of ours is able to finance the Missouri-Pacific railway to the extent of $5,600,000 they might be able to pay the soldiers the remaining part of their bonus. E. J. HENDERSON.

PARK FUNDS.

Chicago, April 8.—The park board in its wisdom has seen fit to close, in the interest of alleged economy, various recreation centers such as Hamlin park. These centers, providing as they do the only bright spots in the otherwise drab lives of many of Chicago's citizens, are a vital necessity, and are of more value than the park board knows. This is apparent when one considers the waste of public money now on exhibit at the garden show.

The board has an exhibit covering about 75 by 100 feet, which comprises a beautiful array of flowers, shrubs, etc., the cost of which would make interesting reading. In view of the prohibitive—in these days—cost of admission, one wonders what public benefit is served by it. As far as the taxpayer is concerned, the only people who derive any benefit from it are the residents of Winnetka, Glencoe, Beverley Hills and Oak Park, in whose interest the show was held. We who live in the districts served by the recreation centers now closed would seem to be subsidizing the north shore and similar suburbs. It would be interesting to know what the people responsible for this diversion of public funds have to say about it.

LEONARD C. PORTER.

THE DRY SIDE.

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 9.—About thirty years ago I established a home in the city of Benton Harbor. One of the first things I did was to arrange for the delivery at my house of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. It has never missed a day since that time through fault of mine.

For a great many years I was very much pleased with the paper, and when it comes to general reliable news I am still pleased. But in the last three or four years you have gotten off on such a terrible tangent on the wet and dry questions that I sometimes wonder how long the information given by your paper can be relied upon. I did not mind your giving your extreme opinions on any question, but I object to your throwing into my face continually all the propaganda of the wet forces, never failing to mention anything that happens which might be, by turn of the editor's pen, construed into being favorable to the wet cause. But you fail to publish anything that happens favorable to the dry cause excepting those happenings that are so obvious that you cannot help yourself, and then usually the force of the statement is covered up in a magnitude of words and comments.

Do you not think that the dry readers of your paper, and there must be a few, are entitled to some consideration? Would it not be fair to represent their side, not in the same way that your paper is representing the wet side because that is too extreme for even ordinary consideration, but with just one-half the consideration and thus strike a happy medium? Would you not then be serving your purpose as a newspaper to a greater degree than you are now doing?

I shall probably continue to take your paper, but because I am a subscriber I feel I have the right to complain.

H. S. WHITNEY.

AND THAT'S THAT.

Chicago, April 11.—In answer to Henry Johnson's letter about baseball. It can readily be seen that Mr. Johnson has never played baseball and so cannot appreciate the hard labor players contend with throughout a season. As far as calling us suckers, 40,000 people on a Sunday cannot all be wrong. As far as usefulness is concerned, baseball is an amusement and is played for people's enjoyment. Going to the game takes you into the fresh air which so many of us need. It is the greatest sport in the world. And long may it thrive.

What $16,000 buys in The American Weekly

A full page in color more than twice the size of any other magazine page in the world . . . 5,500,000 families at a cost of less than ½ cent per family . . . The attention of the entire family instead of a single buying factor.

DEPARTMENT STORES, grocery stores, drug stores, hardware stores, automobile dealers—big chains and small retailers—realize that it pays to feature nationally advertised merchandise.

But in times like these the retailer refuses to get excited about "national advertising" that is spread too thin to exert real local influence. The only advertising that really interests him is national advertising that reaches a substantial proportion of his customers and his prospects.

There is one publication with dominating national circulation and powerful local concentration; one national weekly magazine with real local influence—The American Weekly.

Show the retailer an advertising campaign scheduled to appear in this Mighty Magazine and watch him sit up and take notice.

Choice display positions in his store, and valuable window space as well, are gladly given to merchandise that is featured in The American Weekly.

Dealers cooperate with advertisers who use The American Weekly for the simple reason that it pays them to do so.

With five and one-half million circulation, nearly twice that of any other magazine, The American Weekly takes your advertising message into one out of every five homes in these United States.

Break down the cost of $16,000 per color page and you find it amounts to less than ⅓ cent per family reached.

Less than one-third of a penny for one of those big smashing color pages that are more than twice the size of any other magazine page.

Editorially, The American Weekly is absorbing in its interest. Every issue contains material of vital interest to every family it reaches.

When you place your advertising in this Mighty Magazine you are driving home your sales story to the largest, richest, most responsive market in the nation.

That's why so many successful advertisers buy The American Weekly and successfully merchandise their advertising to the retailers.

Where this magazine goes

The American Weekly dominates the urban markets by concentrating 70% of its total circulation in 578 of America's 997 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over. (1930 U. S. census figures.)

In each of 152 cities, it reaches one out of every two families
In 108 more cities, 40 to 50% of the families
In an additional 146 cities, 30 to 40%
In another 172 cities, 20 to 30%

. . . and, in addition, more than 1,700,000 families in thousands of other communities, large and small, regularly buy The American Weekly.

That is why The American Weekly offers the drive and force required to sell goods in 1932.

Where can you spend your advertising dollar more effectively?

Cock-A-Doodle-Doo

The April 17, 1932 issue of The American Weekly is the largest in volume of advertising linage and revenue ever published, exceeding the last record-breaking issue by many thousands of dollars.

COUPLE FACING MURDER CHARGE IN BABY'S DEATH

Husband Is Jailed; Bride in Hospital.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 18.—[Special.]—Their upbringing had been Victorian. The shame of an unexpected baby shocked them. That's why Joseph Tozier, 28 year old graduate of the University of Illinois, and Josephine Duckwall Tozier, his 25 year old bride of a week and a graduate of De Pauw university, are facing a charge of murder.

Tozier was a floor walker in a department store. Josephine Duckwall was the girl at the gift counter. Other employés of the store noticed a year ago that the floor walker stood oftener at the gift counter than at any other place in his territory.

There in the store an acquaintance of two college graduates ripened into love.

They Keep Their Secret.

For the past several months they had been worried. Josephine, tired and distressed, managed somehow to keep at work. No one knew that the couple had plans to marry at once. None knew that Josephine was to be a mother. Then, last week, they went to Noblesville, the girl's old home town, and were married.

Mr. and Mrs. Tozier went to an Indianapolis rooming house when they returned. It was still a secret that they were soon to be parents and they decided to keep it a secret.

Three days ago the baby, a boy, was born. He was born in the little rented room and there was no doctor, no midwife to help him into the world—only the young husband, who knew little about such things.

"Didn't Want That Baby."

"We didn't want that baby," he said today in his cell in the county jail. "But I didn't kill him. He died. God, how I wish we had the little fellow with us now."

The Victorian complex of the Toziers had held on. The father took the body of the infant, wrapped it in a newspaper and hid it away. It was found. The string around the paper was traced to the department store where Josephine had been the girl at the gift counter and Tozier the gentlemanly floor walker. A little questioning of other employés led to the discovery that the baby was the Toziers'.

Mother Is in Hospital.

The unfortunate bride is in a hospital. Tozier is still denying an intent to murder. The authorities are striving to determine from the physical evidence whether he meant to kill his son or was merely inexpert in bringing him into the world. And whether Mrs. Tozier approved the murder—if there was murder.

FORMER RUSSIAN 'NOBLEMAN' ENDS LIFE BY POISON

Joseph Alphonse Alevhovard Osterman, 55 years old, a watchmaker, who said that he was a Russian nobleman, committed suicide yesterday by taking poison in the home of his former employer, Mrs. Frances Whittier, 39 Washington boulevard, Oak Park.

Osterman, who had been employed by Mrs. Whittier until she closed her jewelry shop at 5048 Sheridan road a year ago, appeared at the Whittier home Saturday. He was out of work and was made welcome by Mrs. Whittier.

Sunday, needing his room for arriving guests, Mrs. Whittier offered to send him to a hotel at her expense. He refused and slept on the living room floor that night. Yesterday he ended his life with poison. Mrs. Whittier said that Osterman was well educated and spoke five languages.

PAW PAW'S PROUD TO TELL 'EM ABOUT LILLIAN TELLAM

Paw Paw, Mich., April 18.—[Special.]—Miss Lillian Tellam, 20 year old brunette, was chosen "Miss Paw Paw" tonight in the annual blossom festival of southwestern Michigan.

She will compete with thirty other community queens for the title of "Blossom Queen." The final contests will be held at Benton Harbor, April 27.

Miss Tellam, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Tellam, farmers of this region, was selected over seven other girls, three of whom were brunettes like herself, and the others blonds. Miss Mary Racki, 22, a brunette, was runner up. The other six contestants were Florence Reigle, Marjorie Bolinger, Dorothea Long, Miriam Smith, Neta Winchell, and Estina Sherrod.

ELECTION BOARD BEGINS OFFICIAL CANVASS OF VOTE

The board of election commissioners yesterday started the official canvass of the vote in last Tuesday's primaries. Thirty teams of counters each completed from nine to ten precincts, a total of about 300 precincts being finished by late afternoon. It was not regarded as likely there would be any changes in winners except possibly in three races for ward committeemen of the Republican party. In the 29th ward Joseph R. Orrico and Samuel O. Shaffer had a close race. The same was true in the 12th, where Felix Kucharski and James Perry were the contestants, and the 25th, where James Savage and William Parrillo were only 197 votes apart in the early count.

$15,000,000 PERSIAN CROWN JEWELS ARE SHIPPED TO AMERICA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 18.—A collection of Persian crown jewels, valued at $15,000,000 and packed in five cases, left Liverpool Saturday, under heavy guard, it is learned, on the way to the United States to be used in bartering for locomotives, river steamship engines and electrical, agricultural and textile machinery. The consignee in New York was kept a close secret, but he is believed to be a former American adviser to the Persian treasury. The cases traveled overland via Moscow and Berlin under guard from Teheran. The precious freight included an 18th century Russian bejeweled gold plate service of sixty-six pieces.

BODY OF MISSING CHICAGO YOUTH IS FOUND IN OCEAN

The body of F. Winchell Reeve, 23 years old, a junior at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, was found yesterday in the ocean near Gloucester, Mass. Young Reeve, whose parents live in Western Springs, disappeared on Saturday night while he was on a camping party with five other youths and six girls.

It is believed that Reeve fell over a high cliff. Companions on the party said that he had wandered away from a bonfire built near a high, rocky ledge on the estate of John W. Prentiss of Eastern Point.

Frederick E. Reeve, publisher, father of the youth, left Chicago Sunday for Gloucester after learning of the disappearance.

PLANES RACE TO OHIO MINE FIELD AS 3 ARE SHOT

Cadiz, O., April 18.—[Special.]—National Guard planes reached the eastern Ohio coal strike area today and immediately went on scouting duty.

In addition two more companies of National Guardsmen were sent into the district when the situation became more grave after miners persisted in trying to break into the one-mile "war-zone" around the affected mine area.

Three miners were shot, all in the legs, this morning when soldiers fired presumably into the ground, in an effort to drive the miners beyond the deadline.

Miners Storm Barricade.

Some 40 men stormed the barricade early this morning but shots into the air drove them away. More than 200 returned and it was then the three strikers were wounded.

At another point Guardsmen were forced to fire into the air when menaced by the strikers. None was reported injured there.

Nearly one thousand strikers and friends attended funeral services yesterday for William Kimbell, 55, of Bradley, the miner who was shot to death in a clash last Thursday.

Call Union Meetings.

The strike was called in protest against wage reductions, claimed by the union to approximate 25 per cent. The new scale was $3.50 a day for day work and 38 cents for tonnage.

After word of the shooting spread through the coal field, union officials sent out a call for meetings of all locals.

At Zanesville, fourteen men, indicted for riotous conduct as result of stoning of employés of Muskingam Coal company, entered not guilty pleas. Five other men were to be arraigned Monday on similar charges.

$378,500 BEQUEST TO HOUSEKEEPER IN HULBERT WILL

Miss Ella L. Cramer for more than twenty years the housekeeper of the late Thomas H. Hulbert, wealthy real estate broker, whose home was at 3150 Sheridan road, is the beneficiary of a $378,500 bequest by her employer. This was disclosed yesterday when Mr. Hulbert's will was admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Horner.

Mr. Hulbert, whose offices were at 6 North Michigan avenue, left an estate of $722,000, according to the court records. He was a bachelor and died at the age of 68 on March 25. Most of his estate was left to friends and servants.

The only relative named in the testament is William R. Hulbert, 201 East Delaware place, a nephew, who receives $228,500. Miss Agnes R. Malley, identified in the will as a sister of Miss Cramer and also a resident of Mr. Hulbert's home, was given $75,000. Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Brown of Grand Rapids, Mich., friends, were given $20,000. Elizabeth Hemmerli and Anna Kuhn of the Sheridan road address were given $10,000 each. John Schneider, the chauffeur, was given the home at which he is living, 916 Barry avenue.

600,000 PUPILS PARTICIPATE IN CLEANUP DRIVE

More than 600,000 students in public and parochial grade and high schools are participating in the "Clean Up Chicago" campaign sponsored by the Association of Commerce in coöperation with Kiwanis and Lions clubs and student organizations, it was estimated by school authorities yesterday.

The campaign, which started on Sunday and will continue until May 1, will include essay and poster contests. Winners will be announced and prizes awarded on May 11. One of the prizes is a trophy given by Mayor Cermak for the best essay on "How Can Chicago Clean Up for the World's Fair?"

Posters, window displays, radio talks, and addresses before civic organizations are being utilized in urging that Chicago be cleaned up. Chief among the student organizations engaged in the drive is the High School Clean Up Campaign league, headed by Evelyn E. Blazek of Harrison High school.

Dog Saves His Master; Master Saves His Dog

Victor Andrews, 806 Yeoman place, Waukegan, was awakened from sleep early yesterday by the barking of his dog, Pal, who was in the basement. Andrews opened his bedroom door and was nearly overcome by smoke and flames. But he managed to reach the basement and rescue the dog. Firemen extinguished the blaze after $1,000 damage had been done.

4000 miles for better taste

CIGARETTE smokers owe a lot to Turkish tobacco, for it was cigarettes made out of Turkish tobacco that first became the vogue in this country.

Then it was found that a blend of Turkish and Domestic tobaccos was better than either kind of tobacco straight. It takes just the right amount of the right kind of Turkish tobacco to give a cigarette better taste. For Turkish tobacco is to cigarettes what seasoning is to food—the spice—the sauce. You want enough but not too much.

There is just enough Turkish in CHESTERFIELDS to give them a better flavor, a more pleasing aroma; to make them taste better.

Turkish tobacco must pay an import duty of 35c a pound; but cost doesn't count when it comes to making CHESTERFIELD the best cigarette that science and money can produce.

"I chart my day the modern way ...I plan my meals in the morning"

"There's only one way to run an up-to-date household, and that's by schedule. Every part of it mapped and charted, so that nothing is put off too long.

"That's the modern way. If I didn't plan my meals in the morning—sometime between 8:30 and 11—I'd never get a chance later.

"There's so much to do in the evening—entertaining, being entertained, theaters, bridge. The children want me with them then, and my husband says that my work should end the same time as his.

"So I read the food news in the morning newspaper, right after breakfast, and pick out hints and recipes. The food ads help me, too, but they'd help me a lot more, if there were more of them.

"Housework has been so much shortened by electricity that there's always time enough. And I like to have my menus decided in the daytime when the stores are open and it's easy to phone the grocer.

"And isn't it the business-like way to do the most important work early? There's no business greater than home-making, and there's nothing more important than food."

Why the New York Herald Tribune is the logical medium for food advertising

The New York Herald Tribune is the only newspaper in New York with a Food and Housekeeping Institute. During 1931, 45,000 women wrote to this Institute for help or information.

The Herald Tribune publishes food news weekdays and Sundays—every day in the year. In the course of a month, the Herald Tribune publishes more information on food than any of the leading women's magazines.

During 1931, the New York Herald Tribune made gains in the following classifications of interest to women:

Department Stores	Books
Grocery Products	Florists, Seeds, Nurseries
Confectionery	Shoppers' Guide
Household Appliances	Magazine Section
Jewelry

The circulation of the New York Herald Tribune is 336,166 weekdays and 475,018 Sundays. It is concentrated among families which are well able to buy.

HUNT LEADERS IN LYNCHING OF CHILD'S SLAYER

Kansas Governor Heading Investigation.

Atwood, Kas., April 18.—[Special.]—The state of Kansas, through its governor, Harry H. Woodring, today took steps to punish members of the mob that lynched Richard Read, slayer of 8 year old Dorothy Hunter, near here early this morning.

GOV. HARRY H. WOODRING. [A. P. photo.]

Officially, the identity of the 200 armed men who hanged Read is unknown. A coroner's jury returned a verdict that Read met his death by hanging at the hands of a mob, "identity unknown."

Gov. Woodring, however, personally took charge of an investigation. It is known that most of the mob members were from Selden, Kas., home of the slain girl, and most of the residents of the town were to be questioned in an endeavor to discover the identity of leaders of the mob.

Roland Boynton, attorney general, is aiding the governor. They talked with Sheriff A. A. Bacon of Cheyenne county, who was automatically ousted from office under a Kansas statute providing such procedure when a sheriff loses a prisoner to lynchers. Sheriff Bacon insisted that he had used every reasonable means to protect his prisoner.

Read, a bachelor farmer and former convict in Colorado, was seized by the sheriff yesterday. He confessed assaulting the girl and then murdering her and led the sheriff and his men to the haystack where he had hidden the body.

Read was hurried to the county jail at St. Francis, Kas. When word of his confession became public the mob formed, went to the jail, and threatened the guards who finally surrendered the keys. Read was taken from his cell, a rope placed about his neck, and he was loaded into an automobile.

Hanged from Elm Tree.

The lynchers drove for five miles before they could find a tree on the Kansas plains. Finally an elm was discovered in a ravine. The motor cars in the caravan surrounded the tree with their headlights glaring upon the center scene. Read, bound with barbed wire, was taken beneath the tree and the rope thrown over a limb.

"I wouldn't have killed her if I hadn't been drunk," he said. "I couldn't do it again."

His body was hauled up and the mob dispersed rapidly.

Police Hunt Racketeer.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 18.—[Special.]—A South Philadelphia racketeer, described as a "small time criminal," is being sought by police as one of the leaders in the kidnaping of Hilda Brodsky, 8 years old, who was returned unharmed yesterday to her family in Wilmington.

The child was on the alert from the moment she was kidnaped on her way to school Friday until she was handed over by her abductors to a Catholic priest at South Philadelphia yesterday. She gave police detailed descriptions of the man and woman who kidnaped her.

Hilda had seen the woman, who is about 35, in the hosiery mill of her father, Harry Brodsky, about a week ago, and was not suspicious when the woman drew up alongside of her Friday in a sedan. Police believe they know the identity of the woman as well as her male companion.

No ransom was paid for the child's return, and the kidnapers were not promised immunity, according to the girl's father. Kidnaping is punishable by death in Delaware.

"The criminals apparently felt so secure from arrest," Brodsky said, "that they took Hilda to a restaurant Saturday night."

SALESMAN TRIES TO END LIFE.

August Chantiomont, 63 years old, 3442 Melrose street, a salesman, attempted to commit suicide yesterday by inhaling fumes from the exhaust of his automobile. He was revived by a fire department squad.

MOTHER MEETS DAUGHTER AND SO DO BANDITS

Her customary habit of meeting and walking home with her daughter late at night proved costly for Mrs. Bertha Feigen, wife of Dr. Philip H. Feigen, 919 Argyle street, last night. It was costly, too, for the daughter, Miss Sterra Feigen, 20 years old, a member of the Woman's Symphony orchestra.

Miss Feigen, returning from the Goodman theater, met her mother at Argyle street and Sheridan road. As they started to walk the short distance homeward two men drew up in a sedan. Both leveled revolvers. They drove away a few moments later with a Persian lamb coat valued at $500 and $43 in cash taken from the mother and a mink coat which cost $1,475 taken from the daughter.

Twin Sisters in Separate Courts; 1 Freed, 1 Fined

Twin sisters, Mae and Helen Mullin, 19 years old, 4227 South Albany avenue, were arraigned in different Municipal courts yesterday on charges of riding in a stolen automobile. Mae explained that she did not know the car she was in was stolen and was discharged by Judge J. William Brooks in the Boys court. Her sister was fined $100 by Judge Donald S. McKinlay in the Stockyards court when she admitted that she knew her companion stole the car.

Start Hunt for Missing Chicago Student at U. of I.

A search has been started for Wilfred Eisfelder, 19 years old, of 5520 South Shore drive, a sophomore at the University of Illinois, who disappeared April 7. He is a son of Arthur M. Eisfelder, manager of a loop department store. Just before young Eisfelder disappeared, he told his roommate, Alvin Fisher of 4630 Ellis avenue, that he expected to visit in St. Louis for a week. The week ended without his return.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO KILLING.

St. Joseph, Mich., April 18.—A "not guilty" plea was entered by John Ryan of Gary Ind., truck driver arrested recently for the death of La Fayette Wires, 67, cemetery sexton. It was claimed Ryan's truck struck Wires, although Ryan said he had no knowledge of it.

GRAND JURY ASKS REFORM IN ELGIN STATE HOSPITAL

Acts After Inquiry Into Patient's Death.

The Kane county grand jury at Geneva yesterday handed to Rodney H. Brandon, director of welfare for the state, recommendations for reform in the administration of the Elgin state hospital.

One of these recommendations was that Dr. P. F. Gillette, psychiatrist, who has for many years been connected with the institution, be dismissed on the ground of negligence. It was held that he should have recognized that Adolph Pelli, an insane patient who died last November, had been severely beaten by attendants. This beating is alleged to have caused Pelli's death.

Find Hospital Overcrowded.

The grand jury pointed out that the state hospital is overcrowded, having 3,750 patients and that the bed capacity of 3,800 will soon be reached. The present method of employing attendants, who are appointed by state officials at Springfield, was condemned, the grand jurors asserting that the managing officer at the institution should choose his own men.

A committee of the grand jury, composed of Harrold Davis, Raymond Dunkle and William J. Wilson, examined the institution and formulated the report, which, it was stated, was concurred in by the entire body.

Pelli, who was 36 years old, had been in the hospital only a short time when his death occurred. For several days preceding death he was in a ward in charge of Dr. Gillette.

Three Guards Discharged.

The latter said yesterday that he had noticed bruises on the patient, but that this was nothing unusual, as his condition was such the contusions would have occurred from bumping against a wall or floor. He knew nothing of the beating, he asserted.

Three guards, George H. Caldwell, John Ribble and Fred Taylor, were arrested as a result of the Pelli death. They were dismissed from their positions, but were not prosecuted, as all the witnesses to the beating were insane.

Mr. Brandon indicated that he would give the recommendations of the grand jury thorough investigation.

Railroader, Active at 94, Not Yet Ready to Retire

John M. Horan, who is considered the oldest active railroad man in the world, will complete 77 years of continuous service with the Milwaukee road today. He is 94 years old, and started working for the railroad in 1855, piling wood onto the wood burning locomotives of that day. Mr. Horan is a boiler washing inspector in the shops at Milwaukee. He visited officials of the railroad in Chicago yesterday to prove that he is as spry as ever and need not retire on a pension as yet. He is known as "Soda Ash Johnny" to his co-workers, because he originated the use of soda ash in the washing of boiler flues.

FARMERS CALLED FOR QUIZ TODAY IN DAIRY BLAZE

Hunt Motive for $40,000 Fire.

Ten McHenry county dairy farmers were ordered to appear today in the courthouse at Woodstock at the opening of an inquiry by Paul E. Bertram, deputy state fire marshal, into the fire apparently incendiary, which destroyed 65 head of Holstein cattle early Sunday on the farm of George Pollock, 13 miles northwest of Elgin. The loss, including the razing of the cow shed and several other farm buildings, was estimated at $40,000 and is only partially covered by insurance.

P. E. BERTRAM.

Deputy Marshal Bertram said the witnesses at the inquiry will include independent milk dealers and members of the Pure Milk association. It is held possible that the fire was the result of a feud between independent dealers and members of the association. Pollock is a leading member of the association. He has said he knew no reason for the fire.

May Have Been Mistake.

Investigators are working on the possibility that the incendiaries set fire to the Pollock shed by mistake and that they had intended to burn some other barn. On this theory state police questioned participants in a quarrel not far from Union last Tuesday between members of the association and independent dealers. Pollock was an observer of the fight, but did not participate in it.

Two members of the association, John Konecek and Clarence Bonnell, Will county dairymen, are to be tried today at Woodstock on charges of inciting the near riot. Deputy Sheriff Harold Reese was slugged and 30 cans of milk were overturned in the melee at Union.

Calls Fire Incendiary.

The ashes of the Pollock fire were too hot yesterday to permit a search of the ruins for containers of kerosene or gasoline, which may have started the fire. Deputy Marshal Bertram said he was certain, however, that the fire was incendiary because oil soaked straw was found at the base of the shed and windows and doors were opened to allow a draft.

Will C. McQueen of Elgin, president of the association, who had announced he would conduct an independent inquiry, said that he will await the outcome of the investigation by Deputy Marshal Bertram. He added he did not believe the association was involved in the fire.

Show Exhibits Obtained by Roosevelt Expedition

Exhibition of specimens of animals obtained by the William V. Kelley-Roosevelts expedition to eastern Asia was opened yesterday at the Field Museum of Natural History. The principal figures are specimens of the rare Asiatic water buffalo. The specimens were collected by Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who with his brother, Kermit, led the expedition.

CURTIS-MARTIN LINEAGE DOUBLED—

Sales Increased 700 per cent

HOWARD E. BLOOD
President, Norge Corporation

IN 1931 seven times as many Norge refrigerators were sold in Philadelphia as in 1930 . . . and the Curtis-Martin newspapers carried twice as much Norge advertising in 1931 as in 1930.

Read the letter written by Mr. Howard E. Blood, president of the Norge Corporation. It is of vital interest to every national advertiser seeking to build sales and prestige in the great Philadelphia market.

Norge discovered what other advertisers are finding out daily: namely, that complete coverage is necessary to maintain and develop volume here.

Complete market coverage means not merely dominating the 470,378 families of A. B. C. Philadelphia, but blanketing the 372,689 families that make up one of the richest suburban markets in the United States.

Only the Curtis-Martin newspapers can do this.

What the Curtis-Martin Newspapers did for Norge in this, America's third market, they will do for any manufacturer.

Attention - Mr. Geo. C. Steele.

Gentlemen:

We of Norge are grateful to the people of The Philadelphia Market for the fine reception accorded Norge Rollator Refrigeration during 1931. Last year, when many businesses were hard put to hold their own, Norge sales in the Philadelphia district increased seven times over 1930.

With a record national increase of 480 percent, Norge finished 1931 in a commanding position and with every indication of a most prosperous 1932.

It is interesting to note that our Philadelphia advertising appropriation gave Curtis-Martin newspapers 26 percent in 1930 and 57 percent in 1931. This increase of over 100 percent was, no doubt, one of the factors which contributed to the success Norge enjoyed in the Philadelphia territory.

For the balance of 1932 Norge advertising will appear regularly in the Curtis-Martin newspapers.

Norge believes in newspaper advertising. It has proved our greatest ally in point-of-sale contact.

We are glad to give you these facts and figures, which you may publish if you so desire.

Truly and sincerely,

Fine Store in Chicago

*"Over 50% of our newspaper advertising goes into the Tribune - to Reach the Woman Buyer!"

When a tremendous, class-appeal store like Mandel Brothers placed 52.8% of all its advertising in 1931 in the Chicago Tribune—it means something!

It means that the Tribune is read by more women than any other Chicago newspaper! It means that the Tribune's feminine readers are tangible buyers!

These are well-substantiated facts!

First of all, the Daily Tribune reaches 155,000 more families in city and suburbs than any other Chicago daily paper!

Impartial reading habit surveys made among many thousands of women in various income groups reveal that 66% read the Daily Tribune—79% read the Sunday Tribune! The second paper scored only 49%—the third paper, 46%. What's more, 42% of these women readers stated definitely that they preferred the Tribune—as against only 26% for the second paper and 22% for the third!

IF . . the Tribune is read and preferred by far more women than any other Chicago paper, why not tie onto its powerful woman interest with your product!*

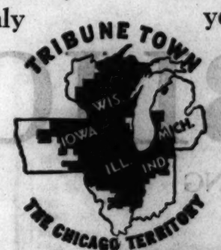

Editorially, the Tribune covers the field of women's interests thoroughly, completely, interestingly!

The result?

The Tribune is far in the lead in advertising embracing products appealing to women!

Chicago's—and America's—leading merchants can't be wrong!

Let a Tribune man go over the Chicago situation with you. He has information which you need to know in planning your selling and advertising.

Critic Reads Just One Book for Pleasure

She Is Curious About the Writing.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

I HAVE finished reading "The Rumble Murders," by Mason Deal [Houghton Mifflin], and it is the first book that I have wantonly read for pleasure for months. It never occurs to most of you, I suppose, that a literary editor almost never can read a book with that lavish gesture of just being entertained.

The galley slaves of old haven't much on us so far as keeping our knuckles tightened around the oars [of reading] is concerned. A few moments of rest and contemplation of the skyline and the current has carried us out of our course. We have to keep rowing, always conscious of the fact that no matter how hard we flex our muscles, or how fast we make the galley go on its way, we can never do more than keep going. We can never really get ahead of the current.

Books attack us in great waves, almost submerge us, and all we can do is to cling bravely to our oars. With something over five thousand books published each year [in lean years] the poor literary editor—you can plainly see—never dares to read a book just because he wants to.

Pleasantly Written Book.

But I did read "The Rumble Murders" just because I wanted to. I confess it. My friend, Mortimer Quick, who knows all about mystery stories and reviews them much better than I [who am an utter greenhorn about them] ever could, was all prepared to include it in his next charming and eupeptic discussion of the recent thrillers. I snatched it from his fingers. "I'm going to do something I haven't done for months," I told him. "I'm going to read that book because I'm curious about it even though I don't write a piece about it."

And I did. I found it an extremely pleasantly written book about something that didn't interest me much because murder mysteries have no trace of thrill for me. [I realize that the great are proverbial mystery fans, but I never made any pretenses of greatness.]

What I was interested in wasn't what the book was about, but how it was done because—and now I'm telling things—I knew that it was written by a former Chicagoan, the brother of one of the most top-hat literary figures in England, a man who had a very delicate and interesting sense of humor [the local brother, not the expatriate one] and whom I had always suspected of being shy about his own literary possibilities because Brother Tom had grown such a halo internationally. This, his first novel, shows that if he wants to write, Brother Henry can do it without bringing anything but réclame to the family name, a name which is not, as you may surmise, Deal. Brother Tom is the best known of the American expatriate poets of England.

Seek to Save Poetry Magazine.

Which reminds me of a letter which I have just received from the best known of the American expatriate poets in Italy, Ezra Pound, who now lives at Rapallo. Here it is:

"Miss Harriet Monroe threatens to resign, or, rather, threatens to cease publishing her magazine. Two points are visible even from this distance:

"1. It will be a disgrace to Chicago if Miss Monroe is permitted to retire without some formal public recognition of her twenty years of conscientious service, and by recognition I do not mean mere hot air, but a reasonable pension from those guarantors whose taste she has always backed against mine.

"2. If Miss Monroe insists on taking her magazine into retirement with her it will be an almost equal disgrace if Chicago can't produce another having analogous relation to the present decade that 'Poetry' had to that of 1912."

When Miss Monroe first suggested that Poetry would have to fold up its tents because it could no longer meet its budget, protests, violent and vociferous ones, came from all over the world, declaring that "It's the only thing of its kind in the world" and that it was her "DUTY to keep the magazine going." To the entreaters Miss Monroe replies in the current issue of "Poetry": "I am moved to go half way to meet the protests. I am willing to continue for a while the editing of the magazine if the financing is taken off my hands." [Miss Monroe has, almost alone, been responsible in interesting the guarantors' support of the magazine for twenty years]. "From the standpoint of the other arts, so heavily subsidized in our cities, the poets ask little for a magazine of their own—a beggarly four or five thousand a year. A single millionaire could give it, if you who are protesting find him; or he, or perhaps a group of more moderate fortunes, could invest a hundred thousand or more in a permanent endowment. We know in this office . . . how difficult it is for a poet to get a hearing. . . . That he should have it is vital not only to him but to the people whose spirit he serves and leads. For 'poets are the unacknowledged legislators of the world' and . . . it is their mighty task to make their age immortal."

Has any cozy bear bedded in roses got a hundred thousand or so to devote to immortalizing the age which made his coziness possible?

Bleaches That Are Effective May Be Harmful

Strong Ingredients Tend to Dry the Skin.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

When possible, I evade the question of bleaches for the skin. In a less conservative day I had occasion to learn that skin bleach cannot be recommended promiscuously. Skins seem to register more idiosyncrasies about bleaches than about any other lotion. Even lemon juice, which has good bleaching property, found opponents to its use after a trial or two. Cucumber juice, which used to be a popular conceit in earlier years, has likewise earned complaints. And, as you know, bleaches containing glycerine have been applied to faces that simply cannot stand glycerine.

Today, however, I must come out in the open with the bleaches just to warn the young lady, "June J.," not to indulge in peroxide washes on her face unless the solution is so mild it is practically ineffective. I don't recommend it because of the risk to eyelashes, eyebrows and hair edges. And you can't evade the skin area close to these features without leaving a noticeable unbleached part.

Peroxide undoubtedly will whiten the skin, but I warn against its use on the face. Nor do I like to hear of formulas including carbolic acid, even though only a few drops are used.

My best advice to those who want to bleach their skin is to ask advice of one in a position to study the depth of tan, or the condition of the skin seeming to call for whitening lotion. In order to do this, a personal inspection is required. In the better beauty salons the information might easily be sought and answered for you in an already prepared product that has withstood wide experiment. Not any old bleaching lotion, understand, but one put out by a reliable house should bear up under a test.

Bleaches are drying, as a rule. Consequently it is wise to use cream after them. Some of the masks, mud and meal, are said to be whitening, but I wonder sometimes if it isn't the cleansing effect that makes the skin appear so.

Buttermilk is a real old timer with a bleaching reputation handed down for generations and I am convinced if used often enough it will bleach. At bedtime is the proper time for its use. Let the buttermilk-wash stay on the face and neck overnight. Glycerine is an excellent bleaching agent if your skin can stand it, which many skins can and many can't.

Overinflated Ego Held Chief Disease of U. S. Ministers

"Overinflation of the ego" is the most prevalent occupational disease of clergymen. At least that is the opinion of one minister, the Rev. Roy L. Smith of Minneapolis, as he told Methodist ministers of Chicago, meeting yesterday at the Chicago temple, what he believes is wrong with the clerical profession.

Dr. Smith named other occupational diseases of the clergy. Among them were parochial paralysis, denominational dyspepsia and hyperacidity of the sermon. Lack of general criticisms of sermons, said Dr. Smith, has led to careless handling of sermonic arguments and facts, with the result that public pronouncements from pulpits today have little or no weight.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

KATHARINE CORNELL whose face has a strange enchantment that is something more than beauty; whose voice has a clear and lyric quality of intelligence; whose personality is rich with a dark, exotic charm, brought her staging of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" to the Harris theater last night for the most distinguished première of the playgoing season. She is the most fascinating actress of the American stage today, and on the record of this admirable production she is also the most popular. Here is the hit of her career to date—a play of superior merit, offered with consummate skill and taste, which crowns with signal success her first adventure as an actress-manager.

"The Barretts" gives this distinguished and glamorous star the most noble rôle of her seven years of footlight fame. It also places her in the spiritual glow of the loveliest story in literary biography. Miss Cornell appears as Elizabeth Barrett, the sick lady of the sonnets, the delicate and intellectual songstress of the Early Victorian period who became the muse and the mate of Robert Browning. She was a gifted woman, a great soul; and Miss Cornell visualizes and acts her with allurements to the mind that will, I am sure, send many people back to her almost forgotten verses, and also to the exquisite letters that stand as the record of her great romance.

Opposite Miss Cornell, as the serene ecstasy of Elizabeth Barrett Browning's dream of love comes true, stands a young English actor named Brian Aherne, in the rôle of the poet who sang and believed that all was right with the world, whose high vitality raised the sick lady of the sonnets from her eternal sofa and transformed the timorous invalid into a gallant eloping bride. And Mr. Aherne's is the way the young Robert Browning, as found in his dynamic writings, should be acted. For "The Barretts," Miss Cornell found the perfect hero to match with her own transcendent heroine.

These two give the love scenes, in which Rudolph Besier has caught the gleam of Victorian literary magic, a spell that makes "The Barretts" the finest stage romance of years. The rare imagination and entrancing gentleness of Miss Barrett; the burning sincerity and healthy gusto of Mr. Browning; the absolute mating of the mind and the heart in this unique pair, lift these episodes far above the level of contemporary drama. This is superb acting in admirable material. As a love story, therefore, "The Barretts" is a brilliant return to the style of a cleaner period than the present.

There is a third character of marked importance in the development of the plot—Mr. Barrett, tyrannical Victorian father, who was the ogre in this historical fairy tale. In actuality, as in Mr. Besier's play, he was a sinister power against whom Elizabeth and Robert had to fight with all their strength in order to fulfill their dream. He is acted, with a cold and sculptured starkness, by Charles Waldron.

With this character the author has taken a liberty that has no sanction in the well documented records of this family chronicle. He has applied to Mr. Barrett, in a drastic manner, some of the far fetched theories of modern sex psychologists. He has made him a paper doll cut out of a page from a work on abnormal turns of the sex instinct.

I would find Mr. Barrett more plausible and more acceptable if the playwright had not chosen to dabble in these murky waters of sex theory. He would be more convincing to me as an effigy of domineering paternal selfishness, not uncommon in the Victorian period, than as a man struggling against the mental poison of a perversion of instinct.

This element in the play, clearly defined in the author's published text, is discreetly subdued in the performance. At any rate, I assume on the evidence of the tactful treatment of the scene between Mr. Barrett and the coaxing minx of a niece who perches upon his knee, that it is no more than hinted at darkly. The scene in the last act, where Elizabeth gets a clear look into the dismal soul of her father, was missed by me in the haste of first night reviewing. However, I have never found that Miss Cornell, as actress or as manager, lacked taste; and I assume that Mr. Barrett gives nothing more than an intimation of the crazy fever in his blood.

The performance is finished and expert in every rôle, and Margalo Gillmore, as Elizabeth's rebellious younger sister, contributes to it an entrancing characterization. The staging and costuming represent a de luxe treatment of Victorian atmosphere.

Good morning!

Some breath-taking suspense toward the end of "Scandal For Sale" helps the film a lot. Otherwise this movie registers as just another yellow journalism exposé spasm.

You have before you on the State-Lake's silversheet, a screenization of Emile Gauvreau's novel, "Hot News." Emile Gauvreau, a tabloid editor, tears his hair figuratively and to no great effect, over tabloids and their makers. To the great god Circulation, his newspaper men make constant and bloody sacrifices which they tear, bloody and gasping, from the ranks of the unfortunate. One's own wife and children, it seems, grow to mean little or nothing to any such fervid disciple—until, perhaps, on one day, caught amid the débris of the debacle he has started in motion, he is granted a period of clear-sightedness—which may or may not be indefinitely prolonged.

Charles Bickford handles picturesquely the rôle of a Boston editor who goes berserker and takes his wife and children to New York in order that he may have greater freedom to print the news, the whole news and a heap sight more than the news.

Rose Hobart is pretty, and properly unhappy as the wild man's wife. His two little children, one of whom is, indirectly, a victim of his dad's neglect, are properly cunning and put upon as portrayed by Mary Jane Graham and Buster Phelps.

Pat O'Brien does a mighty fine piece of work as a reporter—also laid upon the g. g. C.'s altar by his pal and boss Jerry Strong [Mr. Bickford] and Waddell has, by the way, for years hopelessly loved Mrs. Strong. He and one Hans von Twardowski — whom I've never seen before and who has a small part as an air pilot are the dynamic figures in the suspenseful episode before mentioned. They make every minute count.

Newspaper men and women will smile scornfully at some of the newspaper office occurrences, realizing them to be far-fetched to the nth degree. As, for instance, a reporter's remarks to his publisher. One doesn't speak so to one's publisher and hold one's job. I THINK! And thinking's good enough! I'll never experiment in order to know.

See you tomorrow.

North Shore to Hold Pingpong Meet Saturday

Exhibition Matches Also Scheduled.

BY JUDITH CASS.

NORTH shore pingpong enthusiasts are greatly excited over the tournament that is scheduled to take place on Saturday afternoon in the Durand Art institute in Lake Forest for the benefit of Druce Lake camp.

And they are even more excited over the exhibition matches that will be given that evening by three experts, Miss Helen Ovenden, Illinois women's champion; Coleman Clark, national champion [he just won his title last Saturday in New York, I believe], and Yoshio Fushimi, Japanese champion.

On the committee arranging the tournament and exhibition matches are Miss Elizabeth Webster, Miss Ellen Holt, Miss Mary Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence W. Scudder, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth S. Templeton, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Blossom Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Harkness, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Milman, Mr. and Mrs. David Dangler, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Wells, all trustees of Druce Lake Camp association. Druce Lake camp is maintained as a summer outing place for girls from Association house, 2150 West North avenue.

Entertains for Mrs. Rawson.

Mrs. William L. Underwood entertained at her residence in Highland Park last Saturday night for Mrs. Frances Coonley Rawson, while Mr. Underwood gave a bachelor dinner for his brother, Thomas I. Underwood, at the Hotel Sherman.

I understand that the men for whom the popular "Tom" Underwood has acted as an usher or as best man gathered from far and near to the number of about twenty-five for the dinner.

The date for the marriage of Mrs. Rawson and Mr. Underwood has not been disclosed, for it is to be very small with only the members of the immediate families present, but it probably is to take place soon.

Mr. Underwood and his bride will motor east and will spend a few days in New York before sailing for a wedding trip through France and Spain. Mrs. Rufus King, who is a frequent visitor to Chicago, will give a reception for the Underwoods at her residence in New York, I am told.

Miss Henrietta Countiss will give a tea this afternoon at her residence at 1524 Lake Shore drive for the alumnæ committee of the University School for Girls. The committee includes Mrs. Cecil Barnes, Miss Alice Barler, Mrs. Henry K. Chapin, Mrs. Robert M. Curtis, Mrs. Constance Mock, and Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot.

Tea for Benefit Committee.

Mrs. Gerhardt F. Meyne will give a tea this afternoon at her residence at 1448 Lake Shore drive for the committee in charge of a card party to be given for the Woman's Symphony Orchestra association on Saturday evening, April 30, at the Drake hotel. Reservations for tables have been made by Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. Thatcher Hoyt, and Mrs. Royden Keith.

The North Side Infant Welfare society, in preparation for the city-wide "Baby week" to be held the first week in May, is making a dollar drive and hopes to reach 5,000 persons who will contribute one dollar apiece.

The funds will benefit the Seward Park Infant Welfare station. The committee in charge will meet tomorrow at a luncheon at the residence of Mrs. Wilton B. Martin at 191 East Walton place. The members include Mrs. William H. Bush, Mrs. J. Wendell Clark, Mrs. Warren Everett, Mrs. William L. Hodgkins, Mrs. William Waller Jr., Mrs. Albert H. Wetten, Miss Belle Press, Mrs. Bryan S. Reid, Mrs. Lawrence H. Vilas, and Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler.

Hospital Aid at Rummage Shop.

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase, the very efficient publicity chairman for the Rummage shop, is out of the city, so Miss Hanna Schmidt, the equally efficient secretary of the shop, is asking for publicity about the annual sports clothes sale that the junior auxiliary of the Children's Memorial hospital will conduct at the shop, 27 East Ohio street, on Friday of this week.

Miss Elizabeth Drake will be in charge and assisting her will be Mrs. John Vaughn, Mrs. William McClellan Drake, Mrs. William Gray, Miss Beatrice Borland, Mrs. W. S. Agar Jr., Miss Marion Clow, and Mrs. Woodruff Parker.

Mrs. Chase motored to New York with her daughter, Mrs. Frederick Hauck, to visit another daughter, Mrs. Polly Chase Boyden, and to meet Miss Elizabeth Chase when she returns from abroad. Miss Schmidt writes: "The constant increase of patients at the hospital increases the expense accordingly, and the hospital needs the support and good will of all its friends to carry on its work successfully."

Mrs. Wirt Dexter of Boston is in Chicago for a few days' visit with her daughter, Mrs. Stanley McCormick, at 209 Lake Shore drive. Mrs. Dexter is a former Chicagoan and was for many years a neighbor of the Pullmans and other families on the south side.

Gordon Kelleys Return to City.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kelley (Hortense Henry) returned on Sunday from an extended wedding trip to Florida, Central America, and Cuba. They are to be with Mr. Kelley's mother, Mrs. William V. Kelley at her town residence at 1550 North State parkway until the Lake Forest house which they have leased from Mr. and Mrs. Edwin E. Tullis is ready for their occupancy.

Mrs. John A. Spoor has returned from a visit in Pass Christian with her daughter, Mrs. Thornhill Broome, and her grandchildren.

Mrs. Dorothy Michelson Dick and Mrs. Philip B. Maher, who have been in Washington, D. C., for a visit with their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Festus Foster, have now

THE WHISPERER

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

"The Whisperer Crimes" have held London terrorized for months. A bandit, working with few accomplices, has kidnaped and held for ransom numerous wealthy persons. The ransom victim is sent a small wireless receiving set, by means of which the bandit speaks, using his own short wave, and gives directions for delivering the ransom demanded. Police dare not interfere, because death results for the captive if the directions are not carried out.

Joyce Merrow is a victim of The Whisperer. She is engaged to Roland Blatch, secretary to Sir Henry Glazeborough, M. P., a leading philanthropist. In Roland's keeping are valuable jewels, donated to Sir Henry to be sold for charity. Roland is forced to steal them for the bandit to insure the safe return of his beloved. When Joyce is again safely home, Roland decides to accept an offer from the bandit to join his band, and try to recover the jewels. He is sent to an address where a woman named Connie gives him a facial treatment which alters his appearance. Chief Inspector Larpent calls on Joyce. Sir Henry's actions have aroused Larpent's suspicion.

INSTALLMENT VIII.

A DISGUISE PENETRATED.

So that was it, Larpent thought. Glazeborough intended her to have that telegram. Well, he would play up and see what happened.

"That's from Mr. Blatch, I expect!" he remarked.

She crouched back defensively against the wall, her hand on her breast. It was a disappointment and Larpent looked at her sadly.

"So you think my talk about not really wanting your man is just policeman's talk—a trick to put you off your guard?"

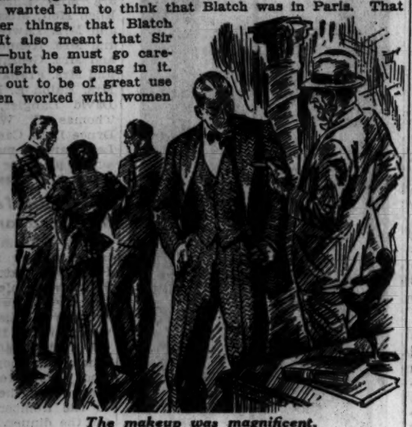

The girl lifted her eyes to Larpent's and accepted the challenge. He was glad then that in his twenty-five years as a detective he had never found it necessary to win an honest woman's trust and betray her.

"There you are, Mr. Larpent," she said with sudden resolution and handed him the telegram.

"I'm glad you trust me—I'll not forget it." It would be cruel to tell her that he could easily have obtained a copy of the telegram at the postoffice. He took it from the envelope and opened it out.

It had been dispatched from Paris. "Arrived here by plane. Do not worry. Roland." he read.

Larpent folded the telegram and handed it back to the girl. So Sir Henry Glazeborough wanted him to think that Blatch was in Paris. That meant, amongst other things, that Blatch was not in Paris. It also meant that Sir Henry Glazeborough—but he must go carefully there. There might be a snag in it. This girl might turn out to be of great use to him. He had often worked with women detectives, but without much result—for they invariably looked detectives. This girl could never look like a detective.

The makeup was magnificent.

"If we catch The Whisperer pretty soon," he said slowly, "we shall probably get that jewelry back. And your young man will have nothing to worry about. And you and he can get married—and I daresay you both believe you'll live happily ever afterwards, eh? I'm sure I hope you will. But—just how far will you go to help me to do that?"

"I'll do anything—anything!"

"Would you lie?"

"Yes—yes of course I would! He's a murderer. But I'm afraid I'm not very good at it." She looked at the photograph and laughed.

"I'll soon teach you how to tell lies," said the detective. "Got that telegram? Go to the front door as if you had just taken it from the boy and put it in your waistcoat—sorry, whatever you call that thing! Then come in here and when I ask you for it, refuse to give it to me." As she looked at him in wonder he added: "I'm not playing a silly childish prank, Miss Merrow, I'm in deadly earnest."

She went to the front door as he told her, then came into the room.

"I'd like to see that telegram, Miss Merrow."

"I—I'm unwilling to show it to you."

Larpent, acting with a realism that alarmed her, took her by the wrist, then whisked the telegram from the front of her dress.

"Ah! So your young man has charted an airplane and flown to Paris, has he? I'll trouble you to let me use your telephone."

He went to the telephone and, keeping his finger on the rest, went through the solemn business of giving the number of Scotland Yard and ordering a subordinate to wire the Paris police a description of Roland Blatch and to arrest him.

"But—" the girl began, but he checked her protests by pointing to the finger that held down the rest so that no connection had been made with the exchange.

"O, I understand!" she laughed. "We've been acting it so that I can remember exactly what is supposed to have happened."

"Quite so! We don't generally assault women like that but he'll think I was taking a risk as there were no witnesses present."

"He!" she echoed. "Who?"

"Never mind who," answered Larpent. "Tell anybody who asks you—and then report to me. If you really want to help me catch The Whisperer, tell me everything—and ask me nothing. Good-by for the present."

As soon as he got back to the Yard, Detective Sergeant Hendricks came to report.

"Picked up a line from Maviste, sir. Robson, who was watching in the window, saw a young man enter at four-fifteen. An hour and a half later a man came out whom Robson had not seen go in. This man crossed the road, came into the tobacconist's, and bought some cigarets. Robson had a good look at him. Age about forty, tanned, rather shabbily dressed in a brown lounge suit, wearing boots and had a slight limp. Robson thought it might be worth while following him, shadows the man into Piccadilly, heard him give 'Charing Cross Station' to a taxi man and followed him there. He took some luggage out of the cloakroom and went to the Gulverbury hotel, where he registered as Carstairs. Any good my going round to have a look at Carstairs, sir?"

"I'll go myself," said Larpent promptly.

At the Gulverbury, Larpent asked for Mr. Carstairs and when requested to give his name solemnly asserted that it was Vanvilsingen.

"I'm sorry, sir, I didn't quite catch——" He repeated the utterly unpronounceable name, and the clerk was driven to asking him to write it down.

"O, never mind, then!" he said irritably. "Just tell Mr. Carstairs a personal friend wants to see him on a private matter."

In due course there came towards him a man of Hendricks' description.

"Mr. Carstairs? I must apologize for describing myself as a personal friend. Here is my card. You will observe that I represent the Universe Insurance company. I see you've just come to London and I think we have a policy that would just suit you."

The detective pattered on while he studied his mind. The man certainly looked forty and he looked tanned. The makeup was magnificent. As far as the police description was concerned there was no resemblance at all to Blatch. But to one who was looking for makeup—who was saying to himself: "Can this man possibly be Roland Blatch under a very clever disguise?" the answer would inevitably be in the affirmative. The detective had seen only the photograph but that was enough.

"I'm afraid I haven't time to attend to this just now, but leave me your card and I'll ring you up."

In the manner of a slightly disappointed insurance agent, Larpent thanked him and left.

Larpent walked slowly and rather sadly back to Scotland Yard. He knew that the woman who called herself Maviste worked for The Whisperer. He knew that she must have supplied Roland Blatch with his makeup. It was therefore reasonably clear that Roland Blatch had thrown in his lot with The Whisperer.

"I don't think you're doing it for money, my boy. I think you're fool enough to be doing it because you think you can hit the bull's eye where we have been steadily registering boss shots. Well, you may be right!

"But when it comes before the court the jury may not believe you.

"I'd better arrest the kid before he gets into further trouble. No. He may be useful where he is. And if he wants to sacrifice himself it's not my job to stop him. . . . I'm jolly sorry for that little girl of his."

Back at the Yard he spoke to Hendricks.

"That man Carstairs at the Gulverbury. Have him watched day and night—but tell them to lose him rather than run the risk of letting him know he's followed."

. . . . . .

Between eleven and twelve on the following day Roland, in accordance with his instructions, set out for Maviste's.

The morning papers had been grim reading. There was a full account of his own victimization by The Whisperer. One paper had printed an interview with Sir Henry Glazeborough in which the latter had given his secretary a gilt edged character and appealed to him through that paper to return. "Poor Old Glassy" was feeling it pretty badly, thought Roland.

"With any luck I shall be allowed to see The Whisperer soon. And then——"

He turned into Maviste's, ignored the girl behind the counter, and passed down the corridor to the inner room. The woman whom he knew as Connie was waiting for him. By accident or design she was standing so that a sunbeam fell on her hair, touching it to flaming copper. She was dressed in black silk, which made her skin dead white save for the deep red of her lips, which parted in a friendly smile—the smile of comradeship in service of The Whisperer.

"Work today!" she exclaimed.

"What! Two days running! He's never done it before."

"He's doing it now."

Her voice was businesslike and to his relief held no echo of the sentiment that had overwhelmed her at their previous meeting.

Famed Chalice Is Believed to Be Holy Grail

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

The story of the great chalice of Antioch, which will be revived by way of lecture tomorrow evening, is a drama with a history that deserves to be retold. It is one of the fascinating true romances of the present day.

That world traveler, James B. Wootan, is to give the lecture he has presented from one coast to the other before an audience at Rosary college in River Forest. And in his introductory paragraphs Mr. Wootan will recall for those who have forgotten that the chalice is thought by many archæologists to be the Holy Grail sought by knights errant, and recognized by all scientists and connoisseurs to be the oldest and most important of Christian monuments.

Drawings of the sacred cup must suffice, however, as illustration for, as Mr. Wootan, one of the few students of the famous piece explained yesterday, only once since its discovery in 1910 has it been placed on public exhibit.

Famous as the piece is, if the Holy Grail, the cup used at the Last Supper of the Savior, it is no different in style from the thousands of drinking cups in general use during the first century A. D. It is different, however, from all other cups in the world in having been consecrated with that statement of Christ in anticipation of his sacrifice on the cross as he gave his disciples the wine.

To describe this lovely chalice of Antioch is difficult, for it is a work of art, a monument. It consists of two parts, the Holy Grail itself, a crude silver bowl of little artistic quality but of infinite worth to the Christian, and a silver outer cup of exquisite design which encases the Grail, allowing it to be seen partially through interstices in the pattern. This outer vessel is said to be the finest specimen of first century art extant and was probably made by a Greek converted to Christianity as an offering of gratitude.

It is richly ornamented and comprises probably the only true portraits of Christ and the writers of the four gospels and other apostles. Evidence indicates that these are no mere conceptions of the artist but that he knew personally those whom he portrayed and delineated their actual features with consummate skill. The portraits of Christ, in particular, though they may differ from some conventional ideas, show a face strong in character and of intense appeal.

In 1910 some Arab workmen were digging a well near the Orontes river in the Syrian town of Antioch—a city that is today a miserable huddle of squalid native houses, a city that used to be a world town both because of its place in the history of the Christian church and of the Roman empire.

Antioch was founded in 300 B. C., you probably remember. Here it was that "the disciples were first called Christians." Peter evangelized the city in 41, lived there two years and returned in 55; Paul and Barnabas were called to their apostolic labors at Antioch, and for long years the city was the headquarters of the whole movement for carrying the gospel to all peoples. It was the center for all the great councils of the church and in 341 the superb Golden Basilica was built and consecrated.

This Basilica which housed its full share of the holy relics collected by the devout Helena, mother of Constantine, was destroyed by a year long earthquake in 525-'6, by sack and burning of the Persian Chosroes in 538-'40 and by another convulsion of the earth in 588. As a result of this the Crusaders who took the rebuilt city of Antioch in 1098 are said to have actually found the Holy Lance which pierced the side of Christ.

So there were many traditions connecting Antioch with sacred relics, even with the Holy Grail vessels among which the Holy Lance always played a large part, when these Arab workmen started digging for a water supply 22 years ago. Suddenly they broke through into an old underground chamber filled with a confused mass of ancient articles which on examination brought to light six or seven complete silver objects and a large pile of dust and fragments of silver.

OFFICIAL CONTRACT

BY CHARLES TRUE ADAMS.

[International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight."]

It is always more fun to succeed in a difficult quest than in a simple one and for this reason East, in yesterday's play-a-problem, did not feel quite as prone to criticize his partner's bidding as he would have felt had he not succeeded in making his declaration. This was the hand:

NORTH.
♥—6,4,3,2
♦—K,8,7,5
♣—Q,J,10,9

WEST [Dealer]. EAST.
♠—A,K,3,2 ♠—9,8,7,6
♥—K ♥—A,10,9,7,5
♦—5,4 ♦—A,3,2
♣—A,K,8,7,6,5 ♣—2

SOUTH.
♥—Q,J,8
♣—4,3

West dealt and bid a club. North passed. East took out with one heart and South passed. West now bid three clubs, which you must note is a jump shift game demand bid. The fact that he bid one club originally has nothing to do with it. He took out his partner with one more than necessary and that made the jump shift game demand. North passed. East now bid three spades. South passed. West went four spades, which closed the bidding.

Unquestionably West should have bid two spades on the second round in place of three clubs and not forced his partner into making such a weak suit bid. However, East responded gamely to the forte and was rewarded by having a difficult though possible declaration to play. He handled it most skillfully and gained the maximum result and therefore did not say too much to his partner. (Of course, no one really should criticize his partner at any time, but alas, the human element sometimes forces us away from such a sportsmanlike attitude.)

South opened the ♦ Q, dummy played the 4, North the 7 and East took the trick with the A. Declarer then led the ♥ 5, which he took in his dummy with the K. Dummy led back the ♣ A and followed with the ♠ 5, which declarer trumped with the ♠ 6. Declarer then led the ♥ A and followed with the ♠ 9, which dummy took with the K. Dummy then led the ♣ 6, North played the J, declarer trumped with the ♠ 7 and South overtrumped with the ♠ J. South then led the ♠ Q, which dummy took with the ♠ A. To the ninth trick dummy led the ♣ K, North played the ♣ Q, declarer discarded the ♦ 2 and South took the trick with the ♠ 5. South then led the ♥ Q, which dummy trumped with the ♣ 2, declarer playing the ♥ 7. Dummy then proceeded to take in the last three tricks with the ♣ 8, the ♣ 7, and the ♠ 3 for five odd—the game and one extra trick.

Here is tomorrow's play-a-problem:

NORTH [Dealer].
♠—A,K,Q,J,7
♥—K,Q,10
♦—K,Q,4
♣—K,2

WEST. EAST.

Bid and play this hand and compare the result with that printed tomorrow.

Makes You Lose Unhealthy Fat

Mrs. Ethel Smith of Norwich, Conn., writes: "I lost 16 lbs. with my first bottle of Kruschen. Being on night duty it was hard to sleep days but now since I am taking Kruschen I sleep plenty, eat as usual and lost fat, too."

To take off fat—take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—go light on potatoes and fatty meats—one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a few cents—get it at any drugstore in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the SAFE and harmless way to lose fat—your money gladly returned.

Don't accept anything but Kruschen because you must reduce safely.

BY MARY MEADE.

Have you ever, in the course of your day's duties, stopped to consider the possibilities of toast? I remember when I was a child I once read an article suggesting something one could do with a slice of prosaic white bread, and as my vocabulary at that time was composed almost exclusively of garden variety words, I had to ask my aunt what "prosaic" was. I was dreadfully disappointed to find that it meant "ordinary." But there are all sorts of ways to make that "prosaic" white bread unusual when it's toasted.

Take, if you will, croutons. I make these by cutting the bread about half an inch thick and slicing across the pieces to make cubes. These I brown in the oven, a moderate oven [350 F.] till they are a delicate brown, and behold—the perfect complement for soups! If you make French onion soup and are not able to obtain French bread, it is best to toast the white bread for it, because this makes up partly for the crustiness of the French kind. Cut the bread thick and toast in the oven.

To go with salads, make toast fingers. They are a good substitute for bread sticks at a time when you haven't the minutes to spare to bake the latter. Cut the bread the same thickness you do for toast, remove the crust and slice into pieces three-quarters of an inch wide. These are good spread with a cream-cheese mixture.

And think of all the creamed things on toast, and the toasted sandwiches! For a change from the former, try making toast boxes. For a simple meal cut bread [sandwich loaves are good for this trick] into slices two inches thick, remove the crusts, cut around the inside with a sharp knife, leaving a thin shell, remove the center and bake the box in a moderate oven till nicely toasted. If you want a more elaborate box cut the bread into cubes. Then, when the crust has been removed, insert the blade of a sharp knife into the top edge, slanting downward, and cut off the top, so that when you remove the cover it will have sort of a beveled edge. Toast the cover and the box very gently. Fill the box with the creamed mixture and replace the cover. If you have done your work neatly the cut will not show. With lobster in a thick white sauce this makes an ideal dish for a bridge luncheon.

If you prefer, the toast boxes may be cut in rounds with the aid of a baking powder tin. You will find it is better to toast them bottom up because the heat does not otherwise penetrate the inside of the box, and it is still white when the rest of the box is a lovely brown.

When you make French toast do you beat the egg till it's light, or just enough to mix yolk and white? Procedure is, of course, a matter of taste, the difference being that in the first instance the egg-and-water or egg-and-milk mixture sinks into the bread and becomes a part of it, while the beaten egg tends to fry on the outside of the bread, producing a somewhat lighter slice. French toast takes so kindly to treatments of honey, sirup, and even such less usual things as peanut butter that I hope it has a place in your menus not much less important than waffles and pancakes.

BOSTON BROWN BREAD.

1 cup cornmeal.
1 cup rye flour.
1 cup graham flour.
3 cups sour milk.
½ cup molasses.
2 level teaspoons soda.
1½ teaspoons salt.

Sift the cornmeal and rye flour together. Beat the sour milk and molasses together with an egg beater, add the graham flour, then soda and salt. Reserve a little of the molasses-milk mixture and dissolve the soda thoroughly in this. Add to the batter. The time of steaming depends upon the size of the loaves, but for two good sized loaves it is one and a quarter hours. Raisins may be added, or candied fruit, such as apples.

Young Things Plentiful in Chicago Shops

Dashing Smartness Awaits Youth.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

YOUNG things . . . bright things, clothes for the youthful rather discriminating younger crowd that refuses to be satisfied with fashions that show any old and tried and true influence in the matter of cut and fit!

The kind of clothes that will make the wearer the life of the party . . . dashing, daring, complete knockouts, dresses and costumes that will make other fresh young clothes hounds green with envy!

And . . . most important of all . . . crisply fresh new ideas in color or enthusiastic color combinations, blazing new patterns and prints or simply anything that will produce eyesmashing results wherever they are worn.

It sounds like a 1932 version of a maiden's prayer for the right kind of clothes to make life worth while . . . but it isn't . . . it's merely a timely tribute to certain shops that are filled with such soul satisfying smartness . . . shops that are literally crammed with good looking loot for your spring and summer wardrobes and bristling with modest price marks compiled with a lot of wholesome respect for the very young and nonstretching budget.

In these shops you will find coats and suits that can only be worn by youth . . . designs that accentuate slender waistlines and even more slender silhouettes . . . in colors that are as frankly fresh and exuberant as new green grass and color conscious spring tulips.

Here you will find the printed frocks of your wildest dreams . . . prints that are really prints . . . slashy spots of scarlet, jade green, bright blue, and practically every other color scheme that your starving soul desires . . . here you will find dots that have finally grown up . . . large, freedom seeking disks of real color that stepped outside the usual dull ordinary boundaries of older restraint and fulfilled their destiny, most dashingly on daytime as well as evening clothes for eager gadabouts.

You will not have to plead for stripes, either . . . they will show you stripes that will make even youth gasp . . . good, bold, devil-may-care swatches of gay color that would make a zebra pale and fade with envy.

You may have worn the spots off your pet dotted mesh socks or reduced the soles of your newest ghillies to tissue paper, hunting for supersomething sports clothes, but you can find what you want now . . . new hand knitted effects that must have been made with outsized needles, for the holes certainly are the biggest stitches any one ever dropped.

Sweaters and matching caps that are nothing, more or less, than just another collection of holes strung along with the same yarn, are bewilderingly plentiful . . . so are the separate snappy flannel and knitted skirts.

And . . . evening effects! . . . everything from the slinky, clinging variety of silks and laces . . . the perky touch-me-not things of organdy and those new evening piques [cotton piques and in lovely pastel colors] that must have been designed by somebody with a sense of humor or else a person who thought in terms of a fresh, crisp, clean party frock ready at a few hours' notice . . . a clever collection of everything to wear for evening.

Children Ask the Reason for Good Manners

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Question: "My children are at the age where they question everything, and they say they don't see any use in being so particular about table manners. I am stumped. Can you give me any argument?"

Answer: Some parents use the formula, "Because I say so." But your plan is the intelligent one. At various times in their lives children question various conventions and moral codes. When that time comes we must do our best to answer them instead of saying, "Well, it just is—that's all."

A point to start with is that though table manners are somewhat arbitrary they are based on consideration—the starting point for all courtesy. You might explain then that careless eating, or greedy eating, or too fast eating is not pleasant for the others at the table to witness.

It is rather to the point when children are at the age of yours to explain that it's most convenient—or painless for them—to learn to do some things by habit so they can stop thinking about them. Also, that when they're older they'll be very glad to have their manners second nature instead of having to be conscious of them all the time.

Question: "When should little children know how to do certain things—like lace their shoes, button their clothes, go to the bathroom alone, and so on?"

Answer: It would take a long page in this column to answer that—and even then we cannot give hard and fast rules or ages for these accomplishments. Individual children differ. Still there are generalities to guide one and new points of view, too, about all these things. The references in our "Play Booklet" provide interesting and illuminating reading on these subjects.

Sunk!

Planning . . . hoping . . . and then—the thing she dreaded

Nature won't postpone her process to accommodate social engagements! Two weeks ago she was sure she could go. Then—just an hour before the party—it had started. That excruciating pain which is now avoidable.

Expected. Dreaded. Those muscular pains reckoned by the calendar. You can't always tell to the day and hour when they'll begin. But you can count on their relief seven minutes after taking Midol!

The periodic process is natural, but the painful part is not. Midol is non-narcotic: it never interferes with the process, but it does banish the pain. These tablets take effect in five to seven minutes. Better yet, the woman who takes them beforehand will experience no pain at all. Midol relieves headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, too. Always to be had at any drugstore.

Mother of 7—Still Young

THE woman who gives her organs the right stimulant need not worry about growing old.

Her system doesn't stagnate; her face doesn't age. She has the health and "pep" that come from a lively liver and strong, active bowels.

When you're sluggish and the system needs help, don't take a lot of "patent medicines." There's a famous doctor's prescription for just such cases, and every druggist keeps this standard preparation. It is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a little every day or so, until every organ in your body feels the big improvement.

The next time you have a bilious headache, or feel all bound-up, take this delicious syrup instead of the usual cathartic. You'll be rid of all that poisonous waste, and you haven't weakened the bowels. You'll have a better appetite, and feel better in every way. The constant use of cathartics is often the cause of a sallow complexion and lines in the face. And so unnecessary!

Would you like to break yourself of the cathartic habit? At the same time building health and vigor that protects you from frequent sick spells, headaches, and colds? Get a big bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin today. Use often enough to avoid those attacks of constipation. When you feel weak and run-down or a coated tongue or bad breath warns you the bowels need to be stimulated. Give it to children instead of strong laxatives that sap their strength. It isn't expensive.

WHAT A MAN

he's going to be!

He plays outdoors in the fresh sunshine. He sleeps like a top. And how he eats! Watch him as he dips lustily into his Rice Krispies and milk and does his part towards building a strong body and rugged constitution.

Kellogg's Rice Krispies are a cereal that fascinates children—and one of the best they can eat! Crisp, nourishing rice bubbles that actually crackle in milk or cream.

Serve for breakfast, for lunch—for the evening meal. Kellogg's Rice Krispies are so easy to digest, they invite restful sleep. How much better for youngsters than so many hot, heavy dishes.

Always oven-fresh in the red-and-green package with the sealed inside WAXTITE bag. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Quality guaranteed.

Velvet Roses Twine Around Evening Wrap

Brown Flowers Used on Turquoise Blue.

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — Garlands of flowers are flung all around Paris evening fashions. They're particularly smart when they bloom on informal evening clothes, which make up 90 per cent of the evening clothes worn in Paris in summer. Parisiennes hate to be formal when it's hot, so they wear some simple frock and wrap made delicate and appealing by flower gardens scattered hither and yon.

Some wear their garlands at the top of a high waistline, after the mode of Redfern. Others twine them around the arms à la Augustabernard, and others wear them in Chanel's leis around their necks. New spots for these garlands to alight are being found every day.

One of the newest is shown in the accompanying sketch. Here the brown velvet roses twine around the turquoise blue evening cape, beginning on the right side of the neckline and running down to the waistline on the left side. The cape is really half jacket, having a fitted jacket foundation, over which the cape is draped from the right side front to the back, and from the left side front to the back. It ties on, and the front has a cowl draped neck that is new in evening wraps.

The dress with which this stunning wrap is worn is a simple, ankle length frock of brown georgette, trimmed with vertical bands of brown lace, and having a brown lace hem that curves up into the bands at the sides of the skirt in front and back. This model is from Miller Soeurs.

HAROLD TEEN—SHADOW GETS A LOT OUT OF LIFE

Hall Crowded as Apollo Club Ends Season

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It was like old times to see Orchestra hall crowded for the final concert of the Apollo Musical club last night. Like old times in more than one way it was, too, for it has been a considerable number of seasons since the organization was in such good vocal form as it is now. The voices sounded younger and fresher, the approach to the music was more enthusiastic, and this without sacrificing any of the club's former virtues of solid exactness.

It has already been told that reports of this being the club's final season were incorrect and that dates have already been taken for its assignments in 1932-'33. With the renewed youth that it has taken to itself, there would seem to be little reason why renewed prosperity shall not also be its lot.

Mendelssohn's "Elijah" was last night's closing bill for the season. The soloists were Else Harthan Arendt, Isabel Zehr, B. Fred Wise, and Theodore Harrison, excellent singers all, particularly Mr. Harrison who, as Elijah, displayed a high order both of singing and of dramatic fervor. Edgar Nelson, the conductor, had his forces under fine discipline, the kind of discipline that not only controls but upon occasion spurs on to renewed efforts. Altogether it was a performance of which the organization may well be proud.

Another end of the season performance was given by the Woman's Symphony orchestra at the Goodman theater. Here Conductor Ebba Sundstrom led her players through Brahms' "Academic Festival" overture and Beethoven's Eighth Symphony as leading numbers, also making an observance to the memory of Adolph Weidig by playing his "Three Episodes." The orchestra has taken a definite part in the musical life of Chicago, and its position continues to improve because its performances improve. Its tone is good and getting better, and it makes constant strides in the direction of poise, firmness and flexibility.

The soloist was Arthur Kraft, a tenor singer of great art. His appearances were two, Beethoven's "Adelaide," later followed by the aria, "Durch die Walder," from Weber's "Der Freischuetz." It is a fine work of the old school deserving to be better known than it is, and it was sung with the greatest suavity and finish by Mr. Kraft.

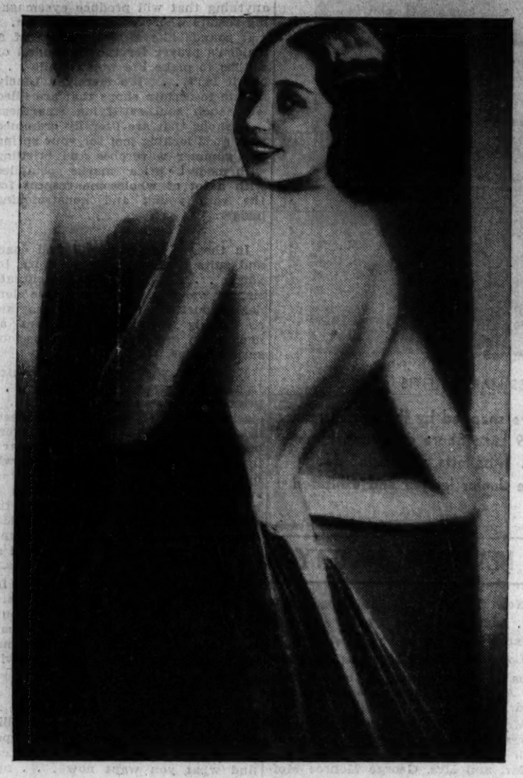

The Society of American Musicians presented two of its contest prize winners at Kimball hall last night. One was Marie E. Cowan, who played the organ with great distinction, a beautifully developed technic, and a great sense of authority. The other was John MacDonald, who is gifted with a bass voice of unusual quality and who has done considerable work to bring the gift into its most effective form.

Erring Husband Often Victim of Shrewd Woman

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The husbands appear to be getting a break in the seasons' shows, whatever may be said for their home treatment. The so-called erring husband, that is, the man who is tripped up in an affair outside the domestic setting.

Maybe it isn't good politics for women to go about indorsing this misunderstood husband as his playwright brothers picture him. Perhaps the policing and heavy sentencing of the erring mate by wives in general keeps a lot of men tied to the domestic post. I don't know. But it is true that men sometimes get themselves drawn into situations maybe not exactly innocently, but certainly with no intention in their minds of hurting the women to whom they are married.

Of course, they should be strong and noble creatures, able to sight temptation and flee from it, and all that sort of thing. The fact remains, however, that they are not always strong and noble creatures in the face of temptation, and that whether said wives are willing to believe their story or not, they can have all the evidence of caring for some outside woman and still be truly in love with their wives.

Too, with the outside woman the aggressive, often unscrupulous hunter she is today, husbands are sometimes enmeshed in situations honestly not of their own making.

To wit: In one of the plays referred to a lonely husband in love with his wife, who has gone on a visit, is innocently drawn into a restaurant foursome. From there the girl in the case takes up the cue of pursuit. She is willing to be the Back Street girl in the man's life. She is pretty, lonely, unhappy. The man tells her he is married, he loves his wife. He puts up a good struggle—not, of course, as your good morality would have him exhibit. His wife is away. In the end he succumbs. Later, the girl's suicide brings the situation to his wife's knowledge.

Now, we're not advocating affairs for men, understand. We'd be party to a messier marriage situation than we have now, did we advocate any such thing. But it is become common for men to be divorced or hated over situations that could bear, and profitably to the wife, a little better understanding on wives' part of the temptations to which men are open today. Also, women should attempt to understand, or accept if not understand, the psychology of the male who honestly does love his wife in spite of damaging other-woman evidence.

Select Plants Whose Leaves Can Shed Dirt

BY PAUL POTTER.

City gardeners who dig and plant so hopefully in the spring would find better results later in the season if they used some caution in selecting plants most apt to survive the atmospheric and other adverse conditions to be found in closely populated areas.

Those plants whose leaves will shed dirt in heavy rains or under the hose are the ones most logical for such conditions. Of these perhaps the best are hardy rhododendrons, honey locusts, magnolias, Japanese holly, privet, and English ivy.

For roof gardens or window boxes might be added petunias, phlox, hollyhocks, geraniums, irises, and zinnias. The evergreens, of which arbor vitae is as popular as any, can hardly be expected to survive sooty conditions plus the extremes of weather found near the lake.

Soft coal soot is about the most serious handicap to thriving plant life. Plants must breathe through the pores of leaves if they keep alive, and the dirt or soot gathering on the leaves will effectively prevent this. Those who have maintained beautiful roof gardens or small backyard gardens in the heart of the city overcome this handicap by frequently washing the leaves with a sprinkler or by a gentle hose spray.

SENATOR HARRIS, NOTED GEORGIA DEMOCRAT, DIES

Had Served on Numerous Important Committees.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—Senator William J. Harris, senior senator from Georgia and ranking Democratic member of the appropriations committee, died here this afternoon at his residence following several weeks of illness during which he had two major operations for intestinal and bladder troubles and one blood transfusion.

He was 64 years old and had been in the senate since March, 1919. He was reëlected in 1925, and again in 1931, when he received the largest vote and majority ever accorded a candidate for the United States senate in Georgia.

Death Falsely Reported.

Desperately ill, Senator Harris' death was once falsely reported at the capitol. Later he rallied so that his recovery was predicted until last Friday, when he began to sink again.

Upon motion of Senator George [Dem., Ga.], the senate this afternoon adjourned in Senator Harris' memory. The widow, Julia Knox Wheeler [daughter of Gen. Joseph Wheeler] and one daughter, Julia, survive.

The senate resolution called for a committee of fifteen to attend the funeral.

"As was entirely characteristic of Senator Harris, he made a valiant fight for life, just as he always made a valiant fight in life," said Senator George. Senator Jones [Rep., Wash.], chairman of the appropriations committee, paid especial tribute to Senator Harris' skill as a committee member. "He had a trained mind, especially in financial matters," said Senator Jones.

Was Wilson Appointee.

Upon his graduation from the University of Georgia, William Harris went into the insurance and banking business, but a liking for politics earned him a place in his state's senate. For many years he was chairman of the Democratic state committee of Georgia. In 1913 he was appointed director of the United States census bureau and was for a time acting secretary of commerce. President Wilson appointed him chairman of the federal trade commission in 1915. In 1918 he resigned that post to make the senatorial race, which he won.

In addition to the appropriations committee, Senator Harris was a member of the immigration committee and of the commerce, military affairs, and territorial and insular affairs committee.

PRIESTS ORDERED JAILED IN PLOT TO STIR UP REVOLT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUNAS, Lithuania, April 18.—Following simultaneous raids conducted at Kaunas, Mariampole, and Shavli, the chief of Lithuania's criminal police today ordered the arrest of a number of priests, including Rankele Schaljius Adomitis.

They are charged with organizing another attempt to overthrow the joint dictatorship of President Antanas Smetona and Premier Juozas Tubelis. The conspiracy, according to the police officials, was financed by the Catholic Committee of Action, whose leaders were imprisoned last autumn following an unsuccessful attempt to stir up the population against the government.

The discovery of illegal newspaper propaganda published in Riga, Latvia, has caused the Kaunas government to request the Letts to take action against disgruntled Lithuanians living in Latvia.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Edward G. Hayne of Ottawa said yesterday that THE TRIBUNE was in error last week when it stated that Charles Seipp of Leonore had won the second Democratic nomination for representative in the general assembly from the 39th district at last Tuesday's primaries. Mr. Hayne, not Seipp, won the nomination, the former said.

GRAVE DIGGER SWINDLED; TWO SUSPECTS CAUGHT

Joseph Canestrini, 164 24th avenue, Melrose Park, was a grave digger until recently at the Mount Carmel cemetery. Then the depression struck the cemetery and Canestrini lost his job.

He wanted another one and he welcomed two men who assured him they could find him another place. But when they called at his home they informed him he would have to prove his standing in the world by showing them money.

Drawing all his savings, $940, from a bank, Canestrini met his supposed benefactors at Randolph street and the lake on Saturday. One of his new friends had a headache and the other one held the money while Canestrini went to a drug store to buy some aspirin tablets for the ailment. The result was: Canestrini minus $940; swindlers plus $940.

The victim went to the detective bureau and identified pictures of Peter Piccerelli and Albert Giannini as the swindlers. A search for them was started. Yesterday the police here were informed the pair had been arrested in Milwaukee. They had some good money but they were passing counterfeit bills, it was said. Canestrini went to Milwaukee, viewed and identified them in person and returned to Melrose Park to look for another job as a grave digger.

WALTER CRAMP, AMERICAN FRIEND OF POPE, IS DEAD

FLORENCE, Italy, April 18.—(AP)—Walter C. Cramp, 67, of Philadelphia, grandson of the founder of the Cramp shipyard, died today in the villa where he had lived for the last seven years. He had written a number of books about Italy. A daughter, Mrs. Henry W. Ford of Convent Station, N. J., was with him when he died.

Mr. Cramp had been a friend of the pope and had financed excavations in search of the bodies of the Apostles Peter and Paul under the Church of the Appian Way.

The Philadelphian had written a number of books about excavations and searches for the bodies of the apostles, and several volumes of general information about Italy. An author and musician, Cramp also had devoted much attention to encouraging musical education among children.

U. S. REGULATION OF BUS LINES IS URGED BY I. C. C.

Lesser Truck Control Recommended.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 18.—[Special.]—Legislation regulating interstate bus and truck carriers was recommended today by the interstate commerce commission in a report that marked the culmination of a nation-wide survey of the highway-rail transportation situation.

"Unrestrained competition is an impossible solution of the present transportation problem and is incompatible with the aim of coördination under regulation," declared the commission.

Interstate bus carriers, under the recommendations, would be required to obtain certificates of public convenience and necessity to operate on the highways. Their fares and charges would be subject to regulation. Liability insurance or indemnity bonds would have to be furnished by operators as a protection to the public.

Joint Fares Advocated.

Joint fares between bus, rail, and water carriers should be permitted, the commision said. Bus carriers also would be subjected to a uniform system of accounts under commission supervision. Free passes would be forbidden to the same extent as in railroads.

Railroads, whether steam or electric, and water carriers, the commission asserted, should be specifically authorized to engage in the transportation of both persons and property by motor vehicles in interstate commerce over the public highways.

A much milder form of regulation for the interstate truck carriers, common or contract, was recommended.

"No person should be permitted to operate a motor vehicle for the transportation of property for hire, either as a common carrier or a contract carrier, over the public highways in interstate commerce without first having secured a permit," the commission said.

Liability Insurance Urged.

Liability insurance, protecting the public against loss or damage to cargo and for personal injuries, should be required for truck operators, it was contended. Regulation of rates of truck carriers was not recommended by the commission. It also said that for the present no requirements should be made regarding the qualifications of drivers, hours of service of employes and the size, length, weight of load, and speed of motor vehicles operating for hire on the public highways in interstate commerce because the states now had a clear right to protect the public safety under their police powers.

It added, however, in order to obtain desirable uniformity in such regulations, so far as they affect interstate commerce, it might eventually become necessary for congress to occupy this field.

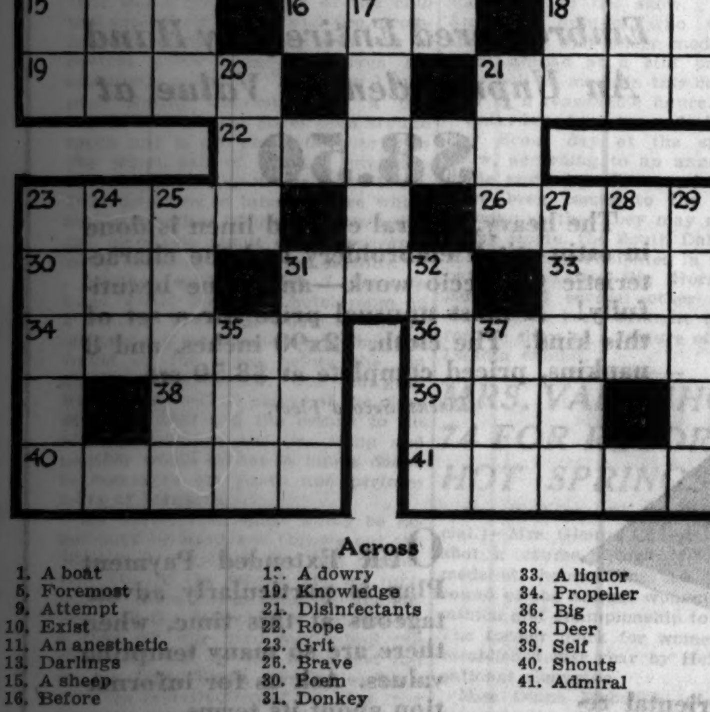

Sees Truck Control Need.

Commenting on the fact that there was little demand for truck regulation from shippers at the present time, the commission said the fact that shippers did not now generally recognize the need for federal regulation of motor truck operations did not prove that such regulation was not required in the public interest.

"The immediate advantages of unrestrained competition in transportation are easy to perceive; but the more remote consequences which may be most injurious to all concerned, are not so easily forseen and recognized," it said. "This has uniformly been the experience with such competition in the public services, of which transportation is the most important.

"The evidence in this investigation shows very clearly that such injurious consequences may be expected from, and to some extent have already been produced by, the unrestrained competition of motor vehicles with the railroads and with each other."

TESTS REVEAL DIET AS GASTRIC ULCER FACTOR

Experiments completed in the department of physiology at the University of Chicago have tended to show, it was announced yesterday, that diet has a more important effect on the formation of stomach ulcers than has been generally supposed, while nervousness and mechanical irritation appear to have been given undue prominence as causes.

Frederick Hoelzel and Esther Da Costa, research workers, after experiments with 1,200 rats, found that the animals put on a diet devoid of proteins were particularly susceptible to gastric and duodenal ulcers. It is suggested, though not definitely claimed, that proteins have the effect of making hydrochloric acid in the gastric juice harmless.

Dr. A. J. Carlson, head of the department of physiology, said that the results of the experiments are not applicable to human cases as yet, but that the studies would be continued.

COMPLETE TASK OF UNLOADING 4 TRIBUNE SHIPS

The last roll of the 14,706,000 pounds of paper brought to Chicago by THE TRIBUNE's paper fleet in its annual race from Thorold, Ont., was placed in THE TRIBUNE's warehouse on the Chicago river at 8 o'clock last night, when stevedores finished unloading the New York News.

The specially constructed cranes at the warehouse, rebuilt during the winter, unloaded four ships, the News, Chicago Tribune, Thorold, and Bennington in 40 hours working time, at the rate of 184 tons of paper an hour.

The News went to South Chicago, where she will take a cargo of grain for Toronto. She will take another cargo of grain at Buffalo for Montreal, and then will proceed to Shelter bay, farther down the St. Lawrence river, to begin her seasonal task of carrying pulpwood from THE TRIBUNE's forests to the paper mill at Thorold.

Einstein Has a New Theory on Density of Electricity

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, April 18.—In an application of the unified field theory, Prof. Albert Einstein has communicated to the Prussian Academy of Sciences a new theory which gives the first account of spacial density of electricity. By generalizing the structure of the four dimensional continuum employed in the relativity theory of gravitation—through the elimination of one axiom—Einstein has succeeded in developing in a strictly analogous way a mathematical theory accounting for the existence of electric density.

CHICAGO WAR ACE TO MANAGE JERUSALEM "Y"

Waldo H. Heinrichs, an American ace in the world war, will sail today from New York on the Ex Calibur for Jerusalem. There he will take charge of a new million dollar Y. M. C. A. which is to serve twenty nationalities and adherents of three faiths—Christian, Jewish and Mohammedan.

W. H. HEINRICHS.

Heinrichs is the son of Dr. Jacob Heinrichs, 3026 West Washington boulevard, dean of the Northern Baptist seminary. During the war he was a lieutenant in the Ninety-fifth aero squadron, and his exploits won him the Croix de Guerre, with Palm awarded to him by Marshal Petain, the Victory medal with five bars, and four citations. He became known as "the luckiest man in the world war."

While on patrol duty in the Chateau-Thierry sector he encountered six German planes, a part of the famous Baron von Richthofen "aerial circus." Despite the fact that machine gun bullets struck him in the heel, ankle, thigh, elbow, right hand, and face, Heinrichs effected a landing and was attempting to set fire to the machine when captured.

RAGGED PORTER ARRESTED; HAS $32,917 ON HIM

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Definite proof that industry and thrift are profitable virtues was given the Newark police today when they arrested a man who had been employed as a porter at a wage of $10 a week and who had saved his money as $32,917 in cash in his pockets showed.

Two detectives saw an unkempt fellow with a handful of pencils going in and out of stores in Springfield avenue, and they arrested him on a charge of pedding without a license. They said they found a bottle half filled with gin in one pocket, and the money in another. There were 25 $1,000 bills, 79 $100 bills and 17 $1 bills, all new. He said he is Tony Misiak, 56.

"I worked for the money—how do you suppose I got it?" he demanded when police questioned him. "I'm a porter and I get $10 a week. I saved this money for 36 years."

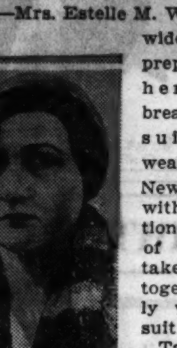

The soles of his shoes were worn through, his clothes were old and torn, the seat of his trousers was out, and there were holes in every pocket except that in which he kept the money. He was held for a hearing in police court.

Two Well Dressed Gunmen Rob Girl Clerk in Hotel

BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT IS WITHDRAWN BY CHICAGO WIDOW

Philadelphia, Pa., April 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Estelle M. Wolon, Chicago widow who was prepared to press her $250,000 breach of promise suit against wealthy Charles Newbold Welsh, with diary notations and scores of photographs taken of the two together, suddenly withdrew her suit here today.

MRS. E. M. WOLON. [A. P. Photo.]

Taking the form of a "voluntary nonsuit," the action leaves the way open for Mrs. Wolon to sue at some future date, provided she pays the costs of the present suit. Her reason was given as illness from which she had been suffering ever since she flew here last Wednesday. In addition, her attorney, William A. Gray, was in Washington today.

Mrs. Wolon, in her hotel room, declared she was suffering a nervous breakdown and would "start suit again as soon as I am able."

Mr. Welsh, who lives in Chestnut Hill, a fashionable section of the city, denied through his attorney there had been any settlement out of court and the lawyer added: "There never will be."

FIND ALL-BRAN HAS TWICE THE USABLE IRON IN LIVER

Also Furnishes "Bulk" and Vitamin B to Overcome Common Constipation

Liver is known as a good source of iron for the blood. Now, new tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains twice as much blood-building iron as an equal amount by weight of beef liver.

But more important still, laboratory experiments show ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract.

This means Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a fine way to overcome constipation—with the headaches, loss of appetite and energy that so frequently result.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it absorbs moisture, forming a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes. Special cooking processes make ALL-BRAN finer, milder, more palatable.

How much better than risking pills and drugs—so often habit-forming. Just eat two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily for most types of constipation. It is not habit-forming. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SWEET ADELINE! THERE'S CURSE OF RUM, BISHOP

How About Padlocks on Locker Rooms?

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on page 28.)

New York, April 18.—With due respect for an old campaigner, I should say that Bishop Cannon has overlooked one great horror in his prohibition fair in Washington, D. C., which is intended to remind people of the curse of drink. The bishop was photographed in a mock saloon, with his foot on the rail, guzzling a saucer of sarsaparilla and, from the descriptions of the place, it does not appear that the committee which arranged the fair has given the old time saloon any better than an even break.

But one familiar atrocity attributable to alcoholic beverages which will be growing worse now that the summer season is approaching is the locker room quartet singing "Sweet Adeline." The bishop could have recruited a quartet from almost any golf club and the demonstration would have been much more terrifying than any mere display of bar fixtures and dummy bottles on the back bar.

Careful of Feet, Not Throats.

The setting would be a club locker room and a long dressing bench with the members of the quartet sitting astride. The singers would be dressed in bath towels or athletic underwear and those paper, throw-away slippers which protect the feet from little rashes. It is one of the interesting peculiarities of persons given to singing "Sweet Adeline" that they will take the most elaborate precautions against little rashes while they are engaged in drinking corrosive beverages so that they may achieve that condition in which "Sweet Adeline" is sung.

There would be several bottles of ginger ale on the bench and several assorted bottles of gin, applejack, rye, Scotch and so forth, and a steward named George or Otto to fetch the set-ups. The set-up is a comparatively new development. I never heard of it before prohibition, but it is now familiar to all.

Third Round Brings Singing.

It is not necessary to go into all the frightful details of the singing of "Sweet Adeline" by the quartet. Comparatively few Americans can remember the words of "The Star Spangled Banner," but practically every one knows "Sweet Adeline." The first two rounds of drinks are absorbed without untoward incident, but after that there comes a certain fanatic gleam in the eyes of the members of the quartet.

Rumbles or trills or little squeaks—these last from the tenor—begin to issue from the boys. With the next drink they will be burbling together softly, and ten minutes later the baritone, who will be also a dialect storyteller, equally at home in Scotch, Negro and Scandinavian metier, will throw back his head, shut his eyes, and let fly a horrible bray. "Swee-eeet Ad-o-line."

At this cue the tenor will chime in with something like a feminine scream, "My Ad-o-line." And the bass, who will be a little man with a 25 handicap and rather curly shanks, will take a hitch in his bath towel, slink up alongside the tenor, who will be leaning against a locker, pouring out his little soul, and chime in with a low, descending growl, "My Awd-o-loine."

Of Course Bishop Wouldn't Know.

The whole effect will be so frightful that the other members of the club will grab their clothes and flee, dressing on the fly. Or they will toss in several quick ones themselves for anesthetic purposes. But then I suppose Bishop Cannon, being a teetotaler himself, has never been around much and is not really familiar with the worst evil of drink. Intemperance, of itself, may not be a bad thing. It is the effect of intemperance which makes countless thousands mourn, and the inevitable result of intemperance is the singing of "Sweet Adeline."

Another exhibit which I have in mind would require a hotel room as a setting. The room would be full of old grads of some college and the time would be the night before the big game of the season. One old grad would be a football player of the class of about 1909 and the return to his old surroundings and one thing and another would arouse in him a desire to recapture his youth and perform feats of strength.

An upholstered chair would be demolished by hand and thrown out the window in pieces in the first demonstration. In the second one, att mpting the giant swing from the chandelier with the footboard of the bed for a take off, our hero would pull the chandelier out by the roots and fall on his face. There would also be a skeleton reproduction of the play that won the big game in 1909 when men were men and not a lot of delicate sissies, and at 3:30 a. m. a city patrolman would appear at the door.

Enter the Law.

"Boys," the patrolman would say, "I'm going to have to ask you to take it a little easy. Some of the other guests want to get some sleep."

Several of the old grads would be

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 18.—When Charley Root has one of his masterful afternoons the other fellows must suffer accordingly. The right handed speed ball pitcher was in that mood today and the world champion Cardinals lost to the Cubs for the second straight time. The score was 3 to 1 and, while it may not mean anything in October, the Chicagoans can at least claim first place at this moment.

All that the titleholders could accomplish in their nine innings of swinging was a modest total of four hits. This was doubly distressing for the current kings of baseball because they got only two until the ninth. Then two successive batters came through safely and an instant later Billy Herman put the decision in jeopardy by blundering on what should have been a double play. But the double play was accomplished on the next batter, so Root lost a shut out but won the game.

Cards Use Three Pitchers.

Although not particularly bothersome with their bats, the Cubs had the pleasure of looking at three members of the Cards' pitching corps, one of the trio being the famous Dizzy Dean. Dean, like his predecessor, Sylvester Johnson, was as stingy as Root. The same luck, however, wasn't enjoyed by Flint Rhem, the starter, who had enough after six innings. Rhem was in trouble as early as the second inning when Vin Barton helped himself to a home run. Outside of this tap Rhem was quite a pitcher, barring the sixth, when extra base hits by Johnny Moore and Gabby Hartnett and some wild pitches made the verdict fairly safe for the Chicagoans.

Barton's homer, the first of the season by a member of the Cubs, was a robust effort which would have gone places in any park. He was the first to face Rhem and spurned one pitch before swinging. The ball whistled on a line to right center, went into the seats beyond the screen devised to eliminate cheap homers, and bounced back into the field. Moore followed with a single in the same direction but Hartnett filed to deep left, Grimm fouled to Adams, and Jurges died on a fly.

Root Treats 'Em Rough.

Cuyler did a good job of cooking up a kettle full of trouble for Rhem in the fourth but his mates didn't follow the idea. Ki doubled against the right field concrete. Barton's roller to Frisch let him travel to third. Moore was tossed out on a feeble tap to the pitcher and Adams made a one handed stop of Hartnett's grass cutter to end the inning. Ford's fumble on Grimm and a pass to Jurges furnished another opportunity in the fifth, but both Root and Hack fanned and Frisch threw out Herman.

There was nothing complicated about the way in which Root handled the champions during the early part of the game. The first man the Cardinals put on base was Bottomley, who walked to start the second. Infield popups by Collins and Martin and Mancuso's fly to Moore fixed that. The next Card to survive was Frisch. He singled to center with one out in the fourth. After Bottomley had fouled out, Frisch went to second on a passed ball, but Collins filed to Cuyler.

The Cubs had one rally halted by a double play in the sixth, but they simply started another and on this one registered their pair of runs. Cuyler pushed open the inning by beating out a single to deep short, but a moment later Barton bounced to Bottomley for a double play. Then Moore hit a two bagger against the screen in right and scored on a double by Hartnett against the left field wall.

A Hit! A Hit!

The latter smash was so close to the top of the barrier that the Cubs claimed a fan had knocked the ball back on the field, but Umpire Reardon couldn't be fooled. Rhem then got so tangled up that he perpetrated two wild pitches on which Hartnett went from second to third and third to home.

The Cardinals were rough with Root

NEW REELS, BAIT LURE FISHERS; PITY POOR TROUT!

Sportsmen's Show Today Offers the Latest.

BY BOB BECKER.

Fishing tackle manufacturers, confident that 10,000,000 fishermen will continue their sport this season and toss lures for their favorite game fish, have prepared the usual line of new lures and tricky gadgets that always give an angler a new thrill when he steps into a boat or wades into a trout stream armed with tackle.

We have looked over many of these 1932 innovations for the bait rod and fly caster. Begining this morning sportsmen in Chicagoland can see them at close range, as most of the tackle manufacturers of the country will have exhibits at the annual Sportsmen's show, which opens today in the Sherman hotel. The hours of the show are from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m. and the final day for the exhibits is Saturday.

Reels for Boys Shown.

Among the new gadgets for fishermen are a number of reels apparently designed for boys. Manufacturers have spent considerable time in their experimental departments to produce a serviceable reel at a low price so that youthful fishermen can add them to their outfits. Even the level winders are being produced at a remarkably low cost.

Among the new fishing lures designed to lead the 1932 "style parade" as indicating what the well behaved black bass, trout, and muskie ought to strike if he is to follow the mode, we saw a few days ago some trout flies made of badger hair. Although there are not many American animals that do not contribute parts of their "fur coats" to the fly manufacturers (the list runs from squirrels to deer), this was the first time that we ever saw trout flies made up of badger hair.

Besides many attractive items for the trout fisherman the 1932 list of new fishing equipment includes gayly painted plugs, metal single hook lures, muskie foolers, spinner and fly combinations, spoons, and many other things.

New Over-Under Shotgun.

We have a hunch that the new over and under shotgun manufactured in this country will attract a lot of sportsmen to the show. Heretofore American hunters who wanted to shoot over and under models bought them abroad at a stiff price. Now they will be made in this country and sold at a reasonable figure.

Saturday has been designated as Boy Scout day at the sportsman's show, according to an announcement made yesterday. Thousands of tickets have been issued to the Scouts of Chicago so that they may meet Chief Crazy Horse, the South Dakota Sioux Indian who participated in the Custer battle at Little Big Horn. Crazy Horse and several other Sioux Indians have been brought to Chicago for the show as a feature of the South Dakota exhibit.

MRS. VARE SHOOTS 74 FOR RECORD AT HOT SPRINGS, VA.

Hot Springs, Va., April 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare today shot a course record of 74 to win medalist honors in the qualifying round of the annual women's Old Dominion golf championship tournament. The former mark for women was 78, established last year by Helen Hicks, national champion.

Miss Diana Fishwick of England also held the old record of 78. It was Mrs. Vare's first tournament this year and the same course she won the national championship in 1928. She will compete in an international team match in England next month.

Chief Bender to Manage Erie in Central League

Erie, Pa., April 18.—(AP)—Charles A. (Chief) Bender, Indian baseball star of other days, has signed a contract to manage the Erie club of the Central league, it was announced tonight. Bender, who was a scout for the New York Giants last season, is expected here tomorrow. He was an ace on the hurling staff of Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics for many years.

In the Wake of the News

ALL-TIME CUBS.

JOHN McGRAW, veteran manager of the New York Giants, recently picked an all-time team of New York baseball players who had performed under his direction. Naturally, it aroused discussion, argument, and some criticism. That is to be expected when attempts are made to compare players of one generation with players of another generation under different conditions, no matter what the sport.

Helper W. V. Buckley evidently wishes to start such discussion among Cub followers when he selects a first and second all-time Cubs team named as follows [1905-1931]:

First.	Position.	Second.
Chance, mgr.	First base	Grimm
Evers	Second base	Hornsby
Tinker	Shortstop	Hollocher
Steinfeldt	Third base	Deal
Cuyler	Center field	Wilson
Schulte	Right field	Paskert
Hartnett	Catcher	Kling
Archer	Catcher	Moran, mgr.
Hofman	Utility	Adams
M. Brown	Pitcher	Reulbach
Alexander	Pitcher	Cheney
Root	Pitcher	Bush
Overall	Pitcher	Malone
Vaughn	Pitcher	Pfiester

In this selection you will note that six of seven players outside the batteries were members of the old Cub outfit under Peerless Leader Frank Chance which won the National league pennants of 1906-'07-'08, and the world's flags of 1907-'08. In naming Evers, Helper Buckley says:

"Choosing Evers over Hornsby at second base may cause considerable argument. Some will point out the vast difference in their batting averages, but it is my belief Evers would have batted quite a bit higher against the same pitching that Hornsby faced, viz., with the spitball, emery shiners, etc., eliminated. His wonderful fielding would offset the batting average superiority of Hornsby."

Please understand, readers, this selection is not that of The Wake. There are several positions where we might differ on the first team and more perhaps on the second team, but it's so good we publish it as a subject always interesting to baseball fans.

The Snapped Cord.

When grandpa ran the scale on an ear of golden corn
There was a treat in store for all who heard;
In a rain of golden butter he did gurgle, gasp and sputter,
But he never found the strength to say a word.
He did the do-re-mi with a technique
rich and true,
And skipped along by octaves racefully;
Then at times he'd trill and flutter as the drops of golden butter
Splashed the walls and ceiling gracefully.

For an encore grandpa grabbed a second ear of corn,
While all of us donned slickers butterproof;
And with flying start he scampered up the golden scale unhampered—
Just like a dash from cellar to the roof.
Then something snapped and he dropped
a devastated cob,
And nursed his neck while we were in a daze;
Though traveling along so spickly, grandpa reversed too quickly, While scaling on that second ear of maize.

SENATORS WHIP ATHLETICS, 15-7; HIT 3 HOMERS

Philadelphia, Pa., April 18.—(AP)—The Washington Senators today whipped the American league champion Athletics, 15 to 7. Four Philadelphia pitchers couldn't subdue the Senators, who hammered out 15 hits, three of them home runs with men on bases. They were produced by Heinie Manush, Sam West and Joe Judge, the last named driving his through the window of a house overlooking right field with such vigor that the housewife came tearing out to see what caused the crash.

Sox, 1931 Style, Commit Six Errors; Cleveland Wins, 2-1

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Vic Frasier yesterda, against Wes Ferrell and the Cleveland Indians proved himself about the lion-heartedest pitcher you'd want to encounter. All Vic did was go in against the great Ferrell out of turn and for eight innings maintain his sang froid despite six errors and a passed ball which his mates offered by way of encouragement. The score was 2 to 1 for Cleveland and both the Indians' runs were unearned.

The Sox struck their 1931 fielding stride in a highly consistent manner. Every member of the infield had at least one error and, as would be fitting on a day dedicated to errors, poor old Smead Jolley was unable to bend over for a ground ball. The winning run came in on a passed ball by Grube.

Only Five Hits Off Frasier.

The Indians made only five hits off Frasier, one fewer than the Browns made when they beat him last week in another one run decision contest. McKain pitched the ninth, allowing the other Indian hit.

The Sox made seven hits, and three of these were accomplished by Hal Anderson, who thereby doubled his previous total for the sea.on. Anderson also scored the run which saved the Sox from their second shutout of the season.

Frasier, of course, made no complaint about the sloppy Lacking he got from his mates. He's getting used to it. It will be recalled that he lost two games to the Cubs in the last city series by one run margins and his two one run reversals this season have borne many points of resemblance to those foldups.

As in his performance last Thursday, Frasier held the enemy scoreless for the first four innings. In that span he allowed only one hit, a single by Porter, second man up in the game.

Boys, Boys, Is This Nice?

Kamm started the fifth with a single to left and caught big Smead with a rail up his back. The ball also got through Anderson who sought to back up his large companion, but, of course, only one error was recorded on the play. Kamm reached second. Frasier responded to this distressing spectacle by striking out Myatt, but Montague singled to center, scoring Kamm. Ferrell singled to center and Montague went to third, but Burnett hit into a double play, Blue to Cissell to Blue.

In the sixth inning, Porter opened with a double to left and Averill was hit by a pitched ball. Morgan fouled to Watwood to put Porter on third. Averill holding first. Averill attempted to steal second, but after feinting Porter back to third, Grube threw to Hayes, who nagged Averill. Then came the passed ball which permitted Porter to score the winning run. Vosmik reached second on the first of Cissell's errors, but Selph threw out Kamm.

Jolley Drives in Run.

The Sox made their run in the sixth. After Frasier had fanned, Anderson knocked his third successive hit, a single to center, and went to third on Watwood's single to right. Jolley beat out a slow bouncer to Kamm. Anderson scoring and Watwood racing to third, but opportunity fled when Blue filed to Vosmik.

The only Sox to reach base after the sixth inning threat was Hayes, who scratched a single off Montague's glove with two out in the eighth.

The Indians didn't do much themselves after the sixth except to give the Sox a chance to kick the ball around some more. With two out in the seventh, Cissell took a kick at Ferrell's grounder for his second error.

Selph Joins Fumblers.

As the eighth started, Selph was the only infielder who hadn't mussed up a play, but he made the infield record complete when he fumbled Porter's grounder. Porter and Averill, however, forthwith sank in the Sox second double play.

McKain, who took over the pitching job in the ninth after Frasier had given way to pinchhitter Sullivan, seemed to have his old time stuff. Kamm singled to right and moved to second on Myatt's sacrifice, but Montague fanned and Ferrell popped to Hayes.

MISS HOLM WINS BACK STROKE, BUT MISSES RECORD

Indianapolis Girl, 13, Beats New York Star.

BY BETTY ECKERSALL.

Eleanor Holm, national back stroke champion of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, failed by six-tenths of a second to establish a new national standard in the 100 yard back stroke event in the invitational swimming meet last night at the Illinois Women's Athletic club.

Miss Holm's time was 1:11:8. Joan McSheehy, also of the New York team, was second and Elizabeth Henry of the home club was third.

Girl, 13, Wins Race.

Helen Lee Smith, 13 year old swimmer of the Indianapolis Athletic club, defeated Lisa Lindstrom, of the New York team in the 220 yard breast stroke. The time was 2:44:7. This is Helen's first year in big time competition. She is regarded as an Olympic prospect.

Mildred Green of the Jewish People's institute, touched in ahead of Ruth Dierolf of the Milwaukee Athletic club, in the 100 yard breast stroke swim. The race was close, with Miss Dierolf leading most of the way.

The New York relay team gave a beautiful exhibition in winning the 160 yard relay event. Eleanor Holm, Lisa Lindstrom, Joan McSheely and Catherine Ames composed the team.

BOWEN AND LANE CONTINUE TREK TO SEMI-FINALS

Parker Loses, 19-2; Tech Whips Schurz, 2-0.

Bowen and Lane Tech continued their marches to the semi final round in the Chicago Public High School league baseball race by winning yesterday. Bowen scored its third consecutive league victory by defeating Parker, 19 to 2, at Hamilton park, while Lane Tech won from Schurz, 2 to 0, at Logan Square park.

It was Lane Tech's second league triumph of the season. Lane pounded Eddie Berg, Schurz pitcher, for 11 hits, scoring one run in the second inning and one in the fourth.

Parker Uses Five Pitchers.

The Bowen-Parker contest was halted in the fifth inning because of darkness. The defending south section champions piled up 12 runs in the first three innings. Parker used five pitchers in the game, while Jimmy McKirchy and Dudek hurled for Bowen and held Parker to six hits.

In another south section game Fenger won its first league triumph by handing Calumet a 6 to 3 defeat at West Pullman park. Senn suffered its third north division defeat when it lost to Roosevelt, 5 to 3, at Winnemac park.

Englewood and Lindblom were victors in central section games. Englewood eked out a 4 to 3 win over Hyde Park at Hamilton park, while Lindblom scored a run in the ninth inning to defeat Phillips, 5 to 4, at Gage park. A single by Ralph Macek, driving in Frank Narbut, gave Lindblom victory.

Marshall Beats McKinley, 11 to 5.

With Art Settle allowing only five hits and striking out 12 batters, Marshall defeated McKinley, 11 to 5, for its first victory in the only west section game played. Sammy Herman, veteran Marshall second baseman, suffered a fractured collar bone when he collided with Leroy Haynes, McKinley pitcher, in the fifth inning.

Oak Park piled up an early lead to defeat Harrison, 9 to 1, in the second of the two game practice series at Oak Park's field.

REDS WHIP PIRATES, 5-0.

Cincinnati, O., April 18.—(AP)—Babe Herman's first homer of the season and inspired fielding gave Ray Kolp and the Cincinnati Reds a 5 to 0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates today. With the score 2 to 0 for the Reds in the eighth, Herman slammed the ball to the right field corner, sending home Manion and Gilbert before him. Score:

How I Got My Start in Baseball

BY WOODY ENGLISH.

[As Told to Irving Vaughan.]

WOODY ENGLISH.

St. Louis, Mo., April 18.—People are always reminding me what a young man I am to be going into my fifth season in the majors. What they don't know is that I had a flying start. I played ball in grammar school at Fredonia, O. I played five years with the Centerburg High school team, the extra year being explained by the fact that when I was in eighth grade the high school drafted me because it had nobody for shortstop. Then I was in industrial leagues, semi-pro circuits, and a few other things, all of these changes coming so rapidly that there were times when I actually was on two teams.

When I finished high school in the summer of 1923 I went into a tire plant at Newark, O., partly to work and partly to play with the factory team. That same summer an uncle of mine who was pitching for a semi-pro team in Rochester, Pa., took me down there to prove he had a "find." Whether he proved it right away I always doubted. Before that season closed I also was in a few games with Zanesville, O.

In 1924 I was at Newark, O., most of the time, making occasional appearances with Zanesville. I had gone pretty well the fall before at that place and the manager wanted to use me again, but Al Sweitzer, manager at Newark, wouldn't listen to the proposal. They finally fixed it up in a strange way. The Zanesville manager, Turk Riley, fitted out Sweitzer with a new suit and hat. Sweitzer then decided he could spare me whenever Zanesville needed help. I could have used a decent suit of clothes myself at the time, but nobody made any offers.

When the 1924 season was about over Sweitzer passed word along to Joe O'Brien, president of the Toledo American association team that I looked as if I might be worth grabbing. O'Brien took the hint and signed me to a contract before the 1925 race opened. For a while that summer O'Brien must have thought that his "tip" wasn't going to amount to anything. I had a hitting record of something like .220. But the next year Casey Stengel took over the Toledo management and with batting pointers provided by him I boosted my average to .301.

My understanding was that the Giants were going to take me because of some uncertainty about Travis Jackson's legs. Jackson recovered, so the Giants canceled the deal and the Cubs stepped in. I got $1,500 out of the purchase money, so when I reported to the Chicago club in the spring of 1927 I already thought I was rolling in wealth. It was the most money I ever had seen at one time.

Root Allows Only 4 Hits Cubs Win, 3-1

in their half of the sixth. They produced their second hit. This was a two base contribution by Ernie Orsatti, who batted for Rhem. Just to prove he couldn't be annoyed by such a happening Root set down the next three men without a flicker. In the next inning he gave up his second pass of the afternoon, the famous Pepper Martin being the recipient. Two were out and Mancuso followed with a popup.

The flareup which had the Cubs squirming for a few moments in the ninth started when Frisch singled after Watkins had been retired. Bottomley punched a single into center. Collins aimed a perfect double play bounder directly at Herman but the young man let the ball hop away and Frisch scored. Then Martin grounded to Jurges who speared the ball and tossed it to Herman, who in turn pegged it to Grimm to end the game.

White Sox Leave Tonight on Road Trip of 12 Games

The Sox leave tonight for a road trip which will engage them in four games series with the Browns, the Tigers and the Indians before they return for a three game series with the Tigers, after which they go east for such opposition as the Atlantic seaboard has to offer.

The Sox and the Indians will play the series final at Comiskey park this afternoon. Jones or Thomas will pitch against Willis Hudlin.

The Sox are conducting another noble experiment in the catching department. Willie Sullivan worked out in all the morning and early afternoon practice with a catcher's glove. Will's pap was a right smart catcher in his day, as you well know.

The crowd was about 3,000, which is surprising, since that northeast wind again was blowing a mile a minute through the center field opening to make a sucker out of the ambitious but futile sun.

Wes Ferrell only has 20 more wins to accomplish to tie his 1931 mark of 22. And while he's getting the 20 he can lose 13 and still equal his 1931 showing.

9 Clubs Join New Semi-Pro Baseball Loop

A merger of Chicago and Wisconsin semi-pro leagues to form a new Wisconsin-Illinois league was announced yesterday by directors of the organization.

The new league will comprise nine teams—three home clubs from the Chicago semi-pro circuit, three former members of the Wisconsin State league, and three traveling teams. They are the Logan Squares, Duffy Florals, Mills, Madison Blues, Milwaukee Red Sox, Sheboygan, Chicago Firemen, Colored All-Stars and Chicago Giants.

The nine teams rate as the best of their respective organizations. They will play a closed schedule, starting Sunday, May 8. Each team will have several open dates during the course of the season to meet outside opponents.

Further details of the new organization will be ratified next Monday night at Milwaukee, when the by-laws and schedule are to be adopted.

Teams in the newly formed league are now busy signing up some of the many minor league players available through the break up of various circuits.

Cubs Come Home Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 18.—The Cubs went home tonight, but their season debut at Wrigley field is not scheduled to occur until Wednesday with the rehabilitated Reds in the other half of the act. Hornsby will assemble his men tomorrow noon for the purpose of dealing out the new home uniforms.

Riggs Stephenson couldn't perform today. In dashing to first base on his second single yesterday he overexerted himself and this morning was in the hands of a slight case of charley horse.

The Cardinals also had an addition to their hospital list as the result of the Sunday conflict. Charley Gelbert, their regular short, injured his arm making a slide. Ford, an ex-Red, looked after Gelbert's duties until substituted for a pinch hitter.

After the game three innocent looking youths strolled up to the Cub dugout. Each snatched a bat off the pile and beat it for an exit across the field. One of the culprits was caught and brought back. A kick in the pants and a warning not to repeat the trick was his punishment.

After Frisch had singled in the fourth for the first hit off Root he started to steal second and Hartnett, as he drew back his arm to make the throw, let the ball fall from his grasp. Under a new wrinkle in the scoring rules Hartnett was charged with a passed ball and Frisch was not credited with a steal.

There must have been 3,200 present for this afternoon's affair. About a thousand members of the kid "knothole" gang were on hand to keep the park from looking totally deserted.

Bill Jurges can't be discouraged from roaming into foreign territory and stealing chances from his fellow fielders. In the seventh inning today he raced into short left center and captured a low fly for which both Moore and Cuyler were waiting.

HOLD FUNERAL SERVICES TODAY FOR COL. HOLDEN

Funeral services for Col. Clinton Grant Holden, manager of Olympia Fields Country club, will be held this afternoon at Kerr's chapel, Harvey, Ill. Interment will be Thursday at his boyhood home, Conneaut, O. Col. Holden, who was nearly 60 years old, died Sunday at the home of his physician, Dr. C. B. Alexander of Harvey.

An attack of pneumonia sent him to the hospital five months ago and when he did not recover he was moved to Dr. Alexander's home. Col. Holden, with one of the largest clubs in the world under his direction, was one of the most popular golf officials in the district and at the time of his death was president of the Chicago Club Managers' association.

5 ILLINI BOXERS ENTER LEGION STADIUM EVENT

Five students of the University of Illinois yesterday were entered in the American Legion intercollegiate boxing championships at the Chicago Stadium on May 6 and 7.

Four of this quintet hold campus championships. They are: Chris Chibucos, 147 pounds; Thomas P. Lynch, 160 pounds; Francis Fleischle, bantamweight, and George Bicanich, light heavyweight. The fifth member of the Illinois team is Jack Scully, a lightweight.

Illinois is the seventh university to name a squad for these championships, which will involve boxers from the central states.

Kilbourne's Future Is Up to Foe, Dave Shade.

Fight Decisions

At Boston, Mass.—Emile [Spider] Pladner won decision over George Astrow [10].
At New York—Frank Nekolny won decision over Jay Macedon [10].
At Syracuse, N. Y.—Bob Moody stopped K. O. Christener [6].

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Jack Kilbourne is going to have his fortune told Thursday night at White City. The whole affair is open to the public, at a price, and Dave Shade of New York, is going to do the telling.

Mique Malloy, whose corporate name is the Southtown Irish A. A. and who has made possible the glimpse into the future for young Kilbourne, is gradually approaching fever heat. Mique hasn't been so excited since the night he promised Jack Sharkey $100,000 to fight Primo Carnera and Sharkey said yes, only to reconsider at a later date.

Hopes for $4,000 Gate.

Financially Malloy believes Kilbourne and Shade will bring four thousand round dollars rolling into the vaults. From this the elderly Mr. Shade has been promised $1,000 and since all others on the program are signed for percentages, which run as low as one and a half, it does seem as if Mique might buy a new automobile or at least a few beers after it's all over.

Although Shade, who began his professional career in 1918, at a time when Kilbourne was presumably in the fifth grade of the Northbrook, Ia. consolidated schools, still bobs and jabs with enough resemblance to his best days that many believe he is the uncrowned middleweight champion of the world, Kilbourne is the card.

In Chicago bouts Kilbourne has outpointed Roy Williams and Harry Fuller, which the trades will admit isn't the first time either or both of these boys have run second. Then he stopped Ray Tramblie and a week ago added Haakon Hansen to his record in the same fashion. It's been quite a while since the gallery lads were praising the blond Haakon who followed Otto von Porat across the seas to America's gold mines.

Cleans Up in Australia.

Kilbourne did quite a lot of work down in Australia, winning the middleweight title and generally cleaning up the jack rabbit country. And when it is added that Shade in the course of his wanderings met and defeated Kilbourne the Kilbourne record is complete.

The converse is equally correct. Shade's 200 [or is it 400] fights won't keep him from getting a licking. He took one officially in Milwaukee last week although the verdict has been waved aside by Shade, who philosophically accepts the fact the visiting pugilist starts with a handicap when meeting the local pride. Nor is fourteen years' experience guarantee of continued success.

Kilbourne has a following. Many like the lean middleweight whose dangling arms so effectivel have held off the thrusts of the Fullers and the Hansens. Of course, they haven't found out whether Kilbourne can take a right smart body punch, but then, that's one of the excuses for Thursday's bout.

Hurry Up, Mr. Walker!

Mickey Walker, who fights King Levinsky at the Stadium, April 29, can't get to Chicago too soon for George Trafton, the more recent of the recent proprietors of the Randolph street gymnasium. Trafton, who nominally expects to make a bit of his rent from the quarters collected from the ring fans who will pay to see such stars as Walker in action, hasn't had any luck for some time. May 1 and another $450 payment is at hand for Trafton.

Headliners like Walker, of course, don't pay for the use of Mr. Trafton's punching bags or his showers. That is more than offset by the gate receipts. The other members of the gymnasium, who skip the rope and box with the idea that some day will be their day, receive these permissions for $5 a month.

A second match for the supporting card at the Stadium was announced yesterday by Matchmaker Nate Lewis. Tony Herrera, junior lightweight, will meet Ray Collins of Erie, Pa., who is long on punch but short on science. They will go three rounds.

Costas Vassis and Pat O'Brien meet in a supporting bout to the Frankie Battaglia-My Sullivan encounter at St. Paul tonight

IRA L. COUCH.

Twenty-five years is a long time for a young man less than thirty to be playing golf, and playing it well, but that's the record of Ira L. Couch of the Chicago Golf club, who is a one handicap player on the Chicago District Golf association's 1932 honor roll.

Ira had not yet reached the ripe old age of three before he was correcting his swing and developing his putting touch, and by the time he had reached his teens he was recognized as one of the best of the younger players at Glen View, where his father, Ira J. Couch, has played for years.

Ira won his share of tournaments in the district, but it was in 1923, at the age of 19, that he really demonstrated his talents. In that year, after three previous attempts to win the western junior championship, he won the title, 2 and 1, from Emerson Carey at Westmoreland. Incidentally, it was his last year of eligibility to compete in the western junior.

In later years, Ira has placed business above golf, so that he has not played in as many important tournaments as he might have. In 1930, however, he made the experts sit up and take notice again when he qualified for the match play bracket in the western amateur at Beverly and then went on to the final, where he ran into a Johnny Lehman, who was playing some of the best golf of his life, and lost out in the championship match, 4 and 2.

Ira won the C. D. G. A. championship in 1922. He attended Williams' college and has been a leading factor in the success of the North Shore league.

Cochran, Hall, Hoppe to Meet at 3-Cushions

Willie Hoppe, Welker Cochran and Allen Hall will meet in a three day three cushion billiard tournament which will open at Mussey's Wabash avenue billiard room tomorrow. Four games will be played daily, two in the afternoon and two at night, each game at 40 points. The schedule calls for eight games by each player.

In the last meting of these players, which was in a tournament that included Johnny Layton and Jay Bozeman, Cochran and Hall finished in a tie with five games won and three lost, while Hoppe was third with four won and four lost. Cochran won the play off.

Major White of Chicago moved into second place by defeating Al Miller of Racine, Wis., 100 to 43 in 14 innings in the pocket billiard tournament at the Woods billiard room, 154 North Dearborn street, yesterday. His high run was 28, Miller's 16. White now has won 3 out of 4.

Coy Julian of Springfield, Ill., defeated Charles Summerall of St. Louis, 100 to 86, in 23 innings. His high run was 32; Summerall's, 18. Summerall also lost to W. Pettifer of Chicago, 100 to 40 in 24 innings. Pettifer then lost to N. Poulos of Chicago, 100 to 59 in 18 innings.

Tom Fitzgibbon triumphed over John Moore, 50 to 36 in 65 innings in the three cushion tournament at the Kleckhefer recreation yesterday. His high run was 5 to Moore's 4. Len Kenney and Earl Lookabaugh are leading in the tournament with eight games won and one lost.

HARPER TO FACE BAUER FRIDAY ON FRONTON MAT

The signing of Paul Harper, Texas collegian, to meet Hans Bauer, Chicago German, completed the all-heavyweight wrestling card to be held Friday night at the Rainbo Fronton.

Three other Germans will appear. Hans Kampfer goes against Kols Kwariani in the main event, one fall with a 90 minute time limit; Hans Steinke combats Frank Bronowicz, New York Pole, and Milo Steinborn clashes with Pat O'Shocker, Salt Lake City Irishman.

The other match is between Steve Sznosky, former Holy Cross athlete, and Floyd Marshall.

SARATOGA TRACK CHIEF'S ESTATE IS $541,127

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Although at the time of the filing of his will shortly after his death on Dec. 29, 1929, at his home at 300 Park avenue, Richard T. His widow, Marion Steedman Wilson, receives the residue, and his daughters, Louisa Steedman Turnure and Marion Wilson, share it after her death. A $75,000 bequest to his secretary, Harlan G. Rubert, and $357 in personal effects to Mrs. Wilson are specific bequests.

Real estate was the principal asset.

Mr. K. T. Keller, president of Dodge Brothers Corporation

"You're RIGHT, MR. CHRYSLER!

We can and should invite the public to compare the Floating Power Ride with any other ride on wheels"

In announcing the new Plymouth, W P. Chrysler urged the public to look at all three lowest-priced cars. "In my opinion," he said, "any new car without Floating Power is out of date."

WALTER P. CHRYSLER—in announcing his new Plymouth—said, "Look at all three." That's sound. He's right.

In our price class, we issue the same challenge. Drive them all. Let the Dodge Six and Eight with Floating Power stand on their own merits. You be the judge.

We're arranging nation-wide facilities to give a Dodge Floating Power Ride to any person who would like to try it.

We are absolutely sincere when we say—"we want you to drive these new Dodge cars whether you expect to buy now or not."

We think Floating Power is something you will want to know about. We stand squarely behind Mr. Chrysler's statement that any new car without Floating Power is out of date.

Because all cars have always had some vibration, it is hard to imagine the startling sensation you get when vibration is completely removed.

You can have no idea what this new patented engine mounting does for a Dodge Six—or Dodge Eight—until you drive one.

Hundreds who have bought our new Dodge cars have expressed their praise in words so extravagant that we hesitate to repeat them.

When we have put as much into these beautiful, spirited cars as their owners say—when they can excite people the way they do—the cars themselves are their own best salesmen.

Take the wheel as our guest. You won't be pressed to buy. Fair enough?

SUSPEND SANDE THREE DAYS FOR BEATING BARRIER

Veteran Jockey Ignores First Warning.

New York, April 18.—[Special.]—Earl Sande, once America's leading jockey, who is staging a comeback, was suspended for three days by Starter George Cassidy today at the Jamaica race track for misbehavior at the post with Lullaby II. in the fourth race.

It was Sande's second mount of the day. In the first race he placed second with Gay Attire. Sande repeatedly ducked under the barrier while at the post with Gay Attire. Starter Cassidy informed him that if he repeated the tactics he would inflict a suspension.

Sande then came back in the fourth race with Lullaby II. Again he ducked under the barrier before it was sprung. The race finally started and Lullaby II. finished third. Starter Cassidy then announced that Sande was suspended for three days.

Sande, who again will ride in the Kentucky Derby this year, started his comeback last Saturday afternoon, when he was aboard Gaelic Prince in the opening day's program at the Jamaica track. He finished third.

Sweet Adeline Is Real Curse of Demon Rum

unconscious by now, anyway, and the patrolman, being a diplomat and a good fellow, would take off his coat, belt and small arms and join the survivors in a drink. The patrolman would then turn out to be a fairly good catch-weight tenor, himself, and pretty soon he would shut his eyes, dreamily, and emit a thin, screaming note, "Swee-ee-eet Ad-o-line."

Bishop Cannon could go on to give the people "Sweet Adeline" at the Kentucky Derby, "Sweet Adeline" at the world series, "Sweet Adeline" at the annual convention of the National Association of Button, Badge and Banner manufacturers. I have even heard it from undertakers in convention assembled, and I wish to state that if Bishop Cannon wants to depict the curse of drink he is going the wrong way about it when he portrays the cozy, quiet, old-fashioned saloon. "Sweet Adeline" is the curse of drink.

BRADLEY NAMES BROTHER JOE AS HIS DERBY HOPE

BY FRENCH LANE.

A friend of Col. Edward R. Bradley asked the owner of Idle Hour farm a few days ago if it would be advisable to have a $20 bet on Mr. Bradley's Burgoo King to win the Derby.

"Don't do it," Col. Bradley is reported to have advised his friends. "It is doubtful if Burgoo King even starts," Bradley added.

"If you must bet on one of my horses in the Derby, I think Brother Joe has somewhat of a chance," Bradley added.

Paul Bunyan is coming back to the races. The winner of the Dixie Handicap in Maryland and of numerous stake races at winter tracks has put in the winter at the farm of his owner, L. M. Severson, near Chicago.

For a time late last season it looked like Paul Bunyan's racing days were over. But a winter of galloping up and down the rolling country west and north of Chicago has put him back into condition and he may make his bow to a racing crowd during the Aurora spring meeting.

The racing silks of the late Joe Leiter, Chicago capitalist and sportsman, are to be seen no more on the American turf.

For a time it was believed that Thomas Leiter, son of the late financier, would carry on with the 50 odd horses which his father had purchased during the last few years for a reported price of $500,000.

But young Leiter announced last night that every thoroughbred in the stable will be auctioned off in the paddock at the Churchill Downs track in Louisville probably during the week of May 7, which is Derby week.

There are 25 two years olds in the establishment, a number which have given promise of developing into stars. The best known of the other horses are the 3 year olds Princess Camelia and Prince Hotspur, the latter an eligible to the Derby, and the 4 year old Prince D'Amour.

The contract which Leiter held on Jockey Eugene James, one of the best young riders in America, will also be transferred to another owner.

The consistent sprinter Malola has arrived at Sportsmen's park and is reported to be scorching the new running strip whenever he steps out for a training gallop.

Turf folks who expect to race in Chicago this year—the jockeys, trainers, owners, etc.—were a bit nervous last night as the members of the Illinois Turf association license committee prepared to hold its annual session today.

The meeting will be held in the Congress Bank building at Congress street and Wabash avenue.

INVESTORS GET BIT OF COMFORT IN TWO REPORTS

Edison, Gas Profits Hold Up Well.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Whatever may be the fate of the big Insull holding and investment companies, Middle West Utilities, Insull Utility Investments and Corporation Securities, there is no gainsaying that business and earnings of the three big Chicago operating companies are holding up remarkably well. There may be little comfort in this to the many thousands of persons who have lost several hundred million dollars through the financial and speculative pyramid erected by Samuel Insull, yet it is reassuring to other thousands of investors.

Both the Commonwealth Edison and Peoples Gas Light & Coke companies issued quarterly reports yesterday and both showed ample earnings to cover dividends. It is not possible to say whether the present annual returns of $8 will be continues by these companies, for this is a matter for their directors to decide as the future dictates. But the reports do show that depression has not unduly lessened the earning power of these great public utilities. And it is safe to say that any part of earnings hereafter will not be used for at least semi-speculative purposes.

Expenses Reduced.

The Commonwealth Edison company reported total operating revenue for the three months ended March 31 at $20,689,870, compared with $21,-889,260 for the same period last year, a decrease of $1,199,390, or 5.4 per cent. But expenses were reduced in larger ratio, with the result that net income was $5,129,366, compared with $5,227,388, a decrease of only $98,022, or 1.8 per cent. Thus, net income for the first three months of this year was equivalent to $2.97 a share on 1,726,362 capital shares, which amply covered the quarterly dividend of $2 a share. Net income a year ago was equivalent to $3.42 a share on 1,527,-186 shares. Furthermore, relative constancy in earnings is shown by the year to year comparison. For the twelve months ended March 31 gross revenues were $79,351,773 and net income was $16,224,519, compared with $83,070,880 and $16,509,110, respectively, in the preceding twelve months.

An equally good showing was made by Peoples Gas. Gross operating revenue for the first quarter of this year was $9,602,939, compared with $9,924,-943 a year before, a decrease of only $322,004, while net income was $1,692,-802, compared with $1,772,339, a decline of only $79,537. Net income for the March quarter was equivalent to $2.37 a share on 714,393 capital shares, compared with $2.65 a share earned on 666,903 shares a year before.

Net Average Improves.

For the twelve months ended March 31, gross revenue was $36,576,766 and net income was $7,482,045, compared with $39,067,355 and $7,200,685, respectively, in the preceding twelve months. It will be seen that net income actually improved.

"Household use of gas service tends to increase in times of economic stress because the cost is so low in proportion to its usefulness," Mr. Insull says in the report.

BANKRUPTCY SUIT

The troubles of the Insull holding and investment companies brought further court actions yesterday. An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the United States District court against the Corporation Securities company of Chicago, which was placed in receivership last Friday. The petition was filed on behalf of three Chicago noteholders with claims of $16,000 by Kennedy, Stein and Bachrach, attorneys. Debts in excess of $50,000,000 and preference payments to creditors were alleged. Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley approved bonds of Patrick J. Lucey and Raymond F. McNally, who were appointed equity receivers for the company.

The receivers for the Middle West Utilities company, who are E. N. Hurley, Charles A. McCulloch, and Samuel Insull, began taking inventory and examining the affairs of the company yesterday. Hurley and McCulloch set up offices in the Civic Opera building, where Mr. Insull already had an office. The three men also were appointed ancillary receivers by Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey in the New York district. Judge Caffey announced a meeting of Middle West Utilities creditors and stockholders will be held on May 19 in New York to discuss the equity receivership.

Othe Nowland of Wilmington, Del., and Eugene V. R. Thayer of Chicago were appointed ancillary receivers for the Mississippi Valley Utilities Investment company in the United States District court in Wilmington yesterday. The First National Bank of Chicago, as assignee for the Foreman State National bank, hah filed the petition, saying the company owed the bank $1,050,000 and interest. John Biggs Jr., as counsel for the company, agreed to the appointment of the receivers.

Ex-Minister at 48 Steps Into Grain Job

BY SCRUTATOR.

The story of Clarence Elmer Huff is the story of a man who lived in comparative obscurity as a Kansas small town pastor until he was nearly fifty and then a series of quick political elevations maneuvered to the presidency of a $20,000,000 grain marketing corporation conceived and financed by the federal farm board.

Huff was pastor of the Christian church of Oronoque, Kas., at the age of 45. At 46 he was elected national president of the Farmers' Educational and Coöperative union, usually referred to as the "farmers' union." At 48 the farm board made him president of its Farmers' National Grain corporation. And at 50 as president of the latter corporation he has just broadcast his demand that the secretary of agriculture abolish the Chicago Board of Trade.

That is the remarkable story of the rise to political affluence of the Rev. Mr. Clarence Elmer Huff, a local boy who got into the headlines in a big way and in five years raised his income from the salary of a minister in Oronoque to $1,250 per month as head of the big farm board corporation.

Steps in Advance.

Various offices in the state and national farmers' union were stepping stones in this rise, the most important being the presidency of the national union to which Mr. Huff was elected in 1928.

Clarence Elmer Huff was born Nov. 10, 1882. After attending Kansas Christian college at Lincoln, Kas., he was ordained in 1905 and was pastor of the Christian church of Oronoque until 1927. In the meantime he had served as postmaster of Oronoque, as manager of the Farmers' Coöperative Business association of Oronoque, and from 1924 to 1927 he had been vice president of the farmers' union state organization in Kansas.

He was elected national president of the farmers' union in 1928 and held that office for two years. As head of that group he was called to Chicago by the farm board in July, 1929, to attend the meeting held to develop plans for the board's grain sales cooperative, and was named chairman of the farmers' committee to draft articles of incorporation for the Farmers' National Grain corporation.

Cold to Farm Board.

The farmers' union element had never gone along with the American Farm Bureau federation and was cold toward the farm board setup. Huff, being president ofthe union, was in a position to be useful to the farm board in getting members of the union to go along by promising favors and jobs.

S. J. Cottington of Stanhope, Ia., was made president of the Farmers' National and Huff became vice president. Huff's new job necessitated his frequent appearances in company with Sam Thompson, then president of the American Farm Bureau federation and later member of the federal farm board. To Huff's former collageus in the farmers' union this indicated secret sessions with the enemy and he lost their support.

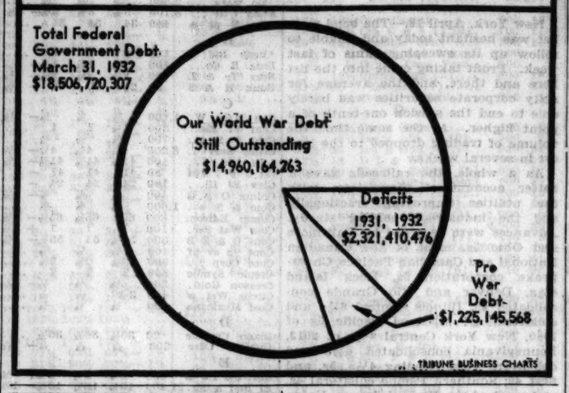

But Mr. Huff apparently did not suffer from lack of his former supporting strength. After the Maltby and Kellogg disclosures had thrown the aroma of scandal around the farm board's grain corporations and Kellogg had resigned, George S. Milnor in the spring of 1930 became president of the Grain Stabilization corporation and general manager of the Farmers' National. Huff was elected president of the Farmers' National, which office he still holds together with the secretaryship of the Grain Stabilization corporation.

Farm Board Veto.

The Farmers' National is nominally a farmer controlled cooperative, but the by-laws provide that its actions are subject to veto by the farm board as long as the corporation owes the board money. In February of this year the Farmers' National owed the board $16,000,000.

Mr. Huff's demand on April 18 that Secretary Hyde abolish the Chicago Board of Trade followed the board of trade clearing corporation's refusal to admit Mr. Huff's National Grain corporation to membership. Board of trade officials have replied by stating that board by-laws automaticaly bar all corporations from membership on the theory that in the event of failure the liability of the officers and shareholders would be limited, whereas in simple partnerships all partners would be fully liable.

The National Debt and When It Arose

TAMPA WILL ASK ITS BONDHOLDERS FOR EXTENSION OF TIME

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 18.—The City of Tampa, Fla., which has never failed to meet its debt obligations, has decided to take steps to preserve its record by asking the holders of various issues of its bonds which will mature from July 1, 1932, to Dec. 31, 1935, to exchange their holdings for bonds with longer maturities and bearing higher rates of interest. The amount of bonds involved is $2,501,-000. Water bonds and refunding obligations are not included in the offer.

"This refunding is necessitated principally because of a law passed by the Florida legislature and approved by the voters of Tampa in November, 1931," according to a statement issued by the city today through B. J. Van Ingen & Co., Inc., who have been appointed fiscal agents to handle the transaction. "These assessments were formally payable in ten annual installments and are now payable in twenty installments, and the city is required, upon demand, to reimburse those property owners who have made payments in excess of the amounts due under the twenty payment plan or to credit the excess against future installments when due."

The rates of interest on the bonds to be refunded are 4½, 4¾ and 5 per cent, and under the refunding plan these will all be increased by ½ of 1 per cent.

Federal Reserve Renews Its Share of Austrian Credit

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 18.—The Federal Reserve bank has again renewed its share in the credit granted the Austrian National bank last, and which had been renewed several times previously. This was learned today. The credit is shared abong the reserve banks, the Bank for International Settlements, the Bank of France and the Bank of England. It amounts to $12,-645,000 for all four central banks. It is supposed that each national central bank has a fourth interest in the total.

GERMAN GROUP TO TRY BARTER IN WORLD TRADE

Bremen Merchants Are Leading in Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 18.—To help revive world trade, an "international company for clearing goods" was founded at Bremen today through the private initiative of business men headed by Gustav Scipio, the president of the Bremen Chamber of Commerce.

"In thirty-three countries of the world trade is hampered by money restrictions," Scipio declared. "The network of monetary decrees is about to stifle trade. We have decided to create a clearing house to organize a regular barter of goods and eliminate money from transactions."

Has $250,000 as Capital.

Prominent German business men, including Director Glaessel of the North German Lloyd line, are on the board of directors of the company. It has a capital of $250,000,000. It has been joined by 100 firms within a few days with more firms trying to come into the combine.

The company is now making a canvass of German exporters and foreign firms which heretofore sold raw materials and goods to Germany. The scheme is for importer and exporter to swap their goods, thus eliminating money from the transactions.

The organizers of the company realize that this can be only a makeshift arrangement. In view of the continual decrease of the Reichsbank's foreign currency reserve, however, they are seeking to keep trade alive by substituting goods for foreign currency wherever possible.

Worried by Tariff Walls.

The Reichsbank report published today shows that the gold reserve dropped to $204,000,000 and its foreign currency reserve to $35,000,000, a total drop of close to $8,000,000 in ten days. With foreign currency coming in only very slowly through the restricted sales of German goods abroad, hampered by tariff walls and money restrictions, business men are worried.

They point out that foreign currency coming into the country is scarcely sufficient to pay interest on the amortization of foreign loans despite the fact that payments have been reduced through the international "standstill" agreement.

The year's interest on the Dawes loan and Young loan aggregate $43,-000,000. America is scheduled to receive close to $37,000,000 in the second quarter of this year on money lent to Germany. Business men believe that by placing part of their international trade on a barter basis, they will help the nation save cash to pay its debts to America and others.

STEEL LEADERS TALK FURTHER SALARY CUTTING

Plants Run Now at 20% of Capacity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 18.—Further retrenchment of American industry by way of wage cuts, dividend reductions and operating economies lie ahead in the near future.

This was the substance of views expressed by the officers and directors of the United States Steel corporation at the annual meeting held today in Hoboken, N. J.

In adopting the last dividend of 50 cents a share quarterly, Myron C. Taylor, then chairman of the finance committee and now chairman of the board of directors, warned that continued reduction of earnings would result in further reduction or even omission of the dividend.

Mr. Taylor today told stockholders, who protested against actions of the directors for the first time in many years, that operations of the company were only at 20 per cent of capacity, and "it is obvious that operations cannot be profitable at 20 per cent of capacity."

Hints Further Pay Cut.

This distinct warning concerning the dividend policy was coupled with a hint that present conditions probably dictated a further reduction in the wage and salary schedules of the company.

"Salaries and wages were lowered last autumn. All were cut a minimum of 10 per cent," said Mr. Taylor. "The question of wages is a vital one to industry. In respect to it, as in respect to dividends, we have approached it with genuine reluctance and with the hope that no change would be necessary. It was considered last autumn and we were convinced that a change was necessary and acted accordingly.

"Those who study these questions of industry have varying views on these subjects. In view of the con-

Bankers' Bill Decline Shows Credit Drop

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 18.—The American acceptance council reported today that the total volume of bankers' acceptances outstanding on March 31 was $911,290,174, a reduction of $8,101,166 from that on Feb. 29.

Compared with the figures for the end of March, 1931, the current report shows a reduction in one year of $555,-445,789, or more than the total volume that was outstanding in 1927.

Credits Drop in March.

"In a year of normal business activity a loss in volume of $8,000,000 for March would be a reasonable expectation," writes Robert H. Bean, executive secretary. "Fall and winter credits mature in this period and the time for any new seasonable demand, if any is to come, has not yet arrived.

"Trade of all kinds is still on the decline and the demand on banks for credit accommodation grows less each month, which simply means that the volume of new bills created does not exceed or even match the volume of bills that are daily maturing.

"The steady reduction in the volume of outstanding bills has made it difficult for the bill dealers, particularly as so large a volume of bills has been purchased by banks, especially in New York, that do not need to resell to the market because of their generally easy liquid condition.

Hold Their Own.

"At the end of March accepting banks alone held of their own and others' bills $377,000,000, or 41 per cent of the total, against $342,000,000, or 37 per cent, at the end of the previous month.

"Of the total of $377,000,000 held by accepting banks, $298,000,000 was held by banks of the Second Federal Reserve district, principally in New York."

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 18.—Liquidation was resumed as the new week got under way on the stock exchange. Selling was persistent in such favorites as American Telephone, American Can, United States Steel, and Eastman Kodak. A flock of them dropped to new lows for the bear market. A number of investment pets, including Western Union, International Business Machines, Air Reduction, and Allied Chemical were acutely weak.

The annual meeting of United States Steel stockholders in Hoboken proved a fresh stumbling block to the market, disillusioning many who have been holding out in the hope of a dividend on the common stock when the directors meet next week, in spite of accumulating evidence of the corporation's declining business. The renewed senate inquiry into short selling received scant attention, and such items of trade news as came to light during the day were negligible as market factors.

Big Selling of A. T. & T.

American Telephone monopolized the ticker tape much of the time. Few of the sales were large, but they came out with monotonous frequency all day long. The attack began on a sale of 4,000 shares at 1½ points lower and

LASALLE AT ADAMS

FLAT SALE SET FOR MAY 10TH IN EVANSTON

Property to Be Bid In by Committee.

If you have a defaulted real estate bond and haven't been able to get the desired information regarding it from the bondholders' protective committee or from other sources, The Tribune may be of assistance to you. Write to "The Tribune Real Estate Bond Service, Chicago Tribune." Don't ask for information regarding more than one issue at a time. Give name of underwriter and full title of the bond. Inquiries must be accompanied by a stamped, self-addressed envelope for personal reply.

Bondholders in the 800 Michigan avenue building, at Evanston, were mailed notices last night that decree has been entered in the foreclosure proceedings and that on May 10 the property will be offered for sale to the highest bidder. According to T. E. Williams, secretary of the bondholders' protective committee, that body will endeavor to bid in the property for the benefit of the owners of the bonds who have deposited their securities. These deposited bonds will be used as part payment of the purchase price.

H. E. DEVEREAUX. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mr. Williams also stated that although almost all of the bonds had been deposited with the Chicago Title and Trust company, a few still are outstanding and that the time for deposit for these had been extended to May 3, 1932. That is the last day on which the committee will accept deposit.

Will Borrow $35,000.

The committee will borrow approximately $35,000 to cover expenses of reorganization. The notice to the bondholders lists some of these expenses. For instance, the "depositary and committee's fees and reorganization expenses" are given as approximately $13,000. Taxes for 1929, 1930 and 1931 amount to $8,650. Foreclosure costs were $6,100. Reserves for rehabilitation of property and contingencies were $6,500. Clearing title cost $7,500.

H. D. Pettibone is chairman of the bondholders' protective committee. The other members are: H. E. Devereaux, Frederick J. Stebbins, W. J. McGuire, Harold M. O'Brien, N. H. Dosker, G. L. Hughes and C. A. Mueller. Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin are attorneys. The original issue of Equitable Bond and Mortgage company bonds was $300,000, with $235,000 outstanding. The building is a three story structure containing forty-one apartments.

Pearson-Seneca Building.

The bondholders' protective committee of the Pearson-Seneca building, at 210 East Pearson street, is conducting negotiations with the owners of the equity and the holders of junior securities with a view of acquiring all interests for the benefit of the bondholders, it was announced last night. The foreclosure proceeding has been referred to Master in Chancery Sidney Pollack for hearing.

This is an issue of the Metropolitan Securities corporation and was originally $950,000. This has been reduced to $932,500. It is secured by a sixteen story building now being operated by the Cochran and McCluer company. The Chicago Title and Trust company is receiver. The occupancy is now 90%. The gross receipts from June 1, 1931 to Feb. 29, 1932 were $76,429. Operating expenses were $29,554. Net receipts were $46,875.

COTTON WEAK AND LOWER

Declining grain and stock markets combined with lower Liverpool cables, a net loss of 9 to 10 points, brought realizing sales and lower prices for cotton futures in all markets. There appeared to be a little support by profit taking shorts.

Highest prices were made at the opening and the lowest at the close, with net losses on futures in Chicago of 1 to 6 points, with other markets off 5 to 9 points. Spots in New Orleans were off 5 points at 6.10c, the same as Houston. New York lost 5 points at 6.15c, with Galveston 6.15c.

First notice day on May contracts at Chicago will be April 26, and trading in May contracts will cease at noon May 24. Rains were reported over a large part of the belt and are favorable for the crop.

Continued reports of decreased acreage are given special attention, with estimates of 5 to 10 per cent reduction from last year, but they failed to bring any buying orders; but trade buying is not of sufficient volume to absorb the offerings by liquidators and short sellers. The present belief is that there will be sufficient cotton raised for all requirements. Prices follow:

BONDS HESITANT AS VOLUME OF TRADING DROPS

British Buy to Steady Sterling, Report.

New York, April 18.—The bond market was hesitant today and unable to follow up its sweeping gains of last week. Profit taking came into the list here and there, and the average for sixty corporate securities was barely able to end the session one-tenth of a point higher. At the same time the volume of trading dropped to the lowest in several weeks.

As a whole, the railroads gave a better account of themselves, with the utilities improving fractionally and the industrials holding steady. Advances were recorded by Baltimore and Ohio 5s, most of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacifics, Chesapeake corporation 5s, Rock Island 4½s, Denver and Rio Grande consolidated 4s, Illinois Central 6½s and collateral 4s, Missouri Pacific 5s of 1980, New York Central 4½s of 2013, Pennsylvania consolidated 4½s and debenture 4½s, Reading 4½s, 5s, and first 4s; Southern Pacific collateral 4s, and most of the Wabash issues. Union Pacific liens were soft, as were some of those of Frisco, New Haven, Northern Pacific, and Southern.

Telephones Sag.

American Telephone bonds sagged in sympathy with the company's stock, but International Telephones gained moderately. Strength was shown by liens of Columbia Gas, Detroit Edison, Laclede Gas and Utah Power & Light. Loans of International Match were under pressure, again sinking to new lows for the year. Those of Kreuger & Toll were slightly lower.

Great Britain & Ireland 5½ per cent bonds of 1937, the most important British bond issue listed in the New York market, established a new high price for the year in moderately active buying.

Strength of British Government bonds has been a feature of the market during the past two weeks. The British 5½ per cents sold as low as $840 per $1,000 until on Sept. 21, 1931, when England was forced off the gold standard. They moved up to their $1,000 par last week and in early trading today went to a new high price above last week's top figure of $1,007.50.

Hear British Buy Bonds.

Recent buying of the 5½ per cents has given rise to reports that the British government is buying its own bonds here as a part of its effort to keep the pound sterling on a steady price basis around $3.75 to $3.80. While American bankers who ordinarily handle the British government's operations in this market declined today to make any comment, it was widely believed in Wall Street banking circles that the British government was an active buyer.

CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO EARNS 62C A SHARE IN FIRST QUARTER

New York, April 18.—(AP)—Chesapeake and Ohio railroad today reported first quarter net income of $4,750,346, equal to 62 cents a common share, against $5,016,484, or 65 cents on the common, in the first quarter of 1931. The road's net railway operating income in March showed a gain of about $500,000 over a year ago, totalling $2,866,022 compared with $2,366,291.

The Guaranty Trust company of New York as trustee of the Chesapeake corporation collateral trust 5 per cent bonds, continued the largest holder of Chesapeake and Ohio railway common stock at the end of 1931, with 2,449,300 shares. The remainder of the stock owned by Chesapeake corporation is held in the name of nominee included in the list of 20 largest holders. George F. Baker Jr., is listed as a holder of 83,828 shares.

Alton Seeks Federal Loan.

Washington, D. C., April 18.—(AP)—The Alton Railroad company today asked the interstate commerce commission to approve a three year loan of $2,500,000 from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. The money is to be used to pay receivers' certificates, demand notes, taxes and equipment obligations.

Another Road Reports.

Cincinnati, O., April 18.—(AP)—Operating revenue of $2,046,108 in 1931 was reported today in the fiftieth annual report of the Cincinnati, New Orleans and Texas Railway company. Total operating revenues were $14,388,299 as against $18,041,949 in 1930. Operating expenses were $11,550,825 as against $13,384,156.

Bright Spots in the Day's News

R. Cooper Jr., Inc., in a meeting at the Medinah Athletic club, announced a new advertising and sales promotion campaign involving over $500,000. The General Electric company is offering a four year service plan for their refrigerators instead of the previous three year guarantee. This relieves the customer from the obligation of repair service for four years from date of purchase.

March business of Schulte Retail Stores, Inc., was approximately even with March last year, according to a leter from D. A. Schulte, president, read at the annual meeting of stockholders yesterday. In March that company had 296 stores, an increase of 4 over a year ago.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, April 18—(AP)At easing prices some business was moving in finished and unfinished cotton goods today. Rayon buying was quiet. Burlaps showed no change. Moderate purchases of silks are being made. Better weather stirred up a little more activity in garments of wool. Detail trade was a little better.

RAIDING BEARS BRING NEW LOWS TO WALL STREET

U. S. Steel and A. T. & T. Are Among Them.

continued steadily downward until it bumped 100, the lowest price at which it has sold since 1921.

As the stock gradually neared the 100 mark in the afternoon brokers found amusement in making bets on whether it would "break through." Several sales were made at that level, but the closing one found it still in the so-called "Century club," the last but one of the old line of aristocrats, now fallen from their high estate.

Homestake Mining still had some 17 points to spare on the fact of today's closing transaction, and its followers expressed little fear of its capitulation. However, it lost nearly 4 points on today's dealings, and as the simplest process in arithmetic will show, it would not take many more such days to make an "also ran" out of it.

Steel Hits 31¼ Mark.

Steel, of course, had to pay the freight on the Hoboken meeting. It hit 31¼, which compares with its 1931 high of 152⅝, recorded around this time last year. Other steel issues were weak, in sympathy with the leader.

Railroad shares put up a good front in the earlier dealings, profiting by two good earnings reports for March and the help given them by the interstate commerce commission in pressing for bus and truck legislation. For a time it looked as though the buying in this section might lead to a resumption of last week's rally. The discontent caused by other developments, however, was too obstinate and the finish found the carriers mired with other market unfortunates.

American Zinc Higher.

Preferred issues did a little better than usual. American Zinc rose 5 points and Steel preferred held fairly steady, in spite of the fresh collapse of the common.

Utility shares, as a group, also offered better resistance. Peoples Gas closed fractionally lower, after running ahead some 3 points in the early dealings, and such issues as American and Foreign Power, Consolidated Gas, Electric Power and Light, Public Service New Jersey, and Standard Gas finished unchanged to off some 2 points.

STEEL LEADERS TALK FURTHER CUT IN SALARY

ditions existing, the facts must be faced. We all like to hear happy reports of high operations, increased earnings and large buying power of the mill worker. But these are lacking now. A prophecy for the future is quite out of order.

"We have the utmost confidence in America and its institutions, of which this is one, and anything short of having confidence in these at the present moment of distress would be treasonable."

In discussing present day conditions, Mr. Taylor said conditions here are acute and world-wide in character.

Promises Close Study.

"It has been and is our desire and contention to study conditions closely, defining policy of the corporation in light of the known facts that wherever the course may lead, we may safely emerge from it and preserve not the shadow of a great structure, but the structure itself," he said.

The book value of net current assets of corporation as of Dec. 31, last, totaled $460,422,277, according to Mr. Taylor. That represents working capital of the corporation, and must be preserved for the safety of U. S. Steel. On the same date the bonded debt and the preferred stock outstanding totaled $459,168,000, or more than $1,000,000 less than the book value of the net current assets. The book value of property has not changed since Dec. 31 last, he said.

Cites Common Stock Value.

"Our common stock at the April 15 closing price had an open market value of $300,262,000, which represented the value placed on the assets I have mentioned," said Taylor.

Protests of minority stockholders against the dividend policy, which on Jan. 26 brought the reduction of the rate to a $2 annual basis, against $4 in the two previous quarters, were overruled.

Mr. Taylor declared in answer to the protesting voices:

"The first duty of directors is to keep the corporation so strongly intrenched in liquid position that it cannot come to any difficulty."

Charles A. Roberts, an attorney, led the dissenting opinion and declared that minority holders felt the dividend had been more than earned in 1931. Mr. Taylor, however, said the deficit for last year was $6,303,519, against dividend payments of around $62,000,000. The impairment to liquid assets in 1931 totaled $76,939,217.

Questioned about bonuses paid to officers last year, Mr. Taylor said that "no officer of the steel corporation in 1931 received a bonus."

The questioning then swung to the pension policy of the company and it was announced that this had been under discussion by directors but no action had as yet been taken.

Large Holdings Reduced.

In contrast with their action during the two preceding years, many of the largest stockholders of the United States Steel corporation, the most of whom are officers or directors, cut down their holdings during the last year. That was disclosed at the meeting.

Holdings of the late George F. Baker, amounting to 90,000 shares in 1930, compared with 76,000 in 1929, were reduced to 70,000 shares in the latest report. A year ago the George F. Baker holdings amounted to 87,000 shares of common and 200 shares of preferred.

The estate holdings of the late Mr. Baker are now divided into 40,000 shares held in the name of G. F. Baker, 2 Wall street, and 30,000 in the name of George F. Baker Jr., executor. Mr. Baker Jr. also cut his common holdings last year to 17,421 shares, a decrease of 3,000.

James A. Farrell, who retired as president today, liquidated both common and preferred stock of the corporation during the last year, his present common holdings totaling 158 common, against 473 a year ago, and 4,500 shares of preferred, compared with 4,850 in 1931.

Taylor Retains Status.

Chairman Taylor retained his position as the second largest stockholder although he reduced his common holdings from 27,822 in 1921 to 21,322 shares, a decrease of 6,500 shares. In 1930 Mr. Taylor's common stock holdings aggregated 32,536, while in 1929 his holdings totaled 30,001 shares.

William A. Irvin, who succeeds Mr. Farrell as president, is listed as the owner of 927 common shares and 86 shares of preferred.

J. P. Morgan slightly increased his common stock holdings during the year and is now listed as a holder of 1,441 common shares, against 1,261 in the last three years, but has disposed of the 105 preferred shares appearing in the 1931 list.

Better at Birmingham.

Birmingham, Ala., April 18.—(AP)—Several thousand steel workers were back at work today in the mills of Birmingham, Pittsburgh, and Youngstown, O. After a layoff of several weeks, more than 1,000 men returned to the five open hearth furnaces of the Tennessee Coal, Iron, and Railroad company at Ensley. Here and at Youngstown more mills plan to resume operations later in the week. By the end of the week ingot production in this district is expected to be at 48 per cent of capacity. A sharp rise in mill operations resulted in the return of hundreds of steel workers to Youngstown mills.

FOX FILM GROUP LOSES CONTROL OF ROXY THEATERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 18.—Fox film interests were voted out of control of the Roxy Theaters corporation today. Class A stockholders, as a result of the omission of their dividend, assumed control of the board of directors.

Harley L. Clarke, chairman of the Fox Film corporation, retired as president and a director and S. R. Burns and W. C. Michel, both associated with Fox, retired from the Roxy board, H. G. Kosch has been elected president and a director of Roxy. Eight new directors were chosen and five former ones were reëlected.

For the first time since S. L. Rothafel [Roxy] sold controlling common stock interest to Fox interests two weeks after its opening in 1927, the theater, one of the largest motion picture houses in the world, will operate as a separate legal entity.

MILDEST WINTER SINCE 1868 HITS BIG COAL CARRIER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 18.—Revenues of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad from the movement of anthracite decreased from $17,386,261 in 1930 to $13,948,016 in 1931, or by 11.7 per cent, according to the annual report of J. M. Davis, president.

Mr. Davis said the drop could be attributed in part to an unusual winter, records of the New York weather bureau showing that 1931 had been the warmest since 1868.

Revenues from freight transportation other than anthracite decreased 16.5 per cent and returns from passenger traffic declined 13.9 per cent.

Total revenues of the Lackawanna were $58,674,837 in 1931 against $69,661,490 in 1930. As previously reported, net income was -1,090,690, or 65 cents a share on the -50 par stock, against $6,082,575, or $3.60 a share, in 1930. Profit and loss surplus was $68,952,421 on Dec. 1, 1930.

Pullman, Inc.

Kindly furnish me with any information you have on stock of Pullman, as listed on the New York Stock exchange.—J. H. B.

Pullman, Inc., through subsidiaries, supplies sleeping car and other special railroad car service, practically without competition, in the United States. It is one of the leading manufacturers of freight cars and an important factor in the production of passenger cars, car wheels, and other parts.

Pullman company, the car operating subsidiary, earned $3,264,000 in 1931, against $5,691,000 in 1930, and $10,427,000 in 1929. The manufacturing division, Pullman Railroad, lost $3,025,000, against a gain of $10,046,000 for 1930, and a gain of $6,162,000 for 1929. Net income from investments for 1931 was $2,527,000, against $3,324,000 for 1930, and $3,041,000 for 1929.

Total net income for 1931, after taxes, was $2,379,000, or 61 cents per share, against net of $16,943,000, or $4.37 per share for 1930, and $17,679,000, or $5.24 per share for 1929.

The number of revenue passengers carried and the average loading per car of Pullman company has shown a downward trend for the last four years. In 1931 22,985,000 passengers were carried, against 35,197,000 in 1927. In 1931 the average number of passengers carried per car was 9.65, against 12.36 in 1927.

The drastic decline in railroad traffic and the reduced purchasing power of the railroads have been the major causes of decreased activity in the manufacturing division.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $82,394,000 and current liabilities were $14,058,000. Cash and marketable securities were $41,195,000. Working capital was $68,336,000, against $72,736,000 the year before.

There was no funded debt. There were outstanding 3,874,566 shares of no par capital stock. Dividends are 75 cents a quarter.

Pullman company reported net profit of $27,600 for February, 1932. For the first two months of this year net loss was $7,500, against net income of $108,000 for the corresponding 1931 period. The improvement in earnings in February over January, 1932, reflects the wage reduction effected Feb. 1.

The company is experimenting with air conditioning equipment for its sleeping cars. In an effort to increase gross it is stressing the sale of single occupancy sections and the use of Pullman cars for excursions.

The bonus system of rewards for sales by conductors has been highly successful.

FALL OF STOCKS, ALSO RAIN, HITS PRICE OF WHEAT

Close Lower After Day's Rise and Fall.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Many of the local longs in July wheat were impressed yesterday by the weakness in the stock market and also by the reports of scattered rains in parts of Kansas and Nebraska. That started unloading of wheat. An early break of around ½c was followed by a rally which carried prices about the same amount above Saturday's finish. Toward the last, however, pressure became more pronounced. At the inside July showed 1¼c under the previous close. Final trades were at the bottom with net losses of ¾@1¼c. May closed at 58¼@58⅜c, old July, 60¾@60⅞c, and old September, 63@63⅛c.

Crop damage reports continue to come from the Kansas and Nebraska winter wheat areas and messages indicated that no amount of rain would revive the grain in parts of the western sections of the two states. However, the additional moisture is expected to check deterioration in the more eastern sections.

Liverpool Wheat Strong.

May wheat showed more strength than the July, as the main pressure was on the latter delivery, and the spread at the last was around 2½c, against 3c at the finish on Saturday. Some stop loss orders were uncovered on the way down, with the break checked by buying against bids. The action of the stock market was such as to discourage many holders of grain and part of the late break was in sympathy with securities.

Wheat traders were uneasy over the rain reports from the west and southwest from the opening and paid little attention to the relative strength in Liverpool, which closed unchanged to ¼c per bu higher with May at 59½c, going to a premium of ¾c over the same delivery in Chicago. The continent was reported as after cash wheat abroad and this was reflected in a good class of buying at Winnipeg. The latter closed ⅛@¼c lower with May at 63⅛c in Canadian funds. Export sales of 500,000 bu Manitobas and 200,000 bu hard winter were estimated in all positions, the latter being sold by the farm board to Greece.

The trade was given a surprise by a decrease of 6,131,000 bu in the domestic visible supply, which brought the total down to 185,998,000 bu, or about 21,000,000 bu less than on March 12 and compared with 197,731,000 bu last year.

Corn Nears Season's Low.

All deliveries of corn dropped yesterday to within a fraction of the lowest figures of the season in sympathy with wheat, and the finish was at net losses of ½@⅝c with May at 33¼c, or only ⅝c above the inside price so far on the crop. July was 36⅝@36½c, and September, 39c. The local element were on the selling side and there was little in the news to encourage buying except reports that Chicago was now able to compete with Indiana and Ohio in the New England trade, and there were sales of cash corn there for the first time in weeks. The country sold 35,000 bu to arrive.

Visible supply of corn was reduced 303,000 bu the last week and now aggregates 21,532,000 bu, compared with 18,703,000 bu last year. Another cargo of corn is expected to clear from Chicago overnight for an eastern port.

Oats finished ¼@½c lower on selling induced largely by the weakness in other grains. May was 23⅝@23½c, July, 23⅞c, and September, 24⅝c. A need of rain was reported for the new crop in various parts of the belt. Rye was off ⅝c at the last with May, 44⅝c, July, 46⅝c, and September, 48⅝c. Nothing was heard regarding export business.

Hartman Corp. Reports Improved Operations

The Hartman corporation, operating 40 furniture and carpet stores in the middle west, reported yesterday that it had definitely reversed a general trend of increasing losses. The report said that during the first quarter of 1932 operating loss of the corporation had been reduced 69 per cent, and borrowed money reduced $450,000 to the lowest point since 1924. The corporation also reported that cash business and percentage of collections had never been as high as at present, and that down payments had been more than doubled.

Prices of Gasoline Raised by Standard Oil of Ohio

Cleveland, O., April 18.—An increase of 1 cent a gallon in the price of gasoline was announced today by the Standard Oil Company of Ohio. The new prices will be 21, 18, and 16 cents a gallon, and reëstablishes the rate prevailing at the first of the year. The price includes 4 cent gasoline tax. W. T. Holliday, president, said the "advance is in line with the general upward trend of the petroleum price structure."

RECEIVERS ARE NAMED FOR TWO RISK COMPANIES

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley yesterday appointed receivers for the Security Life Insurance Company of America and the Inter-Southern Life Insurance company. John H. Massen is receiver for the former concern and Fred E. Hummel for the other, both in bonds of $50,000.

Mrs. Emma H. Rheinberger, a stockholder, charged that the Security Life Insurance company has outstanding 50,000 shares of stock at $5 par and outstanding insurance of $57,000,000. She also alleged that the company is required by law to maintain a reserve of $9,000,000, to insure sufficient accrued value to the policy holders, and that the reserve on hand is much less than this amount.

J. H. Edwards, plaintiff in the other suit, charged that the Inter-Southern company is insolvent and that real estate carried on its books as worth in excess of $2,000,000 with incumbrances of $1,200,000 produces an annual rental of only $150,000.

Top yesterday, $7.50; average, $7.10.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 20,000; sheep, 12,000.

There was no change in the sluggish condition of the market for heavy pork products yesterday. Consequently the demand for big hogs narowed again. Prices were driven down 5@10c more. Stock exceeding 300 lbs in weight was a drug on the market.

Hogs weighing more than 325 lbs sank a shade below the previous low spot of the winter, selling at $3.35@3.45. The general average price went down 5c to $3.85 and now stands only 10c above the lowest daily average in almost 33 years. Light weights met fairly good eastern demand at the opening and sold in line with Saturday. The top at $4.35 was steady, but the general market at the finish showed 25c loss compared with the high spot last Friday.

The anticipated widening of the price range came yesterday. The top and general average prices stood 50c apart. This equaled the widest for Monday since Oct. 5. The rank and file of old heavy packing sows met slow sale at $2.90@3.00, smooth 350@375 lb averages going at $3.05@3.10.

Offer June Hogs at $5.

May and June light and medium weight hogs were offered at $5.00 on the futures trade yesterday without attracting a bid of more than $4.50. July contracts could be purchased as low as $5.50 at the close, while September light and medium weights were being offered at $5.75 and heavy grades as low as $5.25. The latter were bid $5.00.

Considering the influence of Jewish holidays, which come Thursday and Friday of this week and Wednesday and Thursday of next week, the cattle trade behaved fairly well when 15,000 head arrived. The supply exceeded earlier expectations and this tended to slow down trading some at the opening when losses of 15@25c were cited. Reports that there will be no Kosher slaughtering after Wednesday of this week until next Monday, worked a hardship on the market for weighty beeves, which depend a good deal on this outlet for support.

Outside demand was also light and sellers were forced to go to local interests for bids on top classes. Choice 1,406 lb steers went to Swift at $8.00, the top which was also paid by shippers for 1,063 lb yearlings. The bulk of all steers sold within a range of $5.25@7.00, with only a scattering of ill bred low grade stock below $5.00.

Packers are finding the medium to good grades of steers at $6.50@7.50 comparatively cheap when compared to the yields obtained from the $5.00@6.00 kinds, so have switched a good many orders into the better classes. Plainer kinds were slow and weak to 25c lower, a contrast to last week's market for stock selling at $6.00 and below. Butcher stock sold slowly at steady to slightly lower prices. Calves held steady. Stockers and feeders were dull and barely steady.

Spring Lambs, $10.00.

The short supply of spring lambs met good demand at strong to higher prices yesterday, while aged wool lambs ruled mostly steady and old mutton sheep dipped sharply to the lowest levels in recent weeks. A lot of 28 Colorado springers, averaging 78 lbs, reached $10.00, highest of the season for a sizable lot. Five carloads of California spring lambs brought $8.25@8.35, while some inferior Texas new crop lambs went at $5.00.

The Greek Easter, which comes May 1 this year, is always a big factor in the market for these early lambs which go principally for holiday and religious festivities. Aged wool lambs sold at $7.00@7.50, packers paying the outside figure for Colorados. Old ewes of handy weights brought $3.50, with heavy mutton stock at $3.00 and below.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 5,000 cattle, 20,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep, against 8,680 cattle, 23,187 hogs, and 22,426 sheep the previous Tuesday, and 9,535 cattle, 23,017 hogs, and 13,090 sheep a year ago.

HIDE FUTURES

Outside interest on the New York Hide exchange was light with total sales of 480,000 lbs. Old contracts closed unchanged to 4 points higher and new unchanged to 5 points higher. Closing bids—old contract—June, 4.15c; September, 4.80c; December, 5.35c; March, 5.70c; new contracts—June, 4.15c; September, 4.75c; December, 5.30c; March, 5.70c.

EASY TONE IN LARD

Weakness in grains and the stock market had a depressing influence on provision prices, inducing fair liquidation and short selling and a lower range. Net losses were 5c on lard, while bellies closed the same as Saturday. There were sales of May lard against purchases of September at 37½c spread. In all, though, business is not heavy. Liverpool lard was unchanged for spot to 3d and 6d lower on futures, and exports of lard for the week were 6,779,000 lbs against 11,443,000 lbs last year. Of bacon they were 1,590,000 lbs against 2,096,000 lbs last year. Hog supplies were smaller than a week and a year ago, though ample for all trade requirements. The market was steady early and weak to 10c lower later. Prices follow:

BUTTER FUTURES ADVANCE

Butter and egg futures scored another gain on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, continuing the fractional upturns of the last three sessions. Butter closed ¼@⅜c and eggs ⅛@⅜c higher. Butter news was more favorable, the four markets increasing the shortage by 88,800 lbs and receipts dropping off from last year. Covering in April was prominent and new buying was fair in November. Heavy egg receipts brought in sharp selling at the opening but support improved near the close and the market worked back from the early decline. An increase in the egg shortage by 23,000 cases was reported by the four markets. Sales: Butter, 36 cars; eggs, 74 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 3 cars. Prices follow:

LIVING COSTS AT ROSENWALD FLATS ARE CUT

Electricity and Gas Will Be Free.

BY AL CHASE.

What is said will be equal to a rent reduction of $10 per month was announced last night to all of the 1,600 occupants of the 421 suites of the Michigan Boulevard Garden apartments, the big housing project of the late Julius Rosenwald. This benefit to the renters, according to Alfred K. Stern, president of the Michigan Boulevard Garden Apartments Building corporation, and a son-in-law of Mr. Rosenwald, will be brought about by the owners supplying the tenants with free gas and electricity. Free refrigeration and a bonus system also is figured in arriving at this $10 total.

ALFRED K. STERN.

This latest contribution toward making the cost of living easier for the colored residents of the garden apartments at Michigan avenue and 47th street will be effective on June 1, according to an announcement made by Robert R. Taylor, manager of the corporation. This follows, by the way, a substantial reduction in rentals on Feb. 1.

Get Free Refrigeration.

"The management is pleased to announce that beginning on June 1, 1932, your gas and electric bills will be paid by the corporation," Mr. Taylor's letter to the tenants reads. "This reduction in your actual rent cost adds a further savings to the many others which you are now receiving, such as: 1. Estimated savings on gas and electricity per month, $4. 2. Average bonus certificate savings on two year leases, per month, $2.50. 3. Average savings on refrigeration per month, $3.50, or a total of $10.

The average four room apartment now rents for $60. Mr. Taylor estimates that by June 1 the average rent will, in effect, amount to $50. The average bonus plan has been in effect for about a year. Tenants who sign a two year lease are credited with a $2.50 bonus each month that they pay their rental promptly. At the end of the term if the suite is in good condition they are given the total bonus in cash.

Sheridan Road Purchase.

The National Tea company has purchased the two story business building at 6566-70 Sheridan road, in the Loyola "L" station area, from John Rogers Linn, head of Linn Brothers, one of the oldest undertaking firms in the city. The price was not disclosed, but the property was bought subject to a five year $35,000 first mortgage. The site fronts 50 feet on Sheridan road and has a depth of 150 feet. The property is appraised for tax purposes at $61,730.

T. H. Rasmussen, secretary and treasurer of the National Tea company, states that upon the expiration of several of the leases within a few months extensive remodeling will take place and the leasing company will occupy a large double store. Woolworth's are shortly to open a new store in an adjoining property. J. J. Hutchinson of McMenemy, Inc., was the only broker. A. A. Yort was attorney for the National Tea company.

S. W. STRAUS CO. SUED; PREDICTS CASE WILL FAIL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 18.—A suit for an accounting of various mortgage bond issues which S. W. Straus & Co., Inc., have marketed was filed today in Supreme court by Reuben S. Adler, suing as a bondholder. He charges that officers of the company paid themselves secret bonuses and that in some instances misrepresentation was practiced upon customers.

In reply, Nicholas Roberts, president of the company, said:

"The suit has no merit whatsoever, consisting only of vague innuendoes, and we are advised by our counsel that it will be dismissed on motion for failure to state any ground for action. The parties concerned are endeavoring to form a bondholders' committee for the purpose of obtaining management of the properties."

Packard to Transfer Ten Million Dollars to Surplus

New York, April 18.—(AP)—Stockholders of the Packard Motor Car company today voted to transfer $10,000,000 from capital to surplus, which will return to surplus one-half of the amount taken from it June, 1929, when outstanding stock was increased to 15,000,000 shares from 3,000,000 shares.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP)—Raw sugar was a little easier today and prices declined 2 points under increased offering of duty frees. Sales reported included about 66,000 bags of Philippines, late April or early May arrival, and 45,000 bags of Porto Rican for prompt shipment, all to local refiners, at 2.63c. After a steady start futures weakened under increased liquidation and selling by producing interests, with final prices 4 to 5 points net lower. The market opened unchanged to 1 point higher on covering and a little trade buying, influenced by the firmer London cables. Approximate sales, 14,050 tons. Prices follow:

Refined sugar was unchanged at 3.90c for fine granulated, with only a light hand to mouth inquiry reported.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, April 18.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil today closed irregular at 2 points decline to 3 net advance. Sales 16 contracts of which 12 were in the way of exchanges. Easiness of cotton, lard and grains, offset the steadiness of hogs and some unfavorable cotton weather. Crude oil was 2⅝c to 2¾c in the southeast and the valley, and 2½c bid in Texas. Bleachable spot and May closed 3.45c; July, 3.58c; September, 3.74c; November, 3.92c. There were no sales in prime summer yellow contracts, with closing prices as follows: Spot, 3.40c; May, 3.30c; July, 3.40c; September, 3.60c.

STOCKS SLIP AS TRADERS HERE MOVE WARILY

The complete lack of buying incentive led to further moderate price recessions in the trading yesterday on the Chicago exchange. Business was dull and offerings light.

Uncertainty of the U. S. Steel meeting and American Telephone's decline to 100 caused traders to restrict operations. Interest in the Insull securities lagged. The higher priced issues in the group showed losses in keeping with the general trend but the lower priced stocks showed little or no change.

Commonwealth Edison lost 3½ points to 66 on a limited turnover of stock. Public Service no par gave up 6½ points to 55. Safety of the dividend rates on these stocks is being questioned despite the favorable earnings during the first quarter. If the decline in American Telephone means a dividend readjustment in the offing, as is generally believed, La Salle street feels that other well intrenched utility companies will follow the leader.

The first trade in several months in Balaban and Katz common was made yesterday at 20¾, compared with the last price of 26. The reduction in the dividend yesterday from $3 to $1.50 yearly is expected to prove a negligible market factor as more than 90 per cent of the stock is held by the Paramount Public corporation. The 37½ cents quarterly disbursement authorized yesterday is payable July 2 to holders of record June 18.
